FIGHTING ALL ALONG WESTERN FRONT

ROOSEVELT PROCLAIMS AMERICAN NEUTRALITY

Signs Long List of Regulations Designed to Prevent Acts That Might European Conflict.

ENLISTING ON EITHER SIDE IS FORBIDDEN

Use of U. S. Waters by Belligerent's Ships for War Purposes Barred — Also Outfitting of Combatant Vessels.

WASHINGTON Sept 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt proclaimed the United States' neutrality today.

He signed, and Secretary of State Hull countersigned, a proclamation of more than 4000 words establishing an extensive list of regulations designed to keep Americans from projecting the United States into the European war.

The President's proclamation gave a name to the war in Europe.

It was described as "the war between Germany and France, Poland and the United Kingdom, India, Australia and New Zealand."

Another proclamation, to be issued under the 1937 Neutrality Act, was scheduled for consideration at a White House conference later in the afternoon It will put in operation an embargo on exports of arms, ammunition and implements of war to the combatant nations.

First Proclamation

In the first proclamation, issued under acts of 1909 and 1917, the President said that: "Whereas a state of war unhappily exists between Germany and France; Poland; and the United Kingdom, India, Australia and New Zealand;

"And whereas the United States is on terms of friendship and amity with the contending Powers, and with the persons inhabiting their several dominions . . .

"And whereas it is the duty of a neutral government not to permit or suffer the making of its territory or territorial waters subservient to the purposes of war;

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in order to preserve the neutrality of the United States and of its citizens and of persons within its territory and jurisdiction, and to enforce its laws and treaties, and in order that all persons, being warned of the general tenor of the laws and treaties of the United States in this behalf, and of the law of nations, may thus be prevented from any violation of the same, do hereby declare and proclaim that by certain provisions of the act approved on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1909, commonly known as the 'Penal Code of the United States,' and of the act approved on the fifteenth day of June, A. D. 1917, the following acts are forbidden to be done, under severe penalties, within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States."

Acts Forbidden.

Seven closely written mimeographed pages of prohibitions and restrictions thereupuon followed.

They forbade:

Accepting and exercising a commission to serve one of the belligerents.

Enlisting in the service of a bel-

BERLIN BOMBED BY 30 POLISH PLANES

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 5 (AP).—Berlin was bombed tonight by 30 Polish planes, the Polish radio declared.

ARMIES ENGAGED IN NORTH FROM MOSELLE TO RHINE; REICH'S SOUTH LINE SHELLED

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP). — Heavy French artillery fire was directed against the southern flank of Germany's "western wall" fortifications today, while apparently more direct French operations were proceeding against the northern end of the front.

French troops were officially announced late today to be in general contact with the Germans along the entire northern sector.

Army communique No. 4 said:

"Our troops are in contact everywhere along the frontier between the Rhine and Moselle.

"It is recalled that on the Rhine permanent fortifications border the river here and there."

Semi-official sources said the southern artillery fire was designed to soften the fortified German line.

Earlier the Government announced French troops had penetrated German territory.

Disorders in Reich Reported.

A semi-official Paris radio reported trouble in Germany, and said there had been disorders in Cologne, Dusseldorf and Essen, as well as the areas of all Czecho-Slovakia.

Dispatches from Copenhagen report naval fighting off the coast of Denmark.

An earlier French Government announcement said "movements develop normally for the entire land, sea and air forces."

Germany replied to French troop action with an aerial invasion which brought an early morning air raid alarm to Paris. Later, an official military source said the planes had come on a scouting trip, without dropping bombs.

France's operations were understood to be testing Germany's fortifications to seek the weak point of the Siegfried line and divert German forces from Poland.

"There could be no question for the moment of a great offensive," wrote Charles Morice in Le Petit Parisien, "but of necessary preliminary operations. Our troops have received a baptism of fire. From one end of the line to the other they have shown perfect calm and fine valor."

Sirens wailed on top of Paris buildings at 3:35 this morning (8:35

'Not Our War,' Says Message Ascribed to German Workers

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (Via Radio).

"IT is not our war," German workers were described as saying today in a message sent over news tickers in London.

"We have nothing in common with the present regime; the German workers and peasants do not want war and have nothing in common with the Nazi regime," said the communication to the Independent Labor Party from the Independent Socialists in Germany.

"Hitler begins the war with Poland against the will of large masses of the population. Comrades, we love Germany, but though we love our native country we have nothing in common with the present regime."

The Ministry of Information announced tonight that planes of the Royal Air Force had dropped 3,000,000 additional pamphlet appeals to the German people in extensive reconnaissance flights last night over the coal and iron ore districts of the Ruhr.

The planes, the ministry said, returned safely without having been engaged by German pursuit planes. On a previous such propaganda raid, 6,000,000 leaflets were reported dropped. These leaflets blamed German leadership for the war and said British people wanted to live in peace with the German people.

A Paris radio station reported disorders today in the German cities of Cologne, Dusseldorf and Essen and in former Czecho-Slovak areas now under German domination.

A Bartislava report said Slovak soldiers were sandwiched between Germans on the Polish front to prevent desertions by the Slovaks. The same dispatch said the Slovak Minister to Warsaw had taken sides with Poland and had broadcast an appeal to his people to "revolt against the German yoke."

BRITISH BOMB TWO GERMAN BATTLESHIPS IN DAY RAID

Say They Inflicted Severe Damage in Attack at Entrance to Kiel Canal, in Which Flyers Suffered Some Casualties.

GERMANS REPORT 10 PLANES DOWNED

British Press Acclaims Feat as Gallant Exploit — Chamberlain's Message to German People Broadcast Frequently.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Great Britain's first blow at Germany—a spectacular bombing raid against the German fleet—was declared officially today to have been struck successfully.

The British Royal Air Force, a communique issued by the Ministry of Information said, scored direct hits with heavy bombs and damaged two German battleships severely. The German navy has only five.

The Royal Air Force bombers carried out the daylight raid yesterday afternoon against the German fleet at the entrance of the strategic Kiel Canal linking the North Sea with the Baltic.

The aerial attack followed a night mass flight of British aircraft showering Northern and Western Germany with 6,000,000 copies of a message to the German people.

The message blamed the war on German leadership and declared British people want to live in peace with the German people.

That British planes were able to carry out this big scale flight over German territory and return to their bases without casualties was hailed here as highly significant in view of frequent Nazi boasts of the impregnability of their aerial defenses.

Casualties in Attack on Fleet.

The communique mentioned "some casualties" in the attack on the battleships. British newspapers published a German news agency report that five British bombers which had participated in the raid were brought down by anti-aircraft batteries.

(Revising their previous statement that five of 12 British raiders were destroyed, German officials in Berlin said today 10 of the attackers were downed, and de-

Survivors Tell Graphic Stories of How Women and Children Were Drowned

PERHAPS the saddest sight of all when survivors of the Athenia arrived in Scotland today was 9-year-old ROY BARRINGTON. His mother, MRS. JOSEPH C. BARRINGTON, went down with the liner. They are pictured at the time they sailed for Europe.

One Lifeboat Carrying 70 Persons Fell Into Water — Several Passengers Report Seeing Submarine

GREENOCK, Scotland, Sept. 5 (AP).—Victims of the war's first great sea tragedy, 600 shaken and weeping survivors of the torpedoed British liner Athenia, arrived on rescue ships today with graphic stories of the disaster.

Two hundred of those arriving here were injured.

One survivor, John McEwan of Glasgow, said a submarine torpedoed the Athenia and then twice shelled the vessel as her lifeboats were being lowered.

(German authorities in Berlin categorically denied that a German submarine was involved).

An undetermined number of Americans and Canadians were among the injured brought here.

Saw Children Who Drowned.

A member of one of the rescue crews said the first S. O. S. from the Athenia was received at 10 p. m. Sunday (4 p. m. St. Louis time).

"I saw the Athenia take her final plunge, stern first, the next morning," he declared. "I saw a group of five boats and in the water a number of young children who had been drowned. The boats were full, some of them badly flooded and some had people clinging to their sides."

Glasgow mobilized hospitals and nursing homes to accommodate the injured while other agencies planned to care for other refugees, many of them thinly clad and weak from

STOCKS UP $1 TO $19 IN WAR BUYING WAVE

Commodities Also Rise, Cotton $4 at Peak—Grains Jump Daily Limit.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. — Wall Street experienced one of the most spectacular upsurges in prices of stocks and commodities in its history today, as resumption of trading after the Labor day holiday found a feverish urge to buy in expectation of "war" prices.

Stocks shot up $1 to $19 a share in the most frantic trading seen in the Stock Exchange in the last few years.

Orders for raw staples, such as metals, textiles and chemicals, were poured into dealers' offices in such volume that many found it impossible to decide on price schedules.

In the organized commodity markets for options for future delivery, grains, rubber, hides, cocoa, sugar, wool and tin, trading ceased when prices were increased the full limit permitted in a single day's trading.

Firms Refuse to Answer Phones.

Brokers said there was no day like it in the war boom of 1915 and 1916. In Worth Street, center of the primary textile market, dealers were so besieged by customers that many refused to answer their telephones, or to make prices.

Wall Street scenes were reminis-

Paris Shrouded in Artificial Fog During City's First Air Raid Alarm

Million Persons Take to Cellars When Sirens Wail at 3:35 A. M.—Normal Activity Resumed After 3½ Hours.

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP).—The war came home to the million or so persons still in Paris at 3:35 this morning (8:35 o'clock last night, St. Louis time) when air raid sirens routed them out of bed and into their cellars.

For the half-hour's time it has been figured it would take German planes to travel from the French frontier to the capital, the life of the city went underground, and the metropolis lay empty in bright moonlight.

Soon clouds of artificial fog drifted across the face of the moon, obscuring the city from aerial raiders.

When dawn came two hours after the alarm sounded, the populace started emerging from places of refuge, but defense wardens and police whistled them back to cover.

After three and a half hours, a new siren call ended the alarm at 7:05 a. m. and traffic, and electric, water and gas services resumed.

The state of siege which the Government proclaimed Friday, when Germany invaded Poland, and the state of war which began Sunday finally had become a reality to those who, until now, had read of the war's developments in wonderment.

When the sirens first started moaning and then raised their wails

CAPTAIN SO REPORTS, UNCERTAIN OF NUMBER; 200 INJURED LANDED

Master Says Submarine Shelled Ship After Torpedo Struck Without Warning — Rescue Vessel's Propeller Shattered Lifeboat, Drowning Perhaps 20—Rumor That 90 Perished.

GALWAY, Ireland, Sept. 5 (AP).—The master of the stricken British liner Athenia, sunk Sunday, said on his arrival here today that his ship "was hit by a torpedo which went through the galley and into the engine room, causing heavy loss of life."

The captain, James Cook, was brought here by the Norwegian steamer Knut Nelson with 430 other survivors of the first submarine disaster of the European war.

Capt. Cook said he did not know how many were dead and injured. (John McEwan of Glasgow, a survivor landed in Scotland, said "it was rumored 90 perished.")

Among the survivors was Dr. John Kirk of Boston, Mass., who said, "My wife was killed in the explosion, and all I want to know now is whether my two children who were traveling with us are safe."

GERMAN OFFICIALS DENY DEAL WITH SOVIET TO PARTITION POLAND

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.

OFFICIALS said today Germany has no agreement with Soviet Russia for partition of Poland.

"All we want is what we have won," they said. Their attitude was that Germany wanted to pick no further quarrel with France and Britain.

List of American Injured From Athenia Taken to Glasgow

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 5 (AP).—The following United States survivors from the Athenia were admitted injured to Glasgow Western Hospital today:

Helen Dugan, 57 years old, Detroit, Mich.

Katherine Sege, 68, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mildred Finley, 35, Soomes School, Windsor, Conn.

Helen De Witt Smith, 48, Plainfield, N. J.

Michael Flynn, 73, Orange County, New York.

Rosa Sadel, 63, "U. S. A."

Helen Hanney, 29, Houston, Tex.

An incomplete list of American survivors from the Athenia, who were landed in Scotland today, will be found on Page 5A.

CLAYTON GIRL ON ATHENIA SAFE, HER FATHER ASSERTS

Miss Barbara Hull Escaped After Torpedoing, He Says "On Very Good Information."

Miss Barbara Hull, 901 South Meramec avenue, Clayton, who was among the 1100 passengers aboard the British ship, Athenia, is safe, her father, B. D. Hull, told the Post-Dispatch today.

Hull, chief engineer for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said he had "very good information" of his daughter's safety, but declined to reveal the source of the information. He said he had received no word as yet from his daughter.

Miss Hull, 21 years old, was in a party of University of Texas girls who were returning from Europe. Associated Press dispatches quoted one of the girls as saying the entire group was safe. Mis Hull was graduated from the university last June.

Capt. Cook said that immediately after the torpedo was fired, the submarine rose to the surface and shelled the Athenia.

Shell Carried Away Mast.

"One shell carried away the main mast," he related.

"It was evidently aimed at the wireless room, but missed its mark."

He called witnesses to tell newspaper men that the torpedo was fired at a range of 800 to 1000 yards on the port side of the vessel.

On arrival at 10:25 this morning 10 persons severely injured were transferred to tenders and taken to the Galway Hospital by Irish army doctors and staff nurses.

Members of the Knut Nelson's crew said many of the Athenia's passengers were killed when the ship's boiler exploded after the torpedo struck.

After them came women and children wearing rough work clothes—lent to them by sailors aboard the Knut Nelson—over the scanty garb in which they escaped from the stricken ship.

Worn by exposure and weak from lack of sleep and irregular diet, the first survivors all told the same story.

They were asleep when awakened by a terrific explosion which shook the ship and sent children in their berths sprawling on to cabin floors.

One officer said he saw the periscope of the submarine just before the torpedo struck.

Other officers and members of the crew said they saw a line of smoke rising from the water off the port side just before the disaster. The smoke described a complete circle over the surface of the water.

The Captain added, "There was no panic whatever on board the ship. The passengers faced danger bravely."

As they came ashore the survivors crowded about the few available telephones, anxious to inform their friends of their safe arrival in Ireland.

Ruth E. Strauss of New York said, "I saw a flash on the port side of the Athenia about 800 to 1000 yards away. The torpedo struck in a few seconds and was followed by a shell. The ship was still afloat when we left the scene five hours later."

Maxine Robinson, 18, of Austin, Tex., member of a party of 16 college girls who had been on vacation in Europe, said all her party was saved.

"We were just finishing dinner," she said, "when we felt a jolt and the ship was plunged into darkness. All of us jumped up on the tables.

GERMANS TAKE INDUSTRIAL CENTERS IN SILESIA, MOVE ON KRAKOW

KATOWICE FALLS WITH CHORZOW; POLISH DIVISION REPORTED ROUTED

Berlin Says 15,000 Prisoners Have Been Taken in Southwestern Area and Much War Material Has Been Captured.

HITLER FOLLOWS TROOPS IN CORRIDOR

His Trip to Front Marks Union of Territory Split by Treaty—Goering Proclaims 50 Per Cent Income Tax.

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (AP).—Germany today announced capture of two rich Polish industrial cities, Katowice and Chorzow, near the Polish-German frontier in Silesia.

Both towns, on the direct route to Krakow, Poland's ancient capital, virtually had been surrounded by previous attacks where the German border bulges into Southwestern Poland, but the final thrust against them had been delayed.

Germans had said they feared the Poles would blow up mines and steel rolling mills which they said were mined with explosives, but the Poles were said to have been surprised and fled without damaging the valuable property.

11 Planes Destroyed.

Capture of the two towns is expected to give Germany control of the highly important Upper Silesian industrial region.

A United States concern, the American Silesian Co., owns the so-called Harriman-Giesche Zinc Mines at Katowice.

In addition to capturing Katowice and Chorzow, Germany officially reported the destruction of 11 Polish planes in an air battle today between Lodz and Warsaw. Lodz is midway between the German frontier and the Polish capital.

Germany claimed to have crushed the entire Seventh Polish army division southeast of Czestochowa, which was captured two days ago on the Silesian front. The division staff officers were said to have been taken prisoner. (A division usually is 10,000 to 15,000 men).

The German news agency announced, too, that a third Polish submarine had been sunk by the German Navy in Danzig Harbor and that an English bomber had been shot down by a German seaplane over the Dogger Bank in the North Sea.

The agency asserted that the pilot of the German plane then rescued the English pilot from his sinking machine.

Army's Official Statement.

A communique of the supreme army command today said:

"The German Eastern army on Sept. 4 broke the enemy's resistance on all fronts and pushed ahead irresistibly. The opponent, partly retreating disorderly, was badly shattered. The number of prisoners and captured war materials is not yet determinable. The Seventh Polish Division staff was captured.

"The pursuit upon Krakow continued in a steady advance in the south. The Skawa sector near Wadowice was traversed. Farther north, Jawerzno was taken. The enemy was precipitately evacuating the Upper Silesian industrial region. A Warta River crossing was forced near Sieradz. Since yesterday, indications point to a growing recognition of the encircled Polish corridor army of their hopeless situation, as they are trying desperate individual operations to force open the iron ring.

"The Grudziadz fortifications were taken. Troops which are near and south of Culm crossed the Vistula (River) in the presence of the Fuehrer, supreme commander, and are advancing rapidly from the eastern bank. Prussian troops in hard man-to-man fighting, near Miawa took the town and fortifications. The defeated enemy is retreating southward.

"The navy executed protection measures along the German coast on schedule.

15 Polish Planes Shot Down.

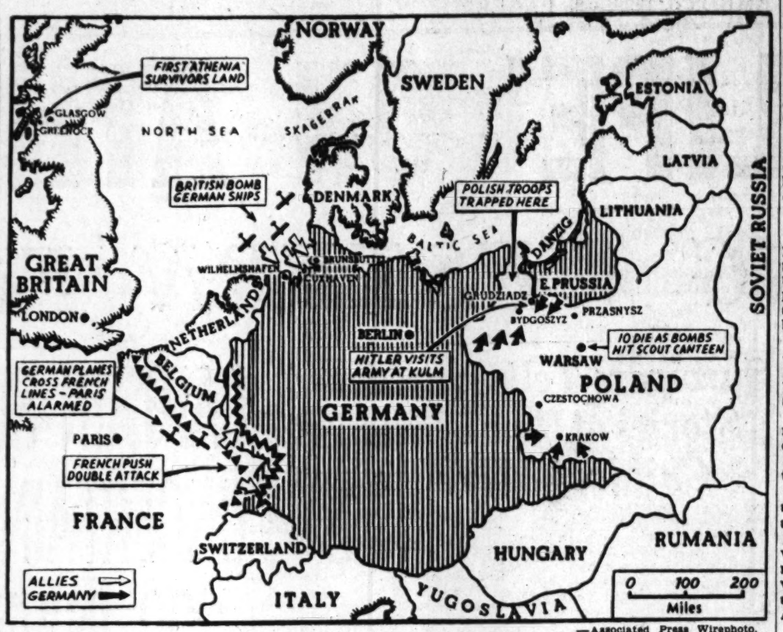

"The air force is ruling the air. Forty Polish planes were destroyed, 15 thereof in an air battle. A planned retreat of the enemy was increasingly frustrated through air raids on the enemy's marching columns and troop trains.

"On the North Sea coast about 6 p. m. (Sept. 4) English fighting planes of the most modern construction attacked Wilmeshaven and Cuxhaven as well as naval forces lying in the estuaries.

"Anti-aircraft defense of the navy began early and effectively so that the raid on Cuxhaven was frustrated completely, while bombs on Wilmeshaven caused no dam-

U. S. MINISTER GETS TESTIMONY THAT ATHENIA WAS SUNK BY TORPEDO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).

THE Government began gathering testimony today to fix responsibility for the sinking of the liner Athenia with more than 300 American aboard.

The State Department announced that the American Minister to Ireland, John Cudahy, went from Dublin to Galway and cabled from the latter port that he had interviewed the captain of the Athenia, members of the crew and a number of American passengers.

They all stated, he cabled, that the Athenia was sunk by a submarine.

Cudahy reported that many of those who landed at Galway had lost all their possessions.

"HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE" ON ATHENIA; SHIP WAS SHELLED BY GERMANS

Then we went up on deck and slid down the ropes to the lifeboats.

"We were in the lifeboat only a few minutes when there was a flash and we felt something whiz past us going in the direction of the liner. We were four hours in the lifeboat before help arrived. My hands are all blistered from rowing."

Dining Room Flooded.

Gordon Hanson, member of the art department of the Boston Herald, bewailed the loss of pictures he had painted during a vacation in Norway.

"The Germans say it was sunk by a mine, do they?" he asked.

"They are crazy. We saw smoke in the distance after the first torpedo was fired. Then the submarine fired a shell at the wireless rig, but it fell short. After the torpedo hit the ship the third class dining salon was flooded almost immediately."

250 Americans at Galway.

About 250 Americans were among those brought here. Many wore night clothes and blankets — 36 hours after the disaster. The Norwegian vessel carried no regular physician; so two doctors went out last night from Galway to meet the Knut Nelson outside the Aran Islands.

An improvised hot food depot at the dock was operated by an emergency committee at the direction of the Bishop of Galway. A preparatory college building was used as a receiving station where clothing was provided.

The injured brought by the Knut Nelson were being cared for in Galway Central Hospital. Convents, schools and hotels were thrown open for the uninjured.

A woman's committee under direction of the Lord Mayoress of Galway helped care for the injured.

Because there were only 20 berths on the Knut Nelson some of the injured had to lie on improvised beds on deck.

John Cudahy, United States Minister o Ireland, watched the transfer of the rescue passengers from the Norwegian ship to the tender which brought them ashore.

RED CROSS SENDS $10,000 TO SURVIVORS OF ATHENIA

Relief Fund for Americans on Torpedoed Ship Cabled to Ambassador Kennedy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—The American Red Cross cabled $10,000 to Joseph Kennedy, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, today to be used as a relief fund for American survivors of the torpedoed Athenia.

Pope's Radio Talk Canceled.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—The world-wide broadcast of Pope Pius XII scheduled for Wednesday morning has been canceled, according to the NBC's representative in Rome.

BULLETINS

Steamer Bosnia Torpedoed; Crew Saved.

LIVERPOOL, England, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Cunard Line announced today that its steamer Bosnia had been sunk by a submarine and her crew of 23 rescued by a Norwegian tanker. A message from the 2407-ton Bosnia, interrupted before completion, gave her position as about 100 miles off the Scottish Coast. The tanker was reported proceeding to Lisbon with the rescued.

One death aboard the Bosnia was reported, that of a fireman named Woods.

The Bosnia was set ablaze by gunfire and then torpedoed, the company announced.

German Ship, Carl Fritzen, Sunk.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Information was received in London today that the German ship Carl Fritzen had been sunk and that its crew was safe.

The announcement likewise recounted the already reported sinking of the German ship Olinda, sent to the bottom Sunday by the guns of the British cruiser Ajax.

The Carl Fritzen, of 659 tons gross and owned by J. Fritzen & Sons, was bound from Scheidam, The Netherlands, for Canada or Buenos Aires.

Hitler Visits Hospital Train.

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (AP).—DNB, the official German news agency, reported today from "the Fuehrer's headquarters on the east front" that Adolf Hitler had walked through a hospital train, talking with each wounded soldier.

Hitler's special, the dispatch added, chanced to be standing at a station as the train carrying wounded men arrived from the front.

Turkey to Act If Italy Does.

ISTANBUL, Sept. 5 (AP).—Competent circles said today that Turkey, faithful to its alliance with Great Britain and France, would maintain an "attitude of expectation" with a close watch on Italy.

It was emphasized that Turkey would move immediately should Italy shows signs of joining Germany.

Parliament has been called for Sept. 11.

The Turkish-German trade agreement, which expired Aug. 31, is not being renewed, it was said, because Germany failed to deliver military supplies as payment for Turkish goods.

Two British Scouting Planes Shot Down.

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (AP).—The official German news agency, DNB, announced two British scouting planes were shot down over Hamburg today. The news bureau asserted that four British planes appeared over Hamburg during the afternoon and were promptly engaged by German scouting planes.

Three German Ships Reported Seized.

HAUGESUND, Norway, Sept. 5 (AP).—It was reported without confirmation today that three German ships carrying iron ore had been seized Sunday by British warcraft off Utsira. Other German ore ships are expected to seek refuge in Trondheim. The German steamer Freiburg of the Hamburg Amrican Line arrived today in Bergen, disguised as a Soviet ship with identity marks on her funnels altered accordingly.

Britain Takes Control of Employment.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Ministry of Labor assumed control today of all employment in Great Britain for the duration of the war.

After a date to be specified, employers may not engage or rehire employes without the Ministry's approval.

Emden-Azores Cable "Interrupted."

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Commercial Cable Co. reported today its cable service between Emden, Germany, and the Azores had been "interrupted" by some unexplained cause.

The Emden-Azores cable passes through the English Channel. British authorities made no immediate comment. The Azores, off the coast of Portugal, is a relay point for various trans-Atlantic cable services.

Dutch Ship Reported Seized by British.

HAMBURG, Sept. 5 (AP, via Radio).—The official German radio reported today a Dutch freighter, carrying ore "which was possibly destined for Germany," was stopped by a British warship and escorted into Ramsgate harbor, England. The station ascribed its report to the Dutch newspaper, Allgemeen Handelsblatt.

Crowds Damage Prague Jewish Shops.

PRAGUE, Sept. 5 (AP).—Twenty Jewish shops were raided and damaged by crowds today. Afterward police guarded the stores while crowds shouted anti-Jewish slogans.

Britain Restricts Tourists on Exchange.

LONDON, Sept 5 (AP).—An official order today stated foreign tourists may not take more than £25 (currently about $100) in foreign exchange from the United Kingdom unless a special permit is obtained.

Parliament to Adjourn Thursday.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today he hoped all outstanding business could be disposed of by Thursday, when he would propose adjournment until next Wednesday.

Graphic Stories Told by Athenia Survivors

exposure to the winds of the North Atlantic.

Perhaps the saddest sight of all was 9-year-old Roy Barrington of Toronto. His mother went down with the Athenia.

As the rescue work went on no one could say definitely how many had been killed or drowned in the disaster.

Propeller Shatters Lifeboat.

One rumor said 90 had died. Some persons said the figure was far greater and pointed out that 20 or more must have drowned when the propeller of the Norwegian rescue ship Knut Nelson shattered a lifeboat full of women.

Fifteen-year-old Brenda Chapman and her brother, Thomas, 13, of Detroit, told of being awakened when the torpedo struck. Brenda said:

"I didn't try to change my pajamas, but helped Tommy up to the deck. Then I helped row the boat."

Other passengers were loud in their praise of the children.

Pathetic scenes were witnessed as the first of the rescued arrived at Glasgow's Adelphia Hotel.

Women and children limped weakly from motor busses, wearing navy boiler suits and pajamas, some with curtains around their heads and most of them without shoes. Almost all of them were bandaged.

Some Children Lose Voices.

Children who had lost their parents were carried weeping into the hotel. Some had lost their voices. There were wives without husbands, husbands without wives. All were desperate for news of survivors from other rescue areas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox of Neepawa, Manitoba, said they just had got into a lifeboat when the rope broke throwing them into the water.

Mrs. Cox said, "we were soon taken back into the boat, but we had to bail it out with our shoes. While we rowed during the night we were almost submerged by the swell from the submarine as it passed under us."

A Mrs. Brown from New Orleans and her 11-month-old baby were rescued. She said the torpedo struck close to her cabin, carrying away the companionway to the deck above.

"I handed the baby to someone on the deck above me and scrambled up myself later. When I found the baby in the same lifeboat with me I was crazy with joy."

A Mrs. Fairweather from Milwaukee said she heard two explosions.

Mrs. McFadzean of Belleville, N. J., said, "As my lifeboat moved away from the Athenia I saw something sticking up in the water. I am convinced it was the submarine's periscope. The lifeboat was almost swamped by the wash."

Other survivors said emphatically the Athenia was sunk by a submarine, and that the submarine fired two shells at the sinking vessel.

"We had a terrible time," said McEwan, "and we knew at once what it was.

"We all put on our life belts and went to our boat stations. The submarine then dived out of sight and several times during the night, when we were in the lifeboats, we heard the submarine passing below.

Says Two Shells Were Fired.

"The conduct of the passengers was magnificent. I don't know how many have been killed, but it is rumored that 90 perished.

"There was a great deal of smoke when the torpedo struck our vessel. But through the smoke I could see the submarine break the surface and before we knew where we were, it had opened up with its gun and fired two shots at us.

"Every lifeboat was away an hour after we were struck. The liner first of all listed and then righted herself and began to go slowly down by the head.

"We learned afterward that a woman on whom an operation had just been performed had been left on the Athenia. One of the lifeboats went back and took her off.

Picked Up at 2:30 a. m.

"We drifted until 2:30 in the morning when a Norwegian ship picked us up.

"I saw the sub quite distinctly and I estimate that it was a quarter of a mile away."

One member of the crew, Robert Gillan of Glasgow, said he saw a 12-year-old girl lying dead in a deck chair, her body torn by shell splinters.

A Mrs. Turner of Toronto, World War widow, said, "I am the luckiest woman on earth. I was looking over the rail when the torpedo smashed us. The ship lurched violently, and I was thrown to the deck.

"When I came to I saw several people lying dead on the deck and then I heard the two shells.

"Later I found myself in a lifeboat—the water was up to my waist."

A fireman in the Athenia crew said he thought two shells were fired.

Several Die on Rescue Ship.

Two destroyers brought approximately 500 survivors to Greenock. Several died on the rescue ships and were buried at sea.

British seamen on the destroyers gave up their own rations for the child survivors and improvised a laundry to wash clothes of mothers and children.

Most of the passengers were at dinner, the first class ones in evening dress, when the ship was attacked.

How the propeller of the Norwegian rescue ship shattered one of the Athenia's lifeboats and cost the lives of women in the boat was related by a seaman of the Athenia.

"After the first explosion, the submarine came to the surface about a hundred yards off," he explained.

"All the Athenia's lifeboats were launched within an hour and a quarter, and three other members of the crew and myself had charge of one boat containing 52 women.

"When the Norwegian boat came to our rescue we drew alongside and made fast, but our boat got under her stern and was struck by the propeller which knocked the bottom out of our boat.

"Several of the people were killed. I drifted about in the water for three hours in my life belt before I was picked up by the yacht Southern Cross."

70 Passengers Fell Into Water.

A third class steward on the Athenia said: "I took the 10 people at my table to boat stations, and we all managed to get into a lifeboat. I saw one boat with 70 passengers in it fall from the davits into the water. Most of the occupants were women and children, and the majority of them were injured."

Unable to Find Children.

A pathetic survivor was Frau Hubscher, a German woman able to speak only a few words of English, who was taking her 15-year-old son and 9-year-old daughter to the United States to join her husband, a naturalized American. The two children were taken into a lifeboat and Frau Hubscher was being lowered when the rope snapped. She was taken in another boat and had not seen the children since.

A Mrs. Fisher of New York, too distraught to take any food, sat in a hotel at Glasgow asking for news of her 6-year-old son.

"When the Athenia was struck," she said, "I rushed out of my cabin calling for my son. I saw him at one of the companionways but before I got to him everything was plunged in darkness.

"I never saw my boy again. I distinctly saw the German submarine come to the surface after it had torpedoed us."

Mrs. Fisher was wearing a thin cotton dress. She had no shoes, for, like many other passengers, she had given them to be used to bail the lifeboat. Her arms and legs were badly bruised.

One group in Glasgow was Tom Connolly of New York, his wife and three boys. Mrs. Connolly had a deep gash across her forehead.

Woman Who Was Ill Hurt.

A Mrs. Sutherland, 60-year-old Ohio woman, sick in bed when the Athenia was torpedoed, was hoisted by ropes to a lifeboat. "I received injuries all over my body," she said, "and I was in the small boat for 10 hours before being picked up."

Mrs. Kathleen Sommerville of Toronto said, "I was with my son David in a cabin when suddenly I heard a tremendous explosion.

"My first thought was for my child. I handed him into a lifeboat. I got into another lifeboat. Twelve hours later I was picked up by a warship.

"You can imagine how delighted I was when I found that David was safe upon my arrival at Greenock."

Thomas McCubbin of Montclair, N. J., told a story of a mother's effort to have her baby.

"I was standing on a ladder helping women and children into lifeboats," she said, "when a woman threw her infant into my arms like a sack of potatoes, crying, "for God's sage, save my child." I saw mother and child reunited at Greenock today.

"Absolutely No Warning."

"I can tell you that the German submarine gave us absolutely no warning before she torpedoed us."

A 17-year-old boy, Harry Bridge, and his mother of Abilene, Tex., were also among the survivors.

"I had gone up to the deck where we sat down near the stern," the boy said, "suddely there was a terrific explosion. Clouds of smoke arose from the sides of the ship and a huge spout of water jumped about 70 feet above the boat and came down into the lifeboats, half filling them.

"My friend, Sheldon Gunn, was going to join his air force unit in Canada. He was thrown down the hatch. I never saw him again.

"I made my way along the companionway to get my lifebelt from my cabin. On the way I met my 19-year-old sister, Constance, and she gave me instructions where to meet her.

"When I reached my boat station I could not see her. Mother and I got into a boat and just as it was pulling off I saw Constance in another boat. Neither of us now knows where she is."

Prof. Damon Boynton of Cornell University, alighting from one of the destroyers, said:

"I was in a boat 12 hours before I was picked up. I don't want to say anything more except this—I don't like German war tactics."

Then the professor hurried away to the nearest telephone.

When the first of the two destroyers reached Greenock, its decks crowded with women survivors, it was greeted with cheers.

A second destroyer followed out of the fog and began discharging the injured. They were taken to hospitals in a fleet of ambulances. The harbor was closed to the public and under heavy guards. No one was permitted near the rescue ships.

ABSURD TO SAY MINE SANK LINER ATHENIA, SAYS EARL STANHOPE

LONDON, Sept. 5.

EARL STANHOPE, Lord President of the Council, told the House of Lords today in discussing the Athenia disaster, that, "according to a reliable witness," a submarine fired a torpedo without warning.

Then, he said, it "broke surface, so there was no question whatever as to what was the cause of the sinking."

"The mere suggestion," he added, "that a mine had been laid by this country is obviously ridiculous and absurd. (This was suggested yesterday in German agency dispatches).

"That part of the sea is too deep for the laying of a moored mine and it would be an absurd place to put mines, because Great Britain is anxious to keep her trade going in and out in the ordinary course of events without interference from mines."

LUDLOW TO RESUME FIGHT FOR WAR REFERENDUM PLAN

Sponsor Again to Ask Congress to Give People Sole Power to Put U. S. Into Conflict Abroad.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Congress will be asked at its next session to give the people of the United States the sole power to plunge the country into a foreign war.

Representative Ludlow (Dem.), Indiana, said today he would renew his efforts for a Constitutional Amendment to be submitted to the states. Under the amendment, the electorate instead of Congress would be given the right to approve participation in a war abroad.

Ludlow has unsuccessfully sought approval of his resolution during the last several sessions of Congress. At the close of the last session, he said, a petition to bring the resolution to the House floor had the signature of 48 members. Two hundred and eighteen signatures are required.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW CALLS CLOSING OF THEATERS STUPID

He Asks "What Agent of Hitler Suggests We Cower in Darkness and Terror?"

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—George Bernard Shaw charged in a letter to the Times today the closing of theaters and movies was "a masterstroke of unimaginative stupidity."

The Government issued the closing order as an air raid precaution following the war declaration.

The playwright asked:

"What agent of Chancellor Hitler is it who has suggested that we should all cower in darkness and terror 'for the duration'? Why brother soldiers, why? Should we be melancholy, boys?"

SUPREME COURT BRANDS WYMORE LAX PROSECUTOR

Orders Ouster for Last Months of Term Already Served for Failure to Wipe Out Gambling

HIS PRESENT TERM IS NOT AFFECTED

He Must Pay $2000 Costs — Ruling Finds He Was "Under Influence of Men in High Position"

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 5.—Ouster of Prosecuting Attorney Carl F. Wymore of Cole County from the last 16 months of his two-year term of office he already has served, for failure to enforce the laws against slot machines, operation and other gambling in Cole county and Jefferson City, was ordered today by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc, in a quo warranto proceeding by Attorney General Roy McKittrick.

In addition, the court imposed a fine of $1 and all of the costs in the case against Wymore. The cost total was not immediately available but may reach $2000 or more. This includes a $1000 fee already allowed to Perry G. Sanders of Marshall, special commissioner of the court, who last May recommended dismissal of the ouster suit on the grounds the Attorney-General had failed to prove the charges against Wymore.

"Influenced by Evil Men."

The court held Wymore "is guilty of a failure to faithfully and honestly mean himself in office and should be ousted." The court declared without naming any individuals or influences, that "he is under the ruthless and withering influence of evil men in relatively high positions."

After severely censuring the youthful prosecutor for not taking action against an "invasion of the city by gambling devices," the court ordered his ouster for the unexpired period from Aug. 24, 1937, the date McKittrick filed the ouster proceeding in the Supreme Court, to the end of that two-year term of Wymore's first, on Dec. 31, 1940.

The ouster order does not affect Wymore's possession of the office for his second two-year term, beginning last Jan. 1. He was re-elected last November while the suit was pending. The charges in the suit involved incidents during Wymore's first term of office. The Supreme Court last January denied a request by McKittrick for leave to amend the ouster petition to extend the charges to cover his present term.

In view of the decision reached by the Supreme Court held it was unnecessary to consider a contention by Wymore that since the term of office sought to be forfeited had expired, the proceeding was moot and should be dismissed. The court stated it reserved its ruling on the questions on which the local authorities were said to be divided.

Judge Gantt's Opinion.

Judge Ernest S. Gantt, who wrote the opinion, said Wymore "made no effort whatsoever to perform his duties as Prosecuting Attorney and that "for this he is guilty of official misconduct," but the Judge declared the court "hesitating" approached the question of punishment.

"Respondent (Wymore) is a young man who should be one open and 'above board' high which leads to an honorable finish," Judge Gantt said. "He is under the influence of evil men. The evidence considered, he is under the ruthless and withering influence of evil men in relatively high positions.

"Under such baneful influence he is not free to enforce the criminal law. We wonder if he is in a position to resist such influence. It may be that he should be given an opportunity to convince the law abiding citizens of this State that he can and will be a good citizen and faithful public servant. He must overcome his subjection to the dictatorial influences of these evil manipulators. If he does so, we have no doubt of the result. We now hopefully take the chance."

The opinion was concurred in by Chief Justice E. M. Tipton and Judges James M. Douglas, Charles T. Hays, Judges George Robb Ellison, C. A. Leedy Jr., and Albert M. Clark concurred in the result only.

Followed Drive on Gambling.

The ouster suit was filed against Wymore a day after McKittrick and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark launched a state-wide drive against slot machines and "gambling rackets." He called upon Prosecuting Attorneys in 37 counties, including Cole, to clean up gambling and prosecute violators of the gambling laws. This followed an undercover investigation by the State Highway Patrol and other investigators. As a result, Wymore was given a list of about 100 places in Cole County where slot machines were said to have been in operation during a period of the investigation in June.

Orders Ouster for Last 16 Months of Term Already Served for Failure to Wipe Out Gambling.

HIS PRESENT TERM IS NOT AFFECTED

He Must Pay $2000 Costs — Ruling Finds He Was "Under Influence of Evil Men in High Positions."

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 5.—Ouster of Prosecuting Attorney Carl F. Wymore of Cole County from the last 16 months of a two-year term of office he already has served, for failure to enforce the laws against slot machine operation and other gambling in the county and Jefferson City, was ordered today by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc, in a quo warranto proceeding by Attorney-General Roy McKittrick.

In addition, the court imposed a fine of $1 and all of the costs in the case against Wymore. The cost total was not immediately available but may reach $2000 or more. This includes a $1000 fee already allowed to Perry G. Storts of Marshall, special commissioner of the court, who last May recommended dismissal of the ouster suit on the grounds the Attorney-General had failed to prove the charges against Wymore.

"Influenced by Evil Men."

The court held Wymore "is guilty of a failure to faithfully demean himself in office and should be ousted." The court declared, without naming any individuals or influences, that "he is under the ruthless and withering influence of evil men in relatively high positions."

After severely censuring the youthful prosecutor for not taking action against an "invasion of the city by gambling devices," the court ordered his ouster for the period from Aug. 24, 1937, the date McKittrick filed the ouster proceeding in the Supreme Court, until the end of that two-year term, Wymore's first, on Dec. 31, 1938.

The ouster order does not affect Wymore's possession of the office for his second two-year term, beginning last Jan. 1. He was reelected last November while the suit was pending. The charges in the suit involved incidents during Wymore's first term of office and the Supreme Court last January denied a request by McKittrick for leave to amend the ouster petition to extend the charges to cover the present term.

In view of the decision reached, the Supreme Court held it was not necessary to consider a contention by Wymore that since the term of office sought to be forfeited had expired, the proceeding was moot and should be dismissed. The court stated it reserved its ruling on the questions on which the legal authorities were said to be divided.

Judge Gantt's Opinion.

Judge Ernest S. Gantt, who wrote the opinion, said Wymore "made no effort whatsoever to perform his duties as Prosecuting Attorney," and that "for this he is guilty of official misconduct," but the Judge declared the court "hesitatingly" approached the question of punishment.

"Respondent (Wymore) is a young man who should be on the open and 'above board' highway which leads to an honorable finish," Judge Gantt said. "He is under the influence of evil men. The evidence considered, he is under the ruthless and withering influence of evil men in relatively high positions.

"Under such baneful influences he is not free to enforce the criminal law. We wonder if he is in a position to resist such influences. It may be that he should be given an opportunity to convince the law-abiding citizens of this State that he can and will be a good citizen and faithful public servant. He must overcome his subjection to the dictatorial influences of these evil manipulators. If he does so, we have no doubt of the result. We now hopefully take the chance."

The opinion was concurred in by Chief Justice E. M. Tipton and Judges James M. Douglas and Charles T. Hays. Judges George Robb Ellison, C. A. Leedy Jr. and Albert M. Clark concurred in the result only.

Followed Drive on Gambling.

The ouster suit was filed against Wymore a day after McKittrick and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark launched a state-wide drive against slot machines and "gambling rackets," and called upon Prosecuting Attorneys in 37 counties, including Cole, to clean up gambling and prosecute violators of the gambling laws. This followed an undercover investigation by the State Highway Patrol and other investigators. As a result, Wymore was given a list of about 100 places in Cole County where slot machines were said to have been in operation during the period of the investigation in June, 1937. No prosecutions resulted.

Wymore, twice elected with the support of the Cole County Democratic organization, whose leaders have not been friendly to Stark and McKittrick, denied all of the charges. In hearings before Special Commissioner Storts, he pointed to the fact he had presented reports of gambling to a Cole County grand jury in May, 1937, and the jury returned no indictments. Commissioner Storts, in his report to the court recommending dismissal of the suit, held the Attorney-General had failed to prove Wymore had permitted gambling or had any "actual or personal knowledge of the alleged violations," and declared he was not guilty of any misconduct.

"Plastered With Slot Machines."

Overruling a defense contention the evidence was insufficient, Judge Gantt said that slot machines and other illegal devices were operated in about 130 places in Cole County. He said Jefferson City was 'plastered with openly- operated machines."

"Occasionally, in response to alarm given," he said, "they would disappear until assured of safety." He said it was clear Wymore "had information which would cause a faithful prosecutor to at least make a casual investigation."

Referring to the heavy penalties for operation of a slot machine and similar devices up to five years' imprisonment, Judge Gantt said: "It is not conceivable that men in control would 'plaster' the city with machines unless they had an understanding with such officers. From this there is no escaping the conclusion that those in control of the machines had an understanding with such officers."

Wymore said he had invited the patrolmen who filed the list of law violations with him to sign a complaint. The officers offered to testify but declined to sign complaints.

Overruling a contention the Prosecuting Attorney was not compelled to sign complaints, Judge Gantt said "the people of the State are not idiots." He added, "They know that a prosecuting attorney, cannot, under his oath of office, hide behind section 3505, which authorizes private persons to file complaints with the Clerk of the Circuit Court or with the Prosecuting Attorney. If he could do so, the law-abiding citizens of the State would be helpless and at the mercy of the underworld."

Seven Men Who Chased Submarines In World War Hold Reunion Here

Veterans of 'Splinter Fleet' Meet on Their Old Boat on Day Nazi Torpedo Sinks the Athenia.

Seven men who fought through the World War on Submarine Chaser 330 of the belittled "splinter fleet" got together on their old boat in St. Louis for their first reunion, which by the most freakish coincidence, occurred on the very day that the British liner Athenia sank, the victim of a German submarine.

Five St. Louisans, a Chicago fire captain and a Marengo (Ill.) grocer, present at the reunion Sunday, represented the original crew of 23 that put to sea on June 4, 1917, to do battle with German U-boats. When they started arriving at the Naval Reserve Training Station at the foot of Ferry street, where the 330 was tied up, the former shipmates were much impressed with changes the years had brought in their appearance.

Sylvester Koster, 5204 Lindenwood avenue, secretary of a savings association, remarked that he doubted whether James D. (Red) Cotter, the fire captain, would any longer be able to climb into his old bunk, which was designed for a rather slender man. "Hello, Syl," Cotter cried, "what have you been doing with your hair?"

General Handshaking.

There was considerable handshaking all around. Most of the group had convened the night before at Koster's home, but a few had not seen each other since they left the ship in 1919. Engelbert Kramer, an engraver, 3546 Itaska street, was overcome by the felicity of the reunion and the coincidence of the European situation. "It's a great day," he kept repeating, pausing once to say he meant the assembly, and not the war.

Edward A. Burke, an optometrist, 926 Maple place, and Richard D. Fitzgibbon, an attorney, 5615 Bartmer avenue, observed that Carlton (Ten Sweater) Robb, the grocer, who was mopping perspiration from his face, appeared to have recovered from his wartime complaint of being constantly cold. They produced a picture of the crew, most of them dressed in jerseys, in which Robb was bundled up in a sweater and pea jacket with a muffler over his head. After looking at the picture, Arthur Finck, a filling station operator, 7445 Cornell avenue, ran up the rigging like a cat.

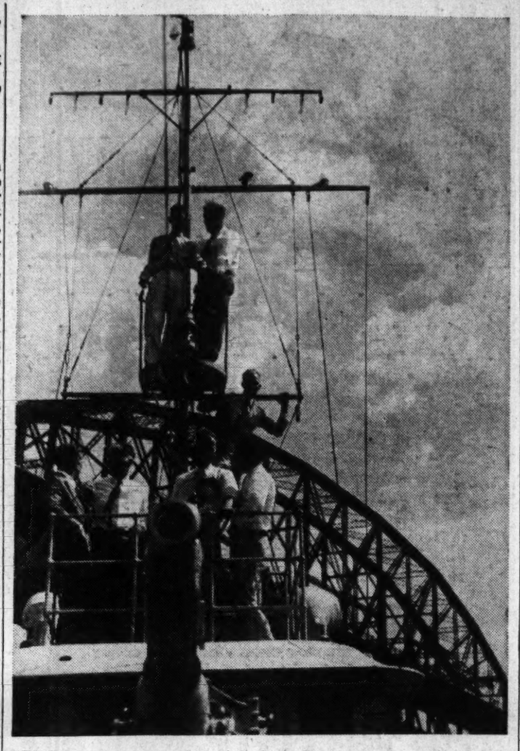

At this exhibition, Capt. F. G. Schwartz of the Naval Reserve gave the order to cast off for a run down the river. Cotter took up a position on the bridge. The others wandered up and down the 110-foot deck, pointing out familiar pieces of gear and recalling old incidents. About 200 yards out the motors suddenly cut off and a whistle blew. Kramer put his hand on the one-pounder, then when he saw some sailors looking at him said, rather sheepishly, "I used to be the gunner, you know."

A Strenuous Life.

The ship was passing under Municipal Bridge. The seven gathered on the forward deck to look at old photographs and talk about the old days. By all accounts, life on the 330 must have been strenuous. The 15-foot beam caused the ship to ride like a bottle in rough weather, and the quarters below were only slightly larger than a telephone booth.

Used now for training purposes here, the ship served in Atlantic coast patrol from June, 1917, to Oct. 23, 1918, when it was ordered to Gibraltar. It was engaged in bottling up German submarines in the Mediterranean until the armistice. It had many brushes with the enemy, narrowly escaping disaster on several occasions.

In the officers' club of the Naval Station when the river trip was over a brief ceremony was held for Frank P. Farley, one of the crew who died after the war. And shortly thereafter it became evident the festiveness of the reunion had been marred by recurrence of the thing they thought they had helped to end. Most of them drifted away from their families and friends to listen to radio reports of the latest war news.

SEVEN members of the original crew of Submarine Chaser 330, which served at Gibraltar during the World War. In crow's nest, SYLVESTER KOSTER and FIRE CAPT. JAMES D. COTTER of Chicago; leaning on yardarm, ENGELBERT KRAMER; on bridge, ARTHUR FINCK, RICHARD D. FITZGIBBON, CARLTON ROBB of Marengo, Ill., EDWARD A. BURKE.

The driver, Charles A. York, 3504 Isolda avenue, Overland, told deputy sheriffs another automobile was trying to pass his car and he was unable to swerve to avoid the accident.

Flood suffered a fractured skull, and fractures of the right arm and both legs.

TRIAL OF EX-MAYOR BRICKEY AT MEXICO, MO., ON OCT. 30

Eight Charges, Including Embezzlement, Against Former Festus Banker to Be Heard.

Former Mayor Norville W. Brickey of Festus will go to trial Oct. 30 at Mexico, Mo., on eight charges of embezzlement, grand larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses, growing out of irregularities in the accounts of the Festus School District, of which Brickey formerly was president.

The date was set yesterday by Circuit Judge William C. Hughes after a conference with Prosecuting Attorney W. Oliver Rasch of Jefferson County and attorneys for Brickey. The cases were sent to Mexico on change of venue from Jefferson County.

Two other grand larceny indictments against Brickey are tentatively set for trial early in October before Circuit Judge Edgar B. Woolfolk at Bowling Green, where they were sent on change of venue from Jefferson County. Brickey is also under Federal indictment charging embezzlement and the making of false entries in the books of the Citizens' Bank of Festus, of which he at one time was president.

NEUTRALITY MEETING TONIGHT

25 Organizations Plan to Send Out 300 Speakers.

Representatives of 25 St. Louis organizations will meet tonight at the Cabanne Branch Library to consider ways of co-ordinating efforts to preserve American neutrality. The call for the meeting was signed by Mrs. Charles W. Todewald, president of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and Glenn L. Moller, chairman of the Peace Action Committee of Missouri.

It is planned as a result of the meeting to send out about 300 speakers in behalf of strict neutrality legislation.

'MAD DOG' M'BRIDE ACCUSED OF BOMBING

Witnesses Say Ex-Convict Was With Londe Before Blast at Cuba.

Lawrence (Mad Dog) McBride, former convict, is in jail at Steelville under a warrant charging him with participation in the bombing of a manufacturing plant at Cuba, Mo., last June 7. Isadore Londe, convicted bomber and associate of McBride, is awaiting trial for the bombing.

McBride, arrested a week ago by St. Louis detectives, who saw him at the window of a flat on North Spring avenue, was taken to Steelville and identified there by witnesses as a man they saw with Londe in Crawford County prior to the bombing.

Prosecuting Attorney G. C. Beckham told the Post-Dispatch a witness, who had previously identified a police photograph of McBride, viewed the ex-convict and said he was the driver of an automobile in which Londe and another man passed through Steelville the night of the bombing. Another witness identified McBride as having been in an automobile with Londe near the Cuba plant the day before it was bombed.

McBride, who denies knowledge of the bombing, will be given a preliminary hearing on Friday. In January, 1938, he was acquitted of the murder of Todd V. Phelps in the $7600 holdup of the Overland State Bank nine years earlier. He has served terms in the Missouri and California penitentiaries for robberies.

Londe, under 25-year sentence for a St. Louis bombing, is scheduled to go to trial at Steelville Oct. 16.

MAN SHOT IN HOLDUP DIES

East St. Louis Taxi Driver Wounded Yesterday Resisting Robber.

Jesse Carl, Negro, East Side taxicab driver, who was shot in the abdomen in resisting an attempted holdup early yesterday morning, died last night at Christian Welfare Hospital, East St. Louis.

A woman passenger told police a Negro jumped on the running board of the cab at Twentieth street and Brady avenue, East St. Louis, fired two shots at Carl, threw him from the cab, drove off, and later put her out several blocks away.

RULING REVERSED ON 'STRAW' DEAL BY DICKMANN CO.

State Supreme Court Does Not Pass on Alleged Fraud, but Decides Hearing Is Necessary.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 5.—The Missouri Supreme Court, en banc, reversed today a ruling by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood of St. Louis which had voided the "straw" party sale by the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. of real estate of the closed Savings Trust Co. of St. Louis.

The net effect of the Supreme Court ruling is to let the sale stand, at least temporarily, and throw the whole matter back to where it stood in August, 1938.

The court stated that it was not ruling "on the merits of the controversy—that is, whether the sale order was procured by fraud." It was merely holding that the straw party, one Margaret Skain, was entitled to a full hearing.

Judge Acted on Own Motion.

Judge Kirkwood had voided the sale of several parcels of real estate for $37,000 to Miss Skain on his own motion and without a hearing. Deputy Finance Commissioner J. S. Lockett, who was in charge of liquidating the bank, had filed a motion to set aside the sale, but withdrew the motion after Judge Kirkwood's action.

The Supreme Court remanded the case to the lower court for a hearing on the motion by the bank liquidator.

Judge George Robb Ellison, who wrote the opinion, held that while the lower court had general jurisdiction to set aside the order, "it does not follow that the Court can act arbitrarily, without giving to the party adversely affected notice and an opportunity to be heard on the new issues." All of the other Judges of the court concurred.

Miss Skain was the straw party for Nat Glick, a real estate dealer. Besides being listed as purchaser of the Savings Trust Co. property, she was also the buyer of additional real estate owned by the closed West St. Louis Trust Co.

How the Scheme Worked.

The price to her for the property of both banks—20 parcels in all—was $58,750. An attorney for Sam Michelson, a real estate dealer, told Judge Kirkwood Michelson had offered $62,000 for the properties but that the Dickmann company refused to send his bid to the liquidator.

Disclosure of the straw party deals by the Dickmann company in the sale of property of the Savings Trust Co. began the long investigation of the company's action in the sale of the property of other closed banks and led to the cancelation of all the company's contracts for the exclusive sale of such property and the filing of civil suits by the State Finance Commissioner to recover the profits and commissions on the deals.

THREE KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE IN HEAVY RAIN

Pilot Had Just Taken Off After an Emergency Landing Near Sandusky, O.

SANDUSKY, O., Sept. 5—Three Chicagoans were killed yesterday when a plane in which they were returning to Chicago from Cleveland crashed 17 miles east of Sandusky.

A fourth passenger gave the following names of those killed: Harold Howard, pilot; Mrs. H. B. Erickson and Lloyd Atkins.

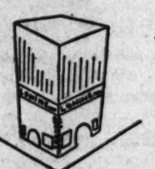

The plane, a Stinson cabin ship, was forced down during a heavy rain at an emergency landing field and had just taken off when it was forced to the ground again. The four persons had been attending the National Air Races at Cleveland and were returning home.

MAN STABBED IN FIGHT

Names Alleged Assailant Who Denies Charge.

John P. Hill, a mail handler, 1314 South Fourteenth street, applied at City Hospital at 7 o'clock last night for treatment for a stab wound of the abdomen, which he said he suffered a few minutes earlier in a fight outside a tavern at 1340 South Thirteenth street.

The man named as his assailant was arrested but denied the stabbing.

AT 74, BUILDS OWN BOAT, STARTS DOWN MISSISSIPPI ALONE

Retired Ship Carpenter Plans to Drift to New Orleans to Visit Daughter.

Willis Anderson, 74-year-old retired ship carpenter, shoved off in the Mississippi River yesterday morning in a homemade boat to drift downstream to New Orleans to visit a daughter. He has been retired about three years, friends said, after 42 years of work on the river.

Anderson, who lives at 3430 North Ninth street, had long wanted to make a last trip down the river and started work on the 14-foot flat-bottomed boat several months ago. He planned to drift all day and tie up along the shore at night, sleeping in the small cabin which he built on the boat. He departed alone from the foot of Franklin avenue.

MAN STRANGLED, BODY DOUSED WITH GASOLINE AND SET AFIRE

It Is Found Burning in Brooklyn Lot; Hands, Feet and Neck Bound With Sash Cord.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP). — The body of a man police said had been strangled and doused with gasoline was found burning in a vacant lot in Brooklyn early today.

The man, whose hands, feet and neck were bound with sash cord, was identified by police as Irving Feinstein, 30 years old, a clothing salesman.

JOBLESS MAN HANGS HIMSELF

Neighbors Say George Winkler Was Despondent; Note Found.

The body of George Winkler, unemployed brewery worker, was found hanging from a transom in his third-floor rooms at 3228 Ohio avenue yesterday.

A note, dated Sunday, stated: "I am ending my life; I can't stand it any longer." Other roomers said Winkler had been despondent because he was out of work. He was 56 years old.

BOY, 6, BITTEN BY SNAKE

Taken to Hospital After Injury on Farm Near Richwoods.

Robert L. Johnson, 6 years old, 3006A North Market street, is in City Hospital receiving treatment for a snake bite suffered yesterday when visiting on a farm near Richwoods, Mo.

His father, Bert Johnson, said it was believed the boy had been bitten by a copperhead.

Man Injured in Fall Dies.

Edward Teehan, an elevator operator at City Hospital, died there today of a fractured skull suffered last Saturday when, police said, he fell down a flight of concrete steps leading from the hospital lobby to the basement. He died without regaining consciousness. Teehan, 67 years old, lived at 1814 Coleman street.

COMMISSIONER NAMED IN RISK OUSTER MOVE

Supreme Court Provides for Hearings on Jurisdiction in McKittrick Proceedings.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 5.—Samuel A. Dew, attorney, of Kansas City, was appointed by the Missouri Supreme Court today as special commissioner to conduct hearings and report his conclusions on the question of the court's jurisdiction in an ouster proceeding filed last May by Attorney-General McKittrick against 142 stock fire insurance companies.

The companies, which contend the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction of the legal questions involved and that those issues now are pending before the United States District Court in Kansas City in another proceeding, recently asked the Supreme Court to dispose of the jurisdictional matter before proceeding with any hearing on other points in the ouster case.

McKittrick charged in his suit that the companies had a part in the bribery and corruption which brought about the Missouri fire insurance rate compromise in 1935, that they had violated the law by charging rates higher than those authorized by the State, and asked that the companies be required to refund to policyholders about $12,000,000 in alleged excess premiums he charged they had collected since 1930. The companies denied all of the charges.

A motion by Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Graves of Jackson County to require the Attorney-General to make more definite and specific his charges in an ouster suit pending against Graves in the Supreme Court was sustained by the court as to two points and overruled as to all others.

Under the ruling the Attorney-General will be required to amend his ouster petition to set out the names of persons guilty of election law violations in the 1936 primary election whom Graves was alleged to have failed to prosecute and to describe the violations. He also will be required to make more specific, including names and facts, the charges that Graves failed to prosecute criminal law violations and had dismissed criminal cases without justification.

The court overruled a similar motion by Sheriff James L. Williams of Jackson County to require McKittrick to make more specific the charges in an ouster suit pending against Williams. Both ouster proceedings grew out of the recent crime cleanup campaign in Kansas City.

NICHOLAS NOYES JR. PERISHES IN FIRE

Former St. Louisan, 28, Fatally Burned at Marquette Island, Mich.

Nicholas H. Noyes Jr., former St. Louisan, was burned to death last Friday in a fire in the boathouse at his parents' summer home on Marquette Island, near Cedarville, Mich., it was learned today. He was 28 years old.

He was asleep in a second-floor apartment of the boathouse. A butler discovered the fire and pushed two speedboats to safety, but was unaware that Noyes was sleeping in the building.

The Coroner said the fire started either from a cigarette or from faulty wiring. A verdict of accident was returned at the inquest.

Noyes' father, who lives in Indianapolis, is vice-president and treasurer of Eli Lilly & Co., manufacturer of pharmaceutical and biological supplies, and a governor of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank. The son left St. Louis last June after working here for three years in the office of the company. On leaving St. Louis he returned to work in the company's main office in Indianapolis.

His home here was at the Branscome Hotel, 5370 Pershing avenue.

JUNE TERM GRAND JURY CONVENES AFTER RECESS

It Is Expected to Present Final Report Friday and Be Discharged.

The June term grand jury, which indicted R. Emmet O'Malley, former State Insurance Superintendent, on a charge of receiving a bribe in the notorious fire insurance rate compromise, reconvened this afternoon after having been in summer recess since July 25.

With no important cases pending, the jury is expected to prepare its final report for submission to Circuit Judge Edward M. Ruddy Friday, when it will be discharged. The September term grand jury will be impaneled Monday by Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin.

CIVILIANS FLEEING WARSAW AS AIR RAIDS CONTINUE AND NAZI TROOPS DRAW NEARER

Preparations Being Made to Move Government;—American Ambassador Leaves With Family and Staff.

WARSAW, Sept. 5 (AP).—Thousands of Poles and several hundred foreigners, including most of the Americans remaining here, left this Polish capital city today, fleeing into the interior beyond the reach of German armies and German planes.

The Nazi infantry is within 50 miles of the city.

There were reports that officials of the Government might leave within a few hours.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., the United States Ambassador, his family and most of his staff left during the day in a motor caravan flying American flags. They headed for an undisclosed spot where Biddle proposed to continue functioning as nearly normally as possible.

Other Americans, including a number of Polish descent, occupied the extra seats in the Biddle caravan. As it was getting underway, bomb explosions and the roar of anti-aircraft guns were heard in the distance.

Landreth M. Harrison, second secretary, remained here in charge of the Embassy. Harrison and what staff was left planned to stay on in the Embassy premises.

Several American newspapermen left with the caravan. (Lloyd Lehrbas of the Associated Press is remaining in Warsaw for the time being.)

There was a shortage of conveyances, but some of those who found them turned back, nevertheless—on reports that highways leading eastward and southward were clogged with vehicles of every description. Taxicabs had vanished from the streets. The number of street cars ooperatin was at a minimum.

Defense Lines Shortened.

Polish strategists shortened their defense lines under intensified German attacks in all sectors today.

The courses traveled by attacking planes caused observers to conclude they were shuttling back and forth between Austrian, Slovak and other German areas in daily trips, reloading at each stop and dropping bombs en route.

The Polish press reported a Polish cavalry unit had penetrated the German East Prussian border and occupied two villages. This was similar to an earlier report that Polish mounted troops had broken through Germany's Silesian frontier north of Breslau.

In two strategic moves deemed necessary to strengthen the defense organization, the Polish general staff withdrew its troops from the Corridor cities of Grudziadz, 60 miles south of Danzig, and Bydgoscz, approximately 40 miles southwest of Grudsiadz.

Germany continues to back its advance with a severe aerial bombardment which already has taken a heavy toll of civilian lives, including 10 persons killed when a bomb hit a girl scout canteen in a 45-minute raid on Warsaw yesterday.

Aim to Isolate Gdynia.

The Germans are seeking to isolate Gdynia and thus cut off Poland from its only access to the Baltic Sea.

(By their occupation of Grudziadz and Bydgoscz, the Germans claimed to have "isolated" Polish forces in the Northern Corridor.)

It is understood Germany is using mechanized units extensively.

The most "isolated" of all Polish troops were reported still holding out against vastly superior opposition. This was the garrison at Westerplatte, the ammunitions dump on a small peninsula jutting into Danzig harbor. It has been subjected to German sea and air attacks since dawn last Friday.

Retreat From Czestochowa.

In addition to withdrawing from Grudiadz and Bydogscz, Polish troops earlier had begun straightening the front by what was described as an orderly retreat from Czestochowa, an important city in the southwestern industrial section. A communique said the retreat, in the fact of an overwhelming enemy assault, was covered by Polish airplanes which broke up two columns of German troops.

German planes, it was said in a communique, were making repeated bomb and machine-gun attacks on farms and villages in the vicinity of Warsaw, with "numerous casualties" among peasants, women and children at work in fields and farmyards.

Meanwhile, Germans and persons of questionable status who were born in Pomorze (Polish Corridor) but do not possess definite Polish citizenship papers are being taken into custody by police, presumably to be interned.

Belgians Hold French Flyers.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 5 (AP).—Two French airplanes were ordered to land near Mons early today after they were spotted by Belgian searchlights. The pilots who were made prisoners said they lost their way.

SENATOR TAFT FOR SESSION TO REPEAL ARMS EMBARGO

But He Will Oppose Any Grant of Discretionary Powers to President.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep.), Ohio, said yesterday he favors a special session of Congress for repeal of the mandatory embargo on arms and implements of war in the present Neutrality Law.

"I'm in favor of the Neutrality Act," Taft said "except that I favor repealing the embargo on arms, ammunition and implements of war. It seems that there is nothing unneutral about supplying arms to any nation which can buy them, just as we have throughout our country's history. But we should require every purchasing nation to come here and pay for them and carry them away, so that this country does not become involved in another World War."

Taft said he would oppose any special session legislation not dealing with neutrality and that he would fight the grant of any "new discretionary powers" for President Roosevelt.

THREE MISSING U. S. PLANES FOUND, ALL ABOARD SAFE

Army Ships Were Forced Down by Bad Weather Yesterday on Flight to Panama.

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Sept. 5 (AP).—Army authorities announced today three United States army planes previously reported to have been missing over Costa Rica had been found with all personnel aboard safe.

The aircraft, pursuit planes of the new P-36 type, had become detached from a group of 30, being flown yesterday from Marsh, Langley and Selfridge fields to Panama. Bad weather forced them to make emergency landings.

The army did not disclose where the three planes had been found.

MORE STEAMERS ARRIVE CROWDED WITH AMERICANS

The Roosevelt Reaches New York; Also the Samaria, the Two Bringing in $33,000,000 in Gold.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP). — With 539 passengers crowded into improvised quarters, the United States liner President Roosevelt arrived from Europe today. In addition to her 125 extra passengers, she carried $21,000,000 in gold.

The Cunard White Star liner Samaria, a day late, followed with 693 passengers from Europe, 245 of them Americans.

The Gdynia America (Polish) liner Batory arrived today from Europe with 642 passengers, most of them Americans. She was tied up indefinitely at her Hoboken, N. J., pier after her scheduled departure tonight for Gdynia with 160 passengers had been canceled.

At Boston the American steamship Excambion of the American Export Line arrived from Southern Europe with 118 tourist American passengers, including 10 who were stranded at Gibraltar by cancellation of sailing of the Conti de Savoia.

The French Line offices said today the Champlain was due here at 3:30 p. m.

Meanwhile, whereabouts of the great North German Lloyd liner Bremen, which sailed from New York last Wednesday night without passengers or cargo, continued a mystery. The $20,000,000 vessel announced her destination as Bremerhaven, but it was believed she may have turned southward, hoping to reach Vera Cruz, Mexico, where another German liner, the Columbus, docked yesterday instead of going to Germany.

Many Debarked at Boston.

The Samaria had 1044 passengers when she left Liverpool, among them 555 Americans. At Boston 351 passengers debarked. She also carried gold valued at between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Passengers on the Samaria said blackouts were observed, that the ship followed a zig-zag course and at times was convoyed by naval vessels, but officers denied the reports of a convoy.

The British liner Queen Mary and the French Normandie were still docked in New York with sailings indefinitely postponed.

The Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam, which reached New York last Friday jammed with refugees, was scheduled to sail at noon today with Prince Felix, ruler of Luxemburg, and Crown Prince Jean, his son, aboard. Before departing the Prince received Joseph Davies, American Ambassador to Belgium.

Among passengers on the President Roosevelt were Dr. Charles Crocker of San Francisco, and his wife, the former Peggy Brokaw of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Ten Eyck Wendell and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Breed of New York; Mrs. Hamilton Fish, wife of the Congressman; Representative James Patrick McGranery of Philadelphia; D. H. Tyson of Burlington, N. J., and Rear Admiral George Rock, U. S. N., head of the Webb Institute of Naval Architecture.

Italian Liner to Sail Friday.

Speeding of the return of American war refugees was expected to follow the resumption of sailings by the Italian line, canceled last week temporarily because of the imminence of war.

Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, told William Phillips, the American Ambassador in Rome, the liner Rex would sail from Genoa Friday with 1815 passengers.

Ships of other neutral lines and convoyed vessels of the British Cunard White Star line continued to ply the sea lanes as usual.

American ships were instructed by navy radio to travel regular courses across the Atlantic, carry customary night lights and spotlight the American flag. The flag also was painted on sides and decks of United States ships at sea.

The United States Maritime Commission disclosed it would keep a daily check of positions of 50 American cargo and passenger ships in the North Atlantic and Mediterranean area.

The purpose, it was understood, was to enable the commission to divert any of the ships, if necessary, to pick up Americans stranded in European ports.

New Type Motor Torpedo Boat.

The President Roosevelt brought in on her forward deck a new type of motor British torpedo boat carrying four torpedoes and quick-firing guns.

The torpedo boat was to be taken to the Brooklyn navy yard for demonstration to potential buyers, said Kenneth Perry, a retired British naval officer, who came over with it. Perry said it cost about $200,000, weighed 45 tons, had a range of more than 1000 miles and was considerably faster than the 40-knot maximum of previously built boats. It draws 4½ feet of water and can be used in mine-infested waters because mines are usually 10 or 15 feet below the surface, he said.

CHAMBERLAIN MESSAGE TO DALADIER DECLARES "RIGHT WILL PREVAIL"

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

PRIME MINISTER CHAMBERLAIN telegraphed Premier Daladier of France today that he was confident "right will prevail" in the conflict with Germany.

"At this time when Great Britain and France are renewing their comradeship in arms to resist aggression and defend the cause of honorable feeling among nations, I send to you, and through you to the French people, the cordial greetings of the people of this country," the telegram said.

"Our hopes of peace which we sought so strenuously to preserve have been shattered by the wanton attack on Poland. Now side by side we both take up arms with the sure knowledge that no nations have ever entered a war in a juster cause. I am confident that the sacrifices which we are prepared to make will not be in vain and that the right will prevail."

ARTIFICIAL FOG SHROUDS PARIS DURING AIR RAID

into shrieks for a full 10 minutes, thousands of persons made their way downstairs and underground.

In a narrow stone vault beneath the Ile de la Cite, an elderly man and woman in bathrobes, with their gas masks on awry, groped their way into a corner and sat clinging to one another.

A young man in pajamas, without a mask, dashed back and forth filling buckets of water and soaking towels to use instead.

Under the Hotel Continental on the right bank of the Seine, where 200 guests and censors were gathered, a girl combed her hair and made up her face.

In the cellar of the Associated Press office, just off the Place de la Bourse, two spaniels hustled downstairs by the janitor whimpered in the gloom.

Subway stations were favorite points of refuge, with calm but anxious crowds massing at entrances and no underground platforms. The first to go forth saw strange clouds racing across the sky and detected a vague odor of lime.

One woman who had removed her mask and walked onto the Pont Neuf, cried "gas," hastily put on her mask again and ran for shelter. Others thought it was just a natural turn in the weather.

Actually the anti-aircraft defense batteries around the capital had released artificial fog at a height of about 400 feet. It covered the upper part of the Eiffel tower and cut off the view of the observation balloon from crews manning the ground wires.

Emotions ran from fear to confidence in the time the alarm lasted.

"I wonder if they're coming," said one warden as the alarm started.

"I'm not worried," he insisted as the sirens stopped without a sign of any planes.

"They couldn't get through," he declared belligerently as the second siren ended. "For every plane they send up we send up 10."

So-Called Artificial Fog Thought to Be Chemical Smoke.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP). — The so-called artificial fog laid over Paris today could be some new defense chemical, but is believed by United States Chemical Warfare officers here to be the usual smoke screen which has been highly developed since the World War.

This screen is made, usually by spraying liquid carbon tetra chloride in the air. The spray gives off a dense but non-poisonous smoke. If the concentration of smoke is not too dense there is little discomfort.

"Fogs" of this sort were laid over New York City several years ago by army planes as a demonstration of one way to protect the city against air raids.

MUSSOLINI KEEPS EUROPE GUESSING AND HIS PEOPLE PLEASED

LETS SHIPS SAIL, INDICATING HOPE OF AVOIDING WAR

Some Observers Think Axis Is Finished, Others That Italy Will Aid Hitler by Neutrality.

DEAL WITH ALLIES THIRD POSSIBILITY

Idea of Fighting for Germany Never Popular — Rome-Berlin Propaganda Slackened.

ROME, Sept. 5 (AP).—Premier Mussolini has Europe guessing as to which way Italy will turn, now that war has come with Italy still on the sidelines.

The man who for years told Italians they were a warrior people and insisted war is "a natural event in the life of a people" is for the moment Europe's chief apostle of peace.

Italian newspapers have stressed his efforts to save the peace at the last minute, and published documents to support their statements.

The Premier indicates plainly he has no plan for involving Italy in war right now, for he has approved the sailing of Italy's two finest merchant vessels, the Rex and the Conte di Savoia, for the United States, to carry hundreds of Americans home. The Rex will leave Naples Saturday and the Conte di Savoia, Sept. 13.

There has been only one official statement of policy in the last few days. That was to the effect that Italy is taking no military initiative.

Gayda's Explanation.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative Italian commentator, wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia it must not be supposed that Italy intends to be relegated to the background.

"She will remain present and watcing over the protection of all Italian interests and to make sure that the course of events takes that direction capable of giving and hurrying up, true peace with justice for Europe."

When Germany opened hostilities on Poland last Friday, Adolf Hitler said Germany needed no help. Germany and Italy have a military alliance.

Some persons believe the Rome-Berlin axis is finished. Others believe Mussolini is negotiating with Britain and France to see what Italy might gain by neutrality, or taking their side.

Others believe Mussolini is remaining neutral for the present so he can get supplies through to Germany, then, when the time comes, he will step in on Hitler's side.

In any case, affairs are shaping up in a manner different from what Italian spokesmen forecast.

Only a few months ago, Mussolini said if war came, Italy's side was chosen—with Germany.

"We will march with Germany in the indivisible communion of two states and two peoples."

On May 23, the day after the Italian-German military alliance was signed, Gayda wrote, "Intervention on behalf of an ally comes if either one of the Powers for any reason finds itself engaged in war."

His Policy Popular.

Italians generaly are delighted with the way things are going for Italy. Mussolini, at this moment, probably has more genuine admiration, devotion and affection from his people than in his whole long career. "Il Duce is smart, and he will lead us through this," the people say.

Life is almost normal in Italy. The strain of a few days ago, when the people feared they were being plunged into a conflict, has diminished notably. The cities now are lighted at night. There is a shortage of coffee and sugar, but otherwise food is plentiful. The people are calm.

One factor tends to bolster the theory Mussolini is not going to war on the side of Hitler—that the Rome-Berlin axis never has been popular among all the people.

After months of propaganda about alleged injustices by France toward Italy, many Italians were resigned to fighting on Germany's side as a practical means of advancing Italian interests. But now that the propaganda has stopped and the people have expressed relief at not having to go to war at once, more remarks against the Germans are heard. It certainly would be difficult to get the people back to the old frame of mind.

Another indication of Italy's probable neutrality was a decree permitting cafes and other places of public entertainment to remain open until midnight starting Thursday. Last week they had been ordered closed at 11 p. m. Bus and tramway service will be suspended nightly at 12:30 a. m.

Newspapers were ordered limited to four pages after Sept. 8 to conserve wood pulp.

UNSETTLED CLAIMS MAY DRAW ITALY IN

By JOHN T. WHITAKER

(Copyright, 1939, by the Chicago Daily News.)

ROME, Sept. 5.—This is the day, Sept. 5, when the five-Power conference would have met had Premier Mussolini's peace efforts prevailed and had Europe confided its problems to the green table instead of the arbitrament of war.

Italy, alone of the Powers who would have conferred, is neutral today and though Great Britain, France and Poland are at war with Germany, the problems which precipitated the hostilities, according to Italians, still remain.

For Italy, the chief of these problems is Versailles, by which the Italians mean the uneven post-war distribution of territory and goods, and indeed the purpose of the conference proposed by Mussolini was the revision of this settlement, as truly as the maintenance of peace. For some time Italy has demanded adjustments in Africa, principally Tunesia, a larger share in the Suez Canal, and also a special position in the Adriatic and throughout the Balkans generally.

Its adhesion to the Rome-Berlin axis was based on these ambitions and it is perhaps reasonable to suppose its action in the immediate future will be founded on what diplomats call enlightened self-interest which cannot leave them out of account. As a neutral it would be likely to get nothing. As a belligerent it must be on the winning side. Is Italy strong enough to throw the balance of power?

These are questions the man in the street is asking today as the principal Powers meet, not at the council table but on the field of battle.

Official Statement by Italy on Mussolini's Peace Proposals

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 5.

THE text of the official statement on Premier Mussolini's peace activities follows:

"In the face of the worsening of the European situation on Aug. 31, Il Duce, while taking into account exceptional difficulties which made a peaceful solution extremely prolematical, made last efforts to save the European peace.

"To this end the English and French governments were informed that Il Duce, upon receiving assurance of Franco-British adherence and Polish participation, assured by the action of London and Paris, would be in position to convoke an international conference on Sept. 5 with the object of revising the clauses of the Versailles treaty which are the cause of the present disturbance of European life.

"The Italian Government did not fail to emphasize the extreme urgency of a reply but the French and English were not in position to communicate this reply before the next day, that is Sept. 1. Meanwhile, during the night of Aug. 31, frontier incidents occurred which prompted the Fuehrer (Hitler) to begin military operations against Poland.

"The replies which the Italian Government received having been favorable in principle both on the part of the French and the English and notwithstanding the fact that a military clash already had taken place between Germany and Poland there having been evidenced on part of the French particular interest in the pursuit of Il Duce's initiative, the Italian Government at 10 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 2 advised Chancellor Hitler for purposes of his information that there still was a possibility of convoking the conference, preceded by an armistice which might settle the German-Polish conflict by peaceful means.

"Chancellor Hitler replied to Il Duce through our ambassador at Berlin that he did not reject a prior possibility of a conference. He desired, however, to know first whether the note presented by the French and English to Berlin had the character of an ultimatum—in which case any negotiations would be useless—and whether he could count on having a period of 24 hours to consider and reach his decision.

"The Italian Government having placed itself again in contact with the governments at London and Paris at 2 p. m. on Sept. 2 informed them of what the Fuehrer had asked. Subsequently late at night affirmative replies were received from London and Paris concerning the two questions raised but it was added that in view of the new fact of occupation of Polish teritory by the German armed force which had arisen between Aug. 31 and Sept. 2 France and England made evacuation of the occupied territory a fundamental condition of their participation in international conference.

"In these circumstances, the Italian Government limited itself to informing the Fuehrer of this condition, adding that barring contrary advice from the German Government it saw no possibility of taking further action."

STOCKS UP $1 TO $19 IN WAR BUYING SPURT

cent of 1929. Brokers' offices were crowded, and the visitors' gallery of the Stock Exchange was thronged.

Afternoon profit taking checked the rise in stocks, and some fell back from the best, but the list closed with sweeping gains.

Some brokers expressed concern at the buying movement, and advised customers prices were rising too fast.

Trading in the earlier hours was some of the biggest ever experienced, but it slackened later. Total transfers of 5,932,150 shaers, however, was one of the biggest for an advancing marekt on record.

High Priced Bonds Down.

High priced bonds continued to sag, as investors took the view war time demands might increase interest rates. Heavy selling again developed in United States Treasury issues. The turnover in the stock exchange in the first three hours was about $30,000,000, not large as trading in these issues goes in over-the-counter dealings, but largest in the stock exchange since the heavy dealings in Liberties in 1920.

The selling of Treasuries was said to be orderly and cushioned by open market buying by the Federal Reserve banks. Losses ranged around $2.50 to $7.50 per $1000 bond, but they held at substantial premiums over par.

With the exception of cotton, up at one time as much as $4 a bale, principal speculative commodities rose the limit permitted in one day in options for future delivery—raw sugar up ¼c, cocoa up 1, rubber up 2 and raw hides up 2 cents a pound. Cotton closed with net gains of $1.90 to $2.60 a bale.

Livestock joined the advance, with hogs at Chicago the highest since March. Butter and egg futures also were advanced.

The action of the markets was in contrast with the disorganization in 1914, when foreign selling forced closing of the stock exchange from July 31 to Dec. 12, and the first response of staples was a slump, on fears of disruption of the flow of exports.

Chicago Grain Prices Up Limit; Hogs and Cattle Advance.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP).—Prices of principal agricultural commodities advanced spectacularly today in the first trading since entrance of Great Britain and France in the European war.

Wheat prices shot up 5 cents a bushel, September contracts reaching 81⅜ cents compared with 67¾ cents before the opening of German-Polish hostilities Friday. This was the highest price for wheat in a year and a half.

Corn rose 4 cents to 53⅝ cents for September delivery, highest since January. Last Thursday corn was priced at 43¾ cents. Rye advanced 5 cents to 50¼ cents compared with 39 cents five days ago and oats rose 3 cents to 36⅜ cents, compared with 29¾ cents before the outbreak of war.

Hogs leaped $1 per hundredweight, the sharpest advance in years, to a top of $8, highest since last March. The top was as low as $6.55 in mid-August. Cattle advanced 50 cents, with best steers bringing $11, and spring lambs shot up 40 to 65 cents, selling as high as $10.

Just before the market opened, directors of the exchange, meeting in special session, put further restrictions on price fluctuations. They ordered that daily limits in the fluctuations of September contract prices should be the same as in deferred deliveries. Under previous regulations September wheat, corn and rye could have advanced as much as 8 cents a bushel, and oats could have risen 6 cents. As a result of the ruling, the maximum advances were 5 cents in wheat and rye, 4 cents for corn and 3 cents in oats.

FRANCO OFFICIALLY DECLARES SPAIN'S NEUTRALITY IN WAR

Burgos Bulletin to Publish Decree Calling for Strict Observance.

MADRID, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Government officially declared Spain's neutrality in the European war last night.

The Burgos official bulletin will publish a decree today signed by President Francisco Franco saying:

"There being officially recorded a state of war which unfortunately exists between England, France and Poland on one hand and Germany on the other hand, I order the present decree to all Spanish subjects to maintain the strictest neutrality in accordance with existing laws and principles of international law."

JAPAN TO REMAIN NEUTRAL, DIPLOMATS ARE NOTIFIED

TOKYO, Sept. 5 (AP).—Renzo Sawada, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, notified the British, American, Italian, French, German and Polish diplomatic representatives today of Japan's decision to remain neutral in the European war.

At the same time, a Foreign Office statement drew "serious attention of the belligerent Powers to the desirability of elimination of all causes for untoward incidents between the (European) belligerent Powers in China."

This meant that Japan repeated its responsibility for maintaining neutrality in the occupied areas of China.

Significantly, the Soviet diplomatic representative was not invited. Some observers think Russian assistance to China in its war against Japan will be increased.

THREE BALKAN NATIONS PROCLAIM THEIR NEUTRALITY

Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria Give Out Declarations, as Have Greece and Hungary.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 5 (AP).—Southeastern Europe, anxious to keep war from spreading to this corner of the continent, has proclaimed its neutrality to the world, but still it is taking no chances.

In case the clash of the great Powers draws them into the conflict, the five little nations are ready with 2,400,000 men mobilized for action and 3,000,000 more in reserve.

Even while proclamations of strict neutrality were being drawn up, preparations for any hostilities were being pushed on a large scale. Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria officially signified their neutrality last night. Greece and Hungary likewise have expressed an intention to remain neutral.

Rumanian Military Activity.

Rumania, first to issue a formal neutrality declaration, has massed the greatest military machine in Southeastern Europe. Starting Aug. 1 with 350,000 men under arms, she subsequently has called up another 750,000 and has 700,000 more in reserve.

The Rumanian navy has been put into fighting shape. Fortifications along the frontier with Russia are being strengthened. Bridges over the Dniester River, which forms the border between the two countries, are being mined.

Most of the Rumanian military strength was massed along the Soviet frontier, but 100,000 soldiers were within striking distance of the Hungarian border.

Yugoslavia, where the spark that kindled the last world conflict was struck, based her neutrality stand on a "duty to maintain and develop friendly relations with all neighbors." She has 500,000 men ready to throw into any conflict and 1,300,000 trained reserves.

Other Nations' Preparations.

Bulgaria, in her proclamation, talked of Europe "smeared with blood" and made it clear she wished to remain free of hostilities. Her military establishment is one of the greatest in Europe in comparison with her population. With a normal standing army of only 50,000, she now has 200,000 men "on call" and 450,000 more reserves.

Hungary, signer of the Anti-Comintern Pact with Germany, Italy and Japan, has showed her eagerness for neutrality, in spite of an occasionally-expressed desire for the return of territory lost after the last war. Her forces have been brought to a war standing of 300,000 men, with 400,000 more trained soldiers in reserve.

Greece, likewise eager to keep out of war, has called 260,000 of her 581,000 trained men to the colors. Most of the little nations also issued Government orders rationing food, controlling the press, establishing censorship, checking a rise in commodity prices, dealing with spies and providing air raid and other deefnse precautions.

BRITISH PLANES DAMAGE GERMAN BATTLESHIPS

cleared no damage was done to Nazi warships).

"Several direct hits with heavy bombs were registered on a German battleship in Schilling roads, off Wilhelmshafen, which resulted in severe damage," said the information ministry communique.

"At Brunsbuttel, an attack was carried out on a battleship lying alongside the mole, causing heavy damage. During the operation, which was carried out in very unfavorable weather conditions, our aircraft encountered an air attack and anti-aircraft fire resulting in some casualties."

To have scored direct hits on the battleships, the British planes, it was believed here, must have plunged in power dives to a low altitude against enemy fire before dropping their heavy bombs.

The German Navy's battleships are the 26,000-ton Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, completed last year, and the 10,000-ton "Pocket" battleships Deutschland, Admiral Scheer and Admiral Graf Spee, completed in 1933-1936.

Intense preparations were continued by the Government. Several aliens have been rounded up, Sir John Anderson, new Home Secretary, disclosed.

The fleet, army and air force received messages from King George in which the Sovereign pointed out their grave responsibilities.

The British press pointedly contrasted Britain's first war action—the bombardment of the German war vessels—with the sinking of the British liner Athenia Sunday night—which Britain charged to a German torpedo.

Describing the attack of the British bombers on the German fleet, the Daily Mail said: "This raid on a purely naval objective was a gallant exploit, true to the best British traditions."

The newspaper added, "the sinking of the Athenia shows that Hitler has at once abandoned all pretense of keeping to the last vestiges of humanity and decency which may be observed in war."

The News Chronicle commented: "As far as Britain is concerned, this war has opened in the right way. Last night, the RAF directed their attention to a strictly legitimate objective and bombed the German fleet. . . ."

The London press, reduced to 12 pages to conserve newsprint, published as usual and generally gave objective treatment to the war news. German communiques were displayed prominently.

The British Government intensified efforts to reach the German people over the heads of the Nazi Government by broadcasting at intervals in German a message from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Chamberlain declared, "We are not fighting against you, the German people, for whom we have no bitter feeling, but against a tryannous regime which has betrayed not only its own people, but the whole of Western civilization and all that we hold dear."

Three Ministers Named.

Meanwhile, the reshuffle of the British Cabinet to increase the efficiency of Britain's war efforts was completed with announcement of the appointment of three Ministers:

W. S. Morrison, Minister of Food; Ronald Hibbert Cross, Minister of Economic Welfare; and Lord MacMillan, Minister of Information.

Lord MacMillan was assistant director of intelligence in the Ministry of Information at the close of the World War. Cross is a well-known merchant banker. Morrison, whose Ministry of Economic Welfare is an entirely new post, formerly was Minister of Agriculture.

Ernest Brown was reappointed Minister of Labor and National Service.

King George addressed messages to both President Albert Lebrun of France and President Ignace Moscicki of Poland, expressing confidence they would win the war.

"We can both be confident," he told Lebrun "in the justice of our cause and convinced that our joint efforts and sacrifice will triumph as they triumphed a quarter of a century ago over the forces of destruction."

His message to the Polish President was in response to a telegram expressing "the feelings of friendship and loyalty to the whole Polish people toward the Great British nation."

The King's reply said:

"I and my people are proud to stand beside you in your just and valiant resistance to a shameless aggression and we have unshaken confidence that right will prevail."

The King discussed the situation with the Prime Minister for an hour last night.

Lord Gort, new commander-in-chief of the British field forces, also spent an hour at Buckingham Palace.

REICH REVIVES RENTENMARK TO PROVIDE SMALL CHANGE

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (AP).—The "rentenmark," paper bills of one, two and five marks, are to make their appearance again in Germany "to relieve the need for small change."

The bills were created in 1923 during the inflation period following the World War. Although not redeemable in gold, they had a psychological influence in creating confidence which helped end the inflation. They are, therefore, sometimes called the "wonder mark."

SLOVAK SOLDIERS MIXED WITH NAZIS TO AVOID REVOLT

Wounded Arriving in Bratislava Say Troops Are Placed Between Two Lines of Germans.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Sept. 5 (AP).—Wounded Slovak soldiers returning from the Polish frontier today said Slovaks were mixed with Germans as a second fighting line.

Javorina, a small area taken from Slovakia last fall, was given up by Poles without firing a shot, they said, but they admitted the Poles fiercely contested Slovak-German advances elsewhere along the mountainous border.

Unofficial but well-informed circles here expressed belief that Slovaks were placed between the German first and third lines to prevent deserions.

The Slovak Minister to Poland, Dr. Ladislav Szatmary, broadcast this appeal over the Katowice (Poland) radio:

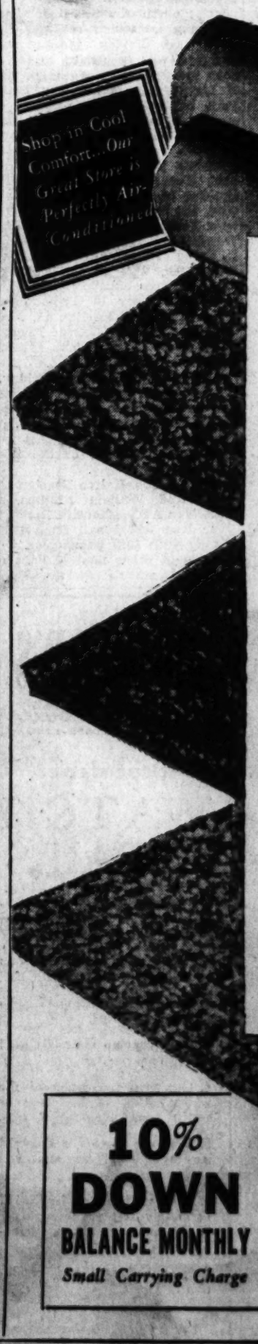

"Slovaks, do not fight your brethren in Poland. Revolt against the German yoke. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose."

It was confirmed here that Szatmary has placed the Slovak Legation in Warsaw at the service of Poland. The Minister apparently has been acting independently of his own Government, which is under German control, Slovakia being a German military protectorate.

GERMAN FREIGHTER SUNK BY BRITISH

Other Ships in South American Waters Held in Port or Seeking Havens.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5 (AP).—Two cruisers from Great Britain's West Indies fleet, the Ajax and Exeter, had German ships tied up today in South Atlantic ports, or seeking to outrace them for the safety of neutral harbors.

The Ajax opened war-time operations at dawn Sunday by sinking the German cargo ship Olinda after first taking off the 42 members of the crew in two lifeboats that had to maneuver through heavy seas.

The German freighter Poseidon dropped anchor at Mar del Plata, Argentina. The captain said "several warships, apparently British," had tried to capture it. The German merchantmen Leipzig steamed in the harbor of Guayaquil, Ecuador, on the west coast, and found the Cerigo, Quito and Bogota, also of German registry, already there. The German ship Kingoland anchored in Puerto Colombia Bay after receiving orders to head for the nearest safe port.

Explosion on German Ship.

An explosion occurred early today aboard the German passenger-cargo ship Monte Pascoal, moored at the Buenos Aires docks. No one was injured, but the blast did considerable damage to the vessel. Maritime authorities, while attributing the explosion to gas leakage, nevertheless ordered a complete investigation.

Shipping circles said most German merchantmen had fled into neutral ports after loss of the Olinda. The Cap Norte, Bertha-Wisser and Mecklenburg were in Recife, Brazil; the Antonio Delfino in Bahia; the Monte Olivia in Santos and other merchantmen in Uruguayan and Argentine harbors as far south as Mar del Plata.

The German ship Gonzenheim was scheduled to sail from Buenos Aires for Las Palmas, Africa, and the Anatolia from Rosario direct for Hamburg, despite the British blockade in effect there.

Nazi Submarine Activity.

Reports were not available on movements of British ships in these waters due to Admiralty fears based on reports of German submarine activity.

Sinking of the wheat-laden Olinda by the cruiser Ajax after the crew had been taken off was announced last night by the British legation at Montevideo, Uruguay.

The communique said seizure of the Olinda had taken place in rough seas in extra-territorial waters off Cape Polinio, and added that the German crew thanked the legation for its treatment both aboard the cruiser Ajax and the Shell Oil tanker San Gerardo.

The tanker took the German crew into Montevideo, where the Germans signed a pledge not to participate in the war.

Maginot Line an Offensive As Well as Defensive Base

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP).

MANY experts recognize the Maginot line, originally designed to defend France, as a perfect base from which France can take the offensive.

The 250-mile chain of cement and steel fortifications was built with all possibilities in mind.

Bombers and fighting planes can leave their underground airports behind the Maginot line and fly to the great German industrial centers of Essen and Dusseldorf within less than an hour; to Berlin in less than two hours.

Part of the Maginot line force is a "super-army" of 100,000 trained veterans, ready to move into action at any point with equipment to carry on as an attacking unit. The underground garages of the Maginot zone, which extends from the Belgian frontier to a point beyond the Swiss border, are filled with fast motorized equipment — trucks, armored cars, tanks of all descriptions, and motorcycles.

Engineers attached to the Maginot garrisons carry their own pontoons with them and are trained in throwing bridges across rivers under the protection of mobile anti-aircraft guns.

If an attack is launched from the great chain of fortresses, the Maginot line still will be manned by troops to maintain the defence, if the attacking forces are thrown back.

age. It was learned more than one-half of the attacking planes were shot down."

In the Polish Corridor, Adolf Hitler, "first soldier" of the Reich, followed his army across the frontier, the German news agency announced, marking the consolidation of German territory split by the Treaty of Versailles.

Besides Poles now isolated between German lines and the Baltic in the northern part of the Corridor as a result of the German sweep to the Vistula River, 15,000 Polish prisoners were reported officially rounded up this far in Southwestern Poland.

The agency said the Fuehrer joined his army of the east at Kulm (Chelmno), on the Vistula River near the border of East Prussia, while steps were taken in Berlin to strengthen the nation for war, now in both the east and west.

The supreme army command announced that contrary to foreign reports "not a single shot had been fired on the western front up to Sept. 5, 9 a. m. Likewise there have been no air attacks except the reported English raids at Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven."

(A dispatch from Paris, timed 7:35 a. m. today said German planes had invaded France to start air operations on the western front, while scattered fighting took place between the opposed armies on the Rhineland line.)

New Decrees by Goering.

Field Marshal Hermann Goering, as Air Minister, answered the first British air attack by appealing to civil air defense forces to be on the alert. He said anti-aircraft guns had brought down enemy planes from one-mile altitude and warned the population to be careful of falling shell fragments.

The Cabinet Defense Council, under chairmanship of Goering, issued a decree introducing war taxes and regulating business practices.

The decree provided for:

1. A tax as high as 50 per cent on incomes of more than 2500 marks (about $1000).

2. A 20 per cent tax on beer and tobacco.

3. Penalties for destroying or withholding necessary commodities, and for war profiteering.

4. Reduction of "disproportionately" high salaries.

The Supreme War Command reported war volunteers—youths under military age (18 years) and reservists whose classes have not yet been called to the colors—were reporting for service in such numbers that their offers had to be declined momentarily.

German Groups Celebrate.

Short advance notices to towns along the route of the Fuehrer's journey through the Corridor yesterday were said to have enabled the German population of the "liberated" territory to display swastika flags and arrange joyous receptions.

"The populace went into a frenzy of joy," said an official broadcast, "welcoming the Fuehrer with unbounded enthusiasm."

The official news agency said Hitler heard "first hand reports of Polish terror" which the army smashed, and that the army was inspired greatly by the presence of "Germany's first soldier."

Cutting across the Corridor between Germany proper and East Prussia, the Pommeranian force which preceded Hitler was said to have completed isolation of Poles in the northern part of the Corridor. The number of Polish troops there was not estimated.

Widespread destruction of military objectives in air raids was reported, along with the land advances in all sectors of the Polish front.

Among the communique reports:

Troops from East Prussia have pushed to Przasnysz, 50 miles north of Warsaw.

Polish cavalry which attempted to invade German territory north of Treuburg was repulsed.

(Warsaw reports said Polish lancers had cut through the German frontier north of Breslau after recapturing Leszno and Rawicz.)

Neuenburg, near Grudziadz and the East Prussia border, was captured, but Grudziadz, where a Polish cavalry school was located and which has old fortifications, still held out against the Germans.

(A more recent dispatch from Warsaw acknowledged the Poles had made a "strategical" withdrawal from South Grudziadz and Bydgoscz, 40 miles to the southwest.)

Anxiety Over U. S. Reaction.

German anxiety over reaction in the United States to the British charge that the steamship Athenia was torpedoed by a German submarine with Americans aboard was indicated by the fact that Alexander Kirk, United States Charge d'Affaires, was called to the Foreign Office and was given assurances that the British accusation was untrue.

Authoritative sources said, "Not a single torpedo has been fired outside Danzig Bay."

Officials charged a propaganda campaign similar to that of the World War was "already under way" against Germany.

These sources said Hitler had ordered specifically that the neutrality of small states and the international conventions with regard to naval warfare be observed.

The Netherlands Minister called at the Foreign Office yesterday, reported foreign planes had flown over his country Sunday night and asked that Germany investigate to see if the planes were its.

Officials replied Germany was not guilty of the trespass, and the official news agency declared the craft in question were British en route to drop propaganda leaflets on German cities.

British planes violated the Netherlands' neutrality to bring over propaganda, which were scattered in the Rhine country, the press said.

JEREMIAH T. MAHONEY'S WIFE AND SON KILLED IN PLANE

Bodies of New York Political Leaders' Family Found in Adirondacks at Comstock, N. Y.

COMSTOCK, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP).—The wife and son of Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former Amateur Athletic Union President, were killed last night in an airplane crash on an Adirondack Mountain ridge.

State police identified the bodies, found in and near the plane after a long search, as those of Mrs. Molly Cashen Mahoney, 52 years old, and Canice P. Mahoney, 25, both of New York City.

The elder Mahoney, a former New York State Supreme Court Justice and the city's Democratic mayoralty candidate in 1937, was notified of the crash at the family's New York City home.

State police were puzzled over the apparent disintegration of the plane in mid-air before it crashed into trees on a farm a mile north of this village. The body of young Mahoney was jammed in the cabin while that of his mother was found on the ground a hundred feet away.

Christening of Princess Delayed.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5 (AP).—War caused the postponement yesterday of the christening of the Netherlands' "Princess of Peace." An official announcement said the ceremonies, set for Sept. 14, had been called off. No future date was announced.

MORGENTHAU TELLS TREASURY FINANCING PLANS TO SEPT. 15

It Will Neither Borrow New Money Nor Refund Maturing Securities on That Date.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced today that the Treasury would neither refund maturing securities nor borrow new money Sept. 15, the next regular quarterly financing date.

Before Morgenthau returned from Europe yesterday, the Treasury had announced that no new money would be borrowed. The new announcement, emphasized therefore that no action would be taken before Sept. 15 to refund $826,000,000 of Treasury notes due Dec. 15.

Although Jan. 15 now becomes the next regular financing date, Morgenthau added that the Treasury was not committing itself on financing plans past Sept. 15, indicating that at least the refunding of the December notes would be arranged before Jan. 15.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S NEUTRALITY PROCLAMATION

USE OF AMERICAN WATERS FOR WAR PURPOSES BARRED

Declaration Signed at White House to Protect Interests of United States and Nationals.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.

FOLLOWING is the text of the neutrality proclamation issued today by President Roosevelt:

Proclaiming the neutrality of the United States in the war between Germany and France, Poland and the United Kingdom, India, Australia and New Zealand.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, a state of war unhappily exists between Germany and France; Poland; and the United Kingdom, India, Australia and New Zealand;

And whereas the United States is on terms of friendship and amity with the contending Powers, and with the persons inhabiting their several dominions; and whereas there are nationals of the United States residing within the territories or dominions of each of the said belligerents, and carrying on commerce, trade or other business or pursuits therein; and whereas there are nationals of each of the said belligerents residing within the territory of jurisdiction of the United States, and carrying on commerce, trade or other business or pursuits therein; and whereas the laws and treaties of the United States, without interfering with the free expression of opinion and sympathy, nevertheless impose upon all persons who may be within their territory and jurisdiction the duty of an impartial neutrality during the existence of this contest.

And whereas it is the duty of a neutral government not to permit or suffer the making of its territory or territorial waters subservient to the purposes of war;

Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in order to preserve the neutrality of the United States and of its citizens and of persons within its territory and jurisdiction, and to enforce its laws and treaties, and in order that all persons, being warned of the general tenor of the laws and treaties of the United States in this behalf, and of the law of nations, may thus be prevented from any violation of the same, do hereby declare and proclaim that by certain provisions of the act approved on the 4th day of March, A. D. 1909, commonly known as the "penal code of the United States" and of the act approved on the 15th day of June, A. D. 1917, the following acts are forbidden to be done, under severe penalties, within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, to wit:

1. Accepting and exercising a commission to serve one of the said belligerents by land or by sea against an opposing belligerent.

2. Enlisting or entering into the service of a belligerent as a soldier, or as a marine, or seaman on board of any ship of war, letter of marque or privateer.

3. Hiring or retaining another person to enlist or enter himself in the service of a belligerent as a soldier, or as a marine, or seaman on board of any ship of war, letter of marque, or privateer.

4. Hiring another person to go beyond the limits or jurisdiction of the United States with intent to be enlisted as aforesaid.

5. Hiring another person to go beyond the limits or jurisdiction of the United States with intent to be entered into service as aforesaid.

6. Retaining another person to go beyond the limits or jurisdiction of the United States to be enlisted as aforesaid.

7. Retaining another person to go beyond the limits or jurisdiction of the United States with intent to be entered into service as aforesaid. (But the said act of the 4th day of March, A. D. 1909, as amended by the act of the 15th day of June, A. D. 1917, is not to be construed to extend to a citizen or subject of a belligerent, who, being transiently within the jurisdiction of the United States, shall, on board of any ship of war, which, at the time of its arrival within the jurisdiction of the United States, was fitted and equipped as such ship of war, enlist or enter himself or hire or retain another subject or citizen of the same belligerent, who is transiently within the jurisdiction of the United States, to enlist or enter himself, to serve such belligerent on board such ship of war, if the United States shall then be at peace with such belligerent.)

8. Fitting out and arming, or attempting to fit out and arm, or procuring to be fitted out and armed, or knowingly being concerned in the furnishing, fitting out, or arming of any ship or vessel with intent that such ship or vessel shall be employed in the service of one of the said belligerents to cruise, or commit hostilities against the subjects, citizens, or property of an opposing belligerent.

9. Issuing or delivering a commission within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States for any ship or vessel to the intent that she may be employed as aforesaid.

10. Increasing or augmenting, or procuring to be increased or augmented, or knowingly being concerned in increasing or augmenting, the force of any ship of war, cruiser, or other armed vessel, which at the time of her arrival within the jurisdiction of the United States was a ship of war, cruiser, or armed vessel in the service of a belligerent, or belonging to a national thereof, by adding to the number of guns of such vessel, or by changing those on board of her for guns of a larger caliber, or by the addition thereto of any equipment solely applicable to war.

11. Knowingly beginning or setting on foot or providing or preparing a means for or furnishing the money for, or taking part in, any military or naval expedition or enterprise to be carried on from the territory or jurisdiction of the United States against the territory or dominion of a belligerent.

12. Dispatching from the United States, or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, any vessel, domestic or foreign, which is about to carry to a warship, tender or supply ship of a belligerent any fuel, arms, ammunition, men, supplies, dispatches or information shipped or received on board within the jurisdiction of the United States.

13. Dispatching from the United States, or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, any armed vessel owned wholly or in part by American citizens, or any vessel, domestic or foreign (other than one which has entered the jurisdiction of the United States as a public vessel), which is manifestly built for warlike purposes or has been converted or adapted from a private vessel to one suitable for warlike use, and which is to be employed to cruise against or commit or attempt to commit hostilities upon the subjects, citizens or property of a belligerent nation, or to an agent, officer, or citizen thereof, within the jurisdiction of the United States, or, having left that jurisdiction, upon the high seas.

14. Dispatching from the United States, or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, any vessel built, armed or equipped as a ship of war, or converted from a private vessel into a ship of war (other than one which has entered the jurisdiction of the United States as a public vessel), with any intent or under any agreement or contract, written or oral, that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation, or to any agent, officer, or citizen of such nation, or where there is reasonable cause to believe that the said vessel shall or will be employed in the service of such belligerent nation after its departure from the jurisdiction of the United States.

15. Taking, or attempting or conspiring to take, or authorizing the taking of any vessel out of port or from the jurisdiction of the United States in violation of the said act of the fifteenth day of June, A. D. 1917, as set forth in the preceding paragraphs numbered 11 to 14 inclusive.

16. Leaving or attempting to leave the jurisdiction of the United States by a person belonging to the armed land or naval forces of a belligerent who shall have been interned within the jurisdiction of the United States in accordance with the law of nations, or leaving or attempting to leave the limits of internment in which freedom of movement has been allowed, without permission from the proper official of the United States in charge, or wilfully overstaying a leave of absence granted by such official.

17. Aiding or enticing any interned person to escape or attempt to escape from the jurisdiction of the United States, or from the limits of interment prescribed.

And I do hereby further declare and proclaim that any frequenting and use of the waters within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States by the vessels of a belligerent, whether public ships or privateers for the purpose of preparing for hostile operations, or as posts of observation upon the ships of war or privateers or merchant vessels of an opposing belligerent must be regarded as unfriendly and offensive, and in violation of that neutrality which it is the determination of this Government to observe; and to the end that the hazard and inconvenience of such apprehended practices may be avoided, I further proclaim and declare that from and after the fifth day of September instant, and so long as this proclamation shall be in effect, no ship of war or privateer of any belligerent shall be permitted to make use of any port, harbor, roadstead or water subject to the jurisdiction of the United States as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose or for the purpose of obtaining warlike equipment; no privateer of a belligerent shall be permitted to depart from any port, harbor, roadstead or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States; and no ship of war of a belligerent shall be permitted to sail out or leave any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States from which a vessel of an opposing belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war or a merchant ship) shall have previously departed, until after the expiration of at least 24 hours from the departure of such last mentioned vessel beyond the jurisdiction of the United States.

If any ship of war of a belligerent shall, after the time this notification takes effect, be found in, or shall enter any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, such vessel shall not be permitted to remain in such port, harbor, roadstead, or waters more than 24 hours, except in case of stress of weather, or for delay in receiving supplies or repairs, or when detained by the United States; in any of which cases the authorities of the port, or of the nearest port (as the case may be), shall require her to put to sea as soon as the cause of the delay is at an end, unless within the preceding 24 hours a vessel, whether ship of war or merchant ship of an opposing belligerent, shall have departed therefrom, in which case the time limited for the departure of such ship of war shall be extended so far as may be necessary to secure an interval of not less than 24 hours between such departure and that of any ship of war or merchant ship of an opposing belligerent which may have previously quit the same port, harbor, roadstead, or waters.

Vessels used exclusively for scientific, religious, or philanthropic purposes are exempted from the foregoing provisions as to the length of time ships of war may remain in the ports, harbors, roadsteads, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

The maximum number of ships of war belonging to a belligerent and its allies which may be in one of the ports, harbors, or roadsteads subject to the jurisdiction of the United States simultaneously shall be three.

When ships of war of opposing belligerents are present simultaneously in the same port, harbor, roadstead, or waters, subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, the one entering first shall depart first, unless she is in such condition as to warrant extending her stay. In any case the ship which arrived later has the right to notify the other through the competent local authority that within 24 hours she will leave such port, harbor, roadstead, or waters, the one first entering, however, having the right to depart within that time. If the one first entering leaves, the notifying ship must observe the prescribed interval of 24 hours. If a delay beyond 24 hours from the time of arrival is granted, the termination of the cause of delay will be considered the time of arrival in deciding the right of priority in departing.

Vessels of a belligerent shall not be permitted to depart successively from any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States at such intervals as will delay the departure of a ship of war of an opposing belligerent from such ports, harbors, roadsteads or waters for more than 24 hours beyond her desired time of sailing. If, however, the departure of several ships of war and merchant ships of opposing belligerents from the same port, harbor, roadstead, or waters is involved, the order of their departure therefrom shall be so arranged as to afford the opportunity of leaving alternately to the vessels of the opposing belligerents, and to cause the least detention consistent with the objects of this proclamation.

All belligerent vessels shall refrain from use of their radio and signal apparatus while in the harbors, ports, roadsteads, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, except for calls of distress and communications connected with safe navigation or arrangements for the arrival of the vessel within, or departure from, such harbors, ports, roadsteads, or waters, or passage through such waters; provided that such communications will not be of direct material aid to the belligerent in the conduct of military operations against an opposing belligerent. The radio of belligerent merchant vessels may be sealed by the authorities of the United States, and such seals shall not be broken within the jurisdiction of the United States except by proper authority of the United States.

No ship of war of a belligerent shall be permitted, while in any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, to take in any supplies except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew in amounts necessary to bring such supplies to her peace standard, and except such fuel, lubricants, and feed water only as may be sufficient, with that already on board, to carry such vessel, if without any sail power, to the nearest port of her own country; or in case a vessel is rigged to go under sail, and may also be propelled by machinery, then half the quantity of fuel, lubricants, and feed water which she would be entitled to have on board, if dependent upon propelling machinery alone, and no fuel, lubricants, or feed water shall be again supplied to any such ship of war in the same or any other port, harbor, roadstead, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States until after the expiration of three months from the time when such fuel, lubricants and feed water may have been last supplied to her within waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. The amounts of fuel, lubricants, and feed water allowable under the above previsions shall be based on the economical speed of the vessel, plus an allowance of 30 per centum for eventualities.

No ship of war of a belligerent shall be permitted, while in any port, harbor, roadstead or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, to make repairs beyond those that are essential to render the vessel seaworthy and which in no degree constitute an increase in her military strength. Repairs shall be made without delay. Damages which are found to have been produced by the enemy's fire shall in no case be repaired.

No ship of war of a belligerent shall effect repairs or receive fuel, lubricants, feed water, or provisions within the jurisdiction of the United States without written authorization of the proper auhorities of the United States. Before such authorization will be issued, the commander of the vessel shall furnish to such authorities a written declaration, duly signed by such commander, stating the date, port, and amounts of supplies last received in the jurisdiction of the United States, the amounts of fuel, lubricants, feed water, and provisions on board, the port to which the vessel is proceeding, the economical speed of the vessel, the rate of consumption of fuel, lubricants, and feed water at such speed, and the amount of each class of supplies desired. If repairs are desired, a similar declaration shall be furnished stating the cause of the damage and the nature of the repairs. In either case, a certificate shall be included to the effect that the desired services are in accord with the rules of the United States in that behalf.

No agency of the United States Government shall, directly or indirectly, provide supplies nor effect repairs to a belligerent ship of war.

No vessel of a belligerent shall exercise the right of search within the waters under the jurisdiction of the United States, nor shall prizes be taken by belligerent vessels within such waters. Subject to any applicable treaty provisions in force, prizes captured by belligerent vessels shall not enter any port, harbor, roadstead or waters under the jurisdiction of the United States except in case of unseaworthiness, stress of weather, or want of fuel or provisions; when the cause has disappeared, the prize must leave immediately, and if a prize captured by a belligerent vessel enters any port, harbor, roadstead or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States for any other reason than on account of unseaworthiness, stress of weather, or want of fuel or provisions, or fails to leave as soon as the circumstances which justified the entrance are at an end, the prize with its officers and crew will be released and the prize crew will be interned. A belligerent prize court cannot be set up on territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States or on a vessel in the ports, harbors, roadsteads or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

The provisions of this proclamation pertaining to ships of war shall apply equally to any vessel operating under public control for hostile or military purposes.

And I do further declare and proclaim that the statutes and the treaties of the United States and the law of nations alike require that no person, within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, shall take part, directly or indirectly, in the said war, but shall remain at peace with all of the said belligerents, and shall maintain a strict and impartial neutrality.

And I do further declare and proclaim that the provisions of this proclamation shall apply to the Canal Zone except in so far as such provisions may be specifically modified by a proclamation or proclamations issued for the Canal Zone.

And I do hereby enjoin all nationals of the United States, and all persons residing or being within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, to observe the laws thereof, and to commit no act contrary to the provisions of the said statutes or treaties or in violation of the law of nations in that behalf.

And I do hereby give notice that all nationals of the United States and others who may claim the protection of this Government, who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and that they can in no wise obtain any protectio from the Government of the United States against the consequences of their misconduct.

This proclamation shall continue in full force and effect unless and until modified, revoked or otherwise terminated, pursuant to law.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-fourth.

(Seal)

By the President: FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

CORDELL HULL, Secretary of State.

Hurried Flight From War's Alarms

DEWEY SHORT IN ENGLAND

Notifies Brother; Doesn't Say When He and Wife Will Sail.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Congressman Dewey Short (Rep.), Missouri, and Mrs. Short, whose European tour was interrupted by the outbreak of war, are in Newcastle, England.

Short's office was notified of his whereabouts by his brother, Charles Short, of Baltimore, who received a radiogram from the Congressman this morning. Congressman Short did not say when he expected to sail for the United States.

ligerent as a soldier, marine or seaman aboard any warship.

Hiring or retaining another person so to enlist.

Hiring another person to go outside the United States for this purpose.

Hiring another person to go outside the United States with the intent to be entered into service.

Retaining another person to go outside the United States to be enlisted.

Retaining another person to go outside the United States with intent to be entered into service.

(The President said this did not extend to the citizen of a belligerent who shall enlist in the service of his country or hire another fellow citizen to do the same.)

Fitting out and arming any ship or vessel to be used in the service of a belligerent.

Issuing or delivering a commission for any such ship.

Increasing the force of a belligerent warship by adding to the number of her guns or increase their caliber.

Military Expeditions.

Setting on foot any military or naval expedition to start from the United States against a belligerent.

Sending out any vessel to carry a belligerent warship fuel, arms, ammunition, men, supplies, dispatches or information.

Dispatching from the United States any armed vessel to be used against a belligerent or to be sold to a belligerent.

Dispatching from the United States any vessel armed as a warship with the intent to deliver it to a belligerent.

Taking or attempting or conspiring to take any vessel out of an American port in violation of the act of 1917.

Departure from the United States of a person belonging to a belligerent's armed forces who has been interned here.

Aiding such a person to escape or attempt to escape.

Roosevelt further proclaimed that for belligerent vessels to use American waters to prepare for hostile operations or as observation posts "must be regarded as unfriendly and offensive, and in violation of that neutrality which it is the determination of this Government to observe."

Executive Order Issued.

He issued an executive order giving specific instructions to the various Government departments to carry out the various provisions.

The Chief Executive declared that from today on during the life this proclamation no warship of a belligerent should be permitted to use an American port for any warlike purpose or to obtain warlike equipment; no privateer of a belligerent should be permitted to depart from any American port; no warship should be permitted to leave an American port until after the expiration of at least 24 hours after the departure of an opposing warship.

The President proclaimed that no warship should be permitted to remain in an American port or waters more than 24 hours except in case of bad weather or for delay in receiving supplies or repairs, or when detained by the United States.

He fixed the maximum number of ships of war belonging to a belligerent and its allies which might be in a United States port simultaneously at three.

Applies to Canal Zone.

The President declared that all the provisions of the proclamation shall also apply to the Canal Zone except insofar as they may be modified by a special Canal Zone proclamation.

"I do hereby give notice," the President proclaimed, "that all nationals of the United States and others who may claim the protection of this Government, who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and that they can in no wise obtain any protection from the Government of the United States against the consequences of their misconduct."

Roosevelt, specifically mentioning the countries at war, omitted Canada and British South Africa. An official explained that these dominions had not yet formally declared war against Germany.

The President penned his name on the document about 1 p. m. (12 noon, St. Louis time), in the presence of Hull, Acting Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State A. A. Berle and Stephen Early, presidential secretary.

Early announced that the same group would return to the White House at 4:30 p. m. to give consideration to a second proclamation, to be issued under the Neutrality Act.

The latter immediately will put in operation an embargo on exports of arms, ammunition and implements of war to the combatant nations. It also will place restrictions on travel of Americans on vessels of the warring countries.

Early told reporters:

"The one thing the President probably is most concerned about at the present time is the devising of means to keep war away from our shores and our waters."

Travel to Europe Restricted.

Earlier, the State Department had virtually halted travel of American citizens to Europe.

Only "imperative necessity" hereafter will be grounds for citizens to make the Eastward Atlantic voyage. The order, issued after the sinking of the British liner Athenia on which some Americans were traveling, coincided with discussion of plans to convoy American vessels returning from European ports.

The State Department action voided passports already issued unless documentary evidence is submitted that a trip to Europe is absolutely necessary.

The administration has opposed the arms embargo, and if President Roosevelt calls a special session of Congress this fall, he is expected to advocate its repeal.

The question of using naval vessels to convoy American merchant ships has not gone beyond the discussion stage, officials said.

President Roosevelt talked the matter over yesterday with Charles Edison, Acting Navy Secretary, and Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations.

Convoy Question Complicated.

Edison later expressed the view the convoy question was complicated, involving the problem whether fast merchant ships would be better off unguarded or slowing up to remain close to escorts.

Edison indicated to reporters it would be best for the Atlantic naval squadron to remain close to American shores. Asked for the reason, he said:

"Well you have seen reports of submarines in the Caribbean, haven't you?"

He emphasized, however, that the Navy Department has no official word of the presence of such craft in the area.

Of the 70,000 Americans thought to be in Germany, Britain, France, Poland and Italy, a well-informed official estimated that approximately 30,000 want quick removal homeward. Of the others, many have business or other connections which bind them to those nations, and are expected to remain in Europe despite warnings from United States embassies.

Month and a Half to Move Them.

There were indications that it would be mid-October before all the Americans wanting to leave warring countries can be accommodated on ships.

Although the safety of Americans abroad has been a primary consideration of Federal officials since the war broke out, other effects of the conflict are being considered.

The Justice Department is studying possible legislation to prevent profiteering. Attorney-General Murphy said the present laws were inadequate, and the President had instructed him to go into the subject.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace appointed an advisory council of farmers and business men to help draft policies designed to meet any adverse effects of the war on agriculture. The first meeting of a group of 14 men has been called for Sept. 19.

Wallace said the first results of the war probably would be felt in the export markets, but that movement of products for domestic consumption might also be affected.

It was announced that the testimony of persons who were aboard the Athenia would be sought in an effort to fix responsibility for the liner's plunge into the North Atlantic.

FRENCH, GERMANS FIGHTING ALL ALONG THE WESTERN FRONT

p. m. Monday, St. Louis time, Parisians fully expected a bombing expedition, now that the French army and artillery have opened fire.

But the planes did not appear over the city. Flying high, they were understood to have passed over Charleville, in the Ardennes Department of Northern France, near the Belgian border.

Probably Only Scouting.

Authorities suggested the German planes might have been en route to scout the disposition of French and British forces along the English channel.

The French air force already has been active scouting the German Siegfried line for weaknesses and observation secrets that were closed to it until late Sunday, when the war began.

A French General Staff communique last night said "Contact has been made on the front" with the Germans. French sources said this indicated the French troops had taken a few advance positions, probably under a preliminary artillery barrage. But along the hundreds of miles separating France and Germany fighting was reported at a minimum.

Informed private sources said they believed key points in the French attack were the Burgundy Gate, between the Vosges mountains and the Alps just north of the three-cornered junction of France, Germany and Switzerland, and along the Moselle Valley at the northernmost end of the French-German frontier.

Thus far, French and British military activity has followed the most obvious lines: The British sea blockade and attacks against Germany's North Sea ports, and France's advance, with its land force of up to 8,000,000 men, to the south Rhine front and its own fortifications, the $400,000,000 250-mile Maginot line.

Military observers described the movement of the French army as an attempt at a double flanking attack on German positions along the Rhine, intended to lighten the pressure of Germany's attack on Poland. They said, too, the navy was moving into position in the Western Mediterranean to protect essential lines of communication with North Africa.

Motorists Pick Up Pamphlets

The planes were not identif but the unofficial assumption that they might have been Brit because pamphlets were fo giving the English version of war as a "warning to the Germ people." Motorists picked up pamphlets, which were assumed have been dropped from the pla and blown into The Netherlan from Germany.

(Berlin and London offical statements said British planes had flown over German territory drop pamphlets.)

An English translation of pamphlets termed them "a wa ing from England to the Germ population that war was thr upon us by Germany."

An official announcement s the propaganda planes were ht to be identified. Paris ports said more than 1,000,000 tra were dropped by British "pro ganda raiders" Sunday night.

"We knew the consequences" war would be "much more h rible than in 1914," said the pe phlets. "In April Hitler gave world assurances of his friendli intentions. However, they were worthless as his words spoken September last year when Hit said Germany had no more te torial claims in Europe."

"This was absolutely unnec ry. Germany and the Germ Reich never had been threaten All Germany's wishes could ha been settled peacefully as long they were justified for other p ple.

"President Roosevelt offered y an honorable peace.

"Instead, your Government c demned you to mass murd starvation and the hardships war which you never can hope win.

"Hitler has cheated not us b you."

The Netherlands Government sued a statement declaring it w "not at all surprised by the dec ation of war between Brita France and Germany. All milita economic and financial measu were fully prepared and have co to operation now.

"The mobilization of the ar and navy is now completed."

HOLLANDERS FIRE ON PLANES FLYING OVER DUTCH SOIL

Action Takes Place in Night in Area South of Amsterdam — Nationality of Craft Not Stated.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5.—An official announcement said today Netherlands guns had opened fire on foreign planes which flew over The Netherlands last night.

Netherlands envoys to Berlin and London were instructed to inquire of the German and British governments regarding planes which were sighted over territory near the German frontier in the early morning hours yesterday.

Motorists Pick Up Pamphlets.

The planes were not identified, but the unofficial assumption was that they might have been British because pamphlets were found giving the English version of the war as a "warning to the German people." Motorists picked up the pamphlets, which were assumed to have been dropped from the planes, and blown into The Netherlands from Germany.

An English translation of the pamphlets termed them "a warning from England to the German population that war was thrust upon us by Germany."

An official announcement said the propaganda planes were too high to be identified. Paris reports said more than 1,000,000 tracts were dropped by British "propaganda raiders" Sunday night.

"We knew the consequences" of war would be "much more horrible than in 1914," said the pamphlets. "In April Hitler gave the world assurances of his friendliest intentions. Prince Pad, Long Shot, And Miss Webb Score In Fairground Races

By Dent McSkimming

FAIRMOUNT PARK, Sept. 5.—Prince Pad, one of the horses unexpectedly beaten off when Prevaricate won the opening race of the meeting, last Saturday, came back to win the first event on today's card at long odds of 11 to 1.

Braxton Bell and Dedication were the favorites in the field of seven, and both were prominent factors, Braxton Bell setting most of the pace and Dedication charging through the stretch to finish second.

Jockey Is Thrown.

Miss Webb, one of the good string handled by E. B. Shipp, became the first double winner of the meeting when she beat 11 others in the second race. An accident at the start in which Jockey Eddie Thomas was thrown from his mount, Noma F., may have been a factor in the finish. With Noma F. out of it, a field horse, Sister Polly, finished second and Green Mist third. Thomas was uninjured.

The third was a formful race in which the 2 to 1 favorite, Transwynn, led al lthe way to win by two and one-half lengths from Everybody, with Coweta third.

When the 5-to-2 second choice in the betting, Sassafrac, refused to break at the start of the fourth race, Sleepy Howard, at even money, went on to win as he pleased. Moisson was allowed to set the pace for half a mile and finished second, beaten two lengths, and Belle of Midway third.

In the crowd of 4000 were 1500 or more women, for it was the first "Ladies' day" of the meeting.

The track was lightning fast.

FORT SMITH WINS TO REMAIN IN PLAYOFFS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 5 (AP).—Steve Tramback's home run with two on in the eighth inning proved the margin of victory last night as Fort Smith defeated the Cardinals, 7 to 5, to remain in the Shaughnessy playoff series. It was the first victory for the pennant-winning Giants.

Springfield leads the series, 2-1, and needs one more victory to go to the final playoff.

ST. LOUIS TEAMS WIN TWO SOCCER GAMES FROM CHICAGO CLUBS

Chicago's Schwabian soccer club was handed a second defeat by the German Sport Club of St. Louis when the teams met at the German club grounds, Sunday. Bill Schuler scored the only goal of a well played game in which the St. Louisans had the edge just as they had two weeks ago at Chicago when they won by a 4-2 score. In a preliminary to Sunday's major attraction, the Spanish Caballeros of St. Louis defeated the Schwabian Juniors, champions of their class in Chicago. The score was 1-0.

TRAY'S COLUMN

Reducing the Field.

JIMMY LONDOS is en route to Australia, via Hawaii taking with him his "world wrestling championship." That will ease the pressure in America by reducing the number of active champions of the world to a dozen.

One of these is Bronko Nagurski, former football star with Minnesota. The Bronko is coming here to wrestle and "defend his title" Sept. 20.

The Bronko defeated "champion" Lou Thesz of St. Louis at Houston, Tex., not long ago and immediately took over the National Wrestling Association title. This is notwithstanding that he was beaten a few months ago by our "Greek Adonis" Jeemy Londos.

Of all the screwball titles ever built up this one claimed by Nagurski is the screwiest. Nagurski gained it a year or so ago by beating one Dean Detton, who had it from "Butcher" Levin, who got it on an over-ruled foul from Ali Baba, who acquired it when Dick Shikat lost it for reasons best known to his lawyers. Shikat got it from Dan O'Mahony via the double X, and O'Mahony had won it when he beat another champion of the hour, none other than this same Jeemy Londos!

THIS BRINGS US back to Nagurski the champion, and his match of a few months ago with Londos, who beat his foe with suspicious ease. There wasn't a kick left in the Bronko.

Now, as his conqueror, the venerable Jeems, has left the country, Nagurski comes out snorting fire and breathing defense of his "title."

Apparently Bronko didn't recognize Londos as champion but decided that Thesz, because he had the N. W. A. approval, was the real king.

But even so it appears that the Thesz he defeated had a cracked knee cap at the time. The logical thing now is a return match in which the rejuvenated Thesz, with a new knee cap, will throw the Bronko for a loss.

Ways That Are Dark.

ONE OF THE BIZARRE organizations of the sport world is the National Wrestling Association, headed by Squire Landry of Friar's Point, Miss., or thereabouts.

This organization was originated several years ago by trust promoters to furnish an official front. It first made its presence felt about 10 years ago when John Pesek was trying to get Jimmy Londos into a match for the title which both claimed.

The match was agreed to, the purse was $25,000, and promotion in Columbus arranged for. It came down to the referee—and then the fun began. They dragged in the National Wrestling Association, which probably had only half a dozen commissions actually paying dues. Squire Landry of the N. W. A. announced that it decreed Charley Rentrop should handle the bou

Immediately the Pesek side began to back up, for Rentrop was known as a Londos man. Eventually Pesek withdrew from the match, announcing that he had fallen off a horse and injured his arm while following a coursing match.

Perhaps he did. But his followers all agreed that he wouldn't have been allowed to win the match had he gone through with the show, hurt or unhurt.

Still Issuing Ultimatums.

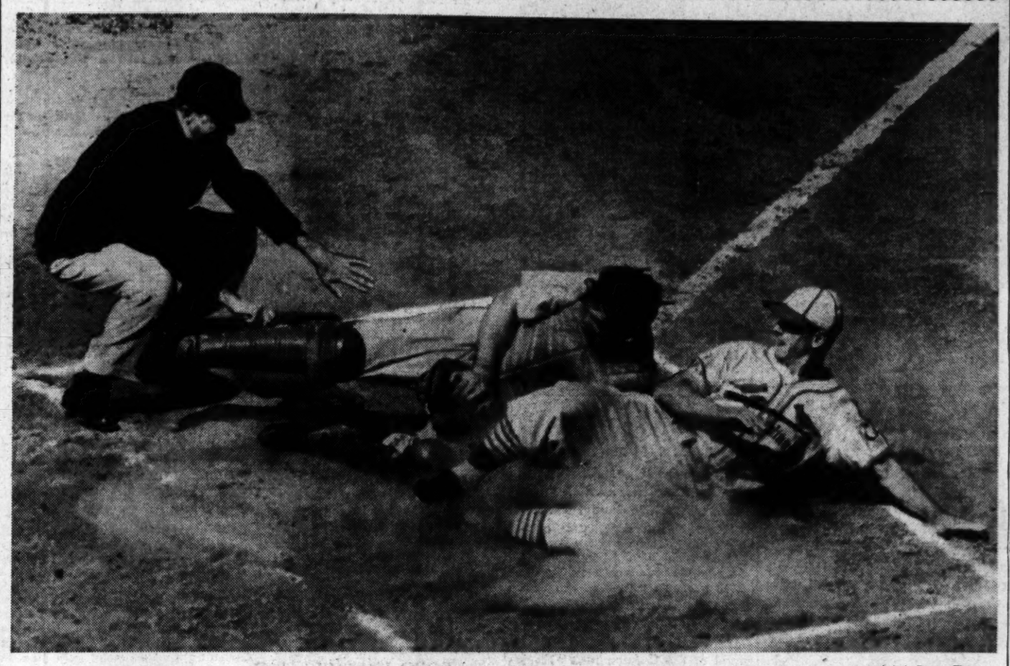

The N. W. A. still has a voice, if nothing else. And it says some queer things. A couple of years ago it said that John Pesek was its pick for the championship of the world and John wore the label, but couldn't cash in on it.

Then although John had not wrestled (because nobody would meet him) the N. W. A. took the title away from him and gave it to Everett Marshall, several times a defeated wrestler.

Now again the N. W. A. stands back of Nagurski, whose defeat by Londos is still fresh in the memory of such fans as are interested.

Will somebody please take apart this N. W. A. and see what makes it tick? And who winds it up?

DETROIT WINS FROM BROWNS BY 4-2 COUNT

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—The Detroit Tigers today defeated the Browns in the final of a two-game series, the play-off being necessitated by yesterday's tie.

The score was 4to 2.

Fair skies and a chilling wind greeted the spectators, of whom there were fewer than 1000 on hand when play started. It was easily the smallest crowd of the season here.

The game:

FIRST INNING — BROWNS — Greenberg went to the Brownies' dugout and made a one-handed catch of Heffner's foul. Higgins threw out Berardino. McQuinn doubled to center. Laabs doubled down the third-base line, scoring McQuinn. Gallgher was intentionally passed. Grace struck out. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—McCosky singled to left and took second when Gallagher fumbled the ball. Heffner threw out Cullenbine, McCosky going to third, McCosky scored as Gehringer grounded out to McQuinn, unassisted. York was out, Berardino to McQuinn. ONE RUN.

SECOND — BROWNS—Croucher threw out Harshany. Christman was out, Higgins to Greenberg. Gill was safe at first when Greenberg dropped Croucher's throw. Heffner walked. Berardino flied to McCosky.

TIGERS—Greenberg singled to left. Higgins forced Greenberg, Christman to Heffner. Higgins stole second. Christman threw out Fox, Higgins reaching third. Croucher fouled Harshany.

THIRD — BROWNS — Croucher threw out McQuinn. Laabs singled to center. Laabs stole second. Gallagher walked. Grace flied to Cullenbine. Benton tossed out Harshany.

TIGERS—Benton struck out. McCosky lined to Laabs. Cullenbine walked. Gehringer struck out.

FOURTH — BROWNS — Christman popped to Croucher. Gehringer threw out Gill. Heffner was called out on strikes.

TIGERS—York popped to Heffner. Berardino threw out Greenberg. Higgins waked. Fox singled to left, Higgins stopping at second. Croucher walked, filling the bases. Benton struck out.

FIFTH — BROWNS — Berardino struck out. McQuinn walked. McQuinn stole second. Laabs flied to Cullenbine. Gallagher flied to Cullenbine.

TIGERS—McCosky singled to right. Cullenbine forced McCosky, McQuinn to Christman. Gehringer hit into a double play, McQuinn to Christman to McQuinn.

SIXTH — BROWNS—Grace singled to center. Harshany flied to Cullenbine. Christman flied to Cullenbine. Gill forced Grace, Croucher to Gehringer.

TIGERS—York singled to left. Greenberg forced York, Gill deflecting the ball to Christman, who threw to Heffner, covering second. Higgins flied to Grace. Fox forced Greenberg, Christman to Heffner.

SEVENTH—BROWNS — Gehringer threw out Heffner. Berardino bunted down the third base line and was thrown out by Higgins. McQuinn flied to McCosky.

TIGERS—Croucher singled to left. Benton sacrificed, McQuinn to Hefner, who covered first. McCosky popped to Christman. Cullenbine walked. Gehringer singled to right, scoring CScoucher and sending Cullenbine to third. York lined to Gallagher. ONE RUN.

EIGHTH — BROWNS — Laabs beat out a slow roller to Higgins. Gallagher singled to right, sending Laabs to third. Laabs scored as Grace hit into a double play, Gehringer to Croucher to Greenberg. Gehringer threw out Harshany. ONE RUN.

TIGERS—Greenberg hit a home run into the lower stands in left field for his twenty-fifth homer of the season. Higgins flied deep to Laabs. Fox doubled to the left-field corner. Fox scored from second while Christman was throwing out Croucher. Benton was safe at first on Christman's low throw. McCosky singled to right, Benton stopping at second. Cullenbine struck out. TWO RUNS.

NINTH—BROWNS—Hoag batted for Christman and walked. Sullivan batted for Gill and flied to Fox. Heffner popped to Gehringer. Clift batted for Berardino and walked. McQuinn flied to Fox.

Prothro, Lobert And Beck of Phils Fined by Frick

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP). — Manager Doc Prothro, Coach Hans Lobert and Pitcher Walter Beck of the Phillies were fined a total of $100 by President Ford Frick of the National League today, for a row which marked yesterday's doubleheader with the Giants.

Prothro and Lobert each drew $25 penalties. Beck was assessed $50, because, the league head stated, he made threatening gestures at Umpire Bick Campbell.

All three were ejected from yesterday's second game in the ninth inning, after a lengthy argument concerning a walk to Second-Baseman Burgess Whitehead of the Giants in the eighth.

Former Giants Hurler Dies.

LIBERTY, Mo., Sept. 5 (AP).—James L. McBride, 71 years old, a southpaw pitcher with the New York Giants 40 years ago, died yesterday. He was a native of Virginia.

BLADES DECIDES TO USE ROOKIE AGAINST LEADERS OF LEAGUE

By J. Roy Stockton

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 5.—Max Lanier, left-handed recruit from Columbus, drew the important assignment of facing the Reds this afternoon in a replay of the tied game of yesterday's doubleheader. Except for one inning against the Reds yesterday, it was Lanier's first appearance since he was called from Columbus. Manager Will McKechnie of the Reds made it as difficult as possible for the Cardinal recruit, sending his pitching ace, Bucky Walters, to the hill.

Walters has won 21 games and lost 10 and has beaten the Cardinals three times, while losing to them only once. Manager McKechnie rearranged the lineup of his league leaders, benching Billy Myers and sending Eddie Joost to shortstop, with Linus Frey to duty at second base.

About 3500 persons attended. Dunn, Stark, Ballanfant and Klem were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING—REDS—Brown made a good stop and threw out Werber. Joost tripled to left-center. Goodman singled to center, scoring Joost. McCormick hit to S. Martin, who stepped on second and threw to Mize for a double play. ONE RUN.

CARDINALS—Brown struck out. S. Martin flied to Bordagaray. Slaughter singled to center. Frey threw out Medwick.

SECOND—REDS — Lombardi grounded to Mize. Craft struck out. Gutteridge threw out Bordagaray.

CARDINALS—Mize fouled to Werrber. T. Moore was safe on Joost's fumble. Gutteridge flied to Goodman. T. Moore stole second. Owen walked. Werber threw out Lanier.

THIRD—REDS—Frey lined to Lanier, who made a bare-hand catch. S. Martin threw out Walters. Werber was called out on strikes.

CARDINALS—Frey threw out Brown. S. Martin fouled to McCormick. Slaughter walked. Medwick struck out.

FOURTH—REDS—Joost flied to Slaughter. Lanier threw out Goodman. Gutteridge threw out McCormick.

CARDINALS—Mize singled to center. T. Moore hit into a double play, Walters to Joost to McCormick. Gutteridge flied to Goodman.

FIFTH—REDS—Brown threw out Lombardi. Craft was out the same way. Bordagaray flied to Slaughter.

CARDINALS—Owens walked. Lanier sacrificed, Walters to Frey. Werber threw out Brown. Joost threw out S. Martin.

Mrs. Thompson Reaches Final of District Tennis

Mrs. Bert Thompson defeated Miss Frances Jacobson in the first semifinal match of the district women's tennis tournament at Triple A this afternoon, 6-0, 6-4. It was the second time this season the two met in championship play and the result was the same as in their match in Kansas City in the Heart of America tournament.

Miss Jacobson forced the second set to a 4-4 tie but Mrs. Thompson's steadiness enabled her to run out the match.

Mrs. Merceina Parker, defending titleholder, and Mrs. Lois Keene Auerbach took the court after the Thompson-Jacobson match, for the other semifinal.

In the quarterfinal matches played yesterday, Mrs. Parker defeated Mrs. Margaret Goldstein, 7-5, 6-2 and Miss Jacobson won from Mary O. Lewis, 6-0, 6-1.

Mrs. Auerbach and Mrs. Parker reached the women's doubles final by defeating Mrs. Frank Furlong and Mrs. Goldstein, 6-0, 6-1, while Mrs. Virginia Dueker and Miss Jacobson, defending champions, eliminated Mrs. Thompson and Gloria Thompson 7-5, -1. The doubles final will probably be played Thursday.

Baur Wins Tennis Title.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 5 (AP).—Byron Baur, Erie (Pa.) attorney, today held the men's crown in the annual Mill Creek Park Labor day tennis championships, having beaten Harry Zink of Steubenville, defending champion, 6-0, 1-6, 9-7.

Jack Southworth of Pittsburgh defeated Bernie Mathieson of Koppel, Pa., 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, to win the junior title.

REDSKINS WIN OVER BULLDOGS PRO ELEVEN IN COAST GAME, 21-6

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5 (AP).—Washington's Redskins of the National Professional Football League trampled the best the Pacific Coast has to offer in a couple of warm-up tilts.

Coach Ray Flaherty's boys polished off the Los Angeles Bulldogs of the American League, 21-6, last night. Last week they trimmed a pickup team of ex-collegians in San Francisco.

Slingin' Sammy Baugh tossed a 19-yard bullet to Ed Justice for the visitors' second touchdown. Andy Farkas scored the first after a 64-yard drive. The last was engineered by Frank Filchock and Don Irwin after the Redskins held the Bulldogs on the three-yard line. Although Baugh was unstoppable while he was in the lineup, most of the credit went to Farkas for his fine plunging and fine running.

A crowd of 11,000 was on hand.

AUSTRALIANS START HOME AFTER WINNING THE DAVIS CUP

QUIST DEFEATS RIGGS; PARKER IS ROUTED BY JACK BROMWICH

Victory in Series Is First for Stars From Down Under Since Start of Last War.

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 5 (AP).—Australia's gallant tennis twosome, successful in the quest for the Davis Cup, traveled westward toward eventual war service today, while their defeated United States rivals headed toward New York, hopeful of salving their wounds in the national championships.

They say history never repeats itself, but it did yesterday for the lads from down under. Just as the Australians of 1914 turned back America, 3 to 2, as the World War broke out, so did determined Adrian Quist and John Bromwich come from behind yesterday to defeat Bobby Briggs and Frank Parker for a 3-to-2 victory before returning home for service in another armed conflict.

As the Aussies left for the Pacific coast, where they plan to board the American liner Monterey for Australia Sept. 13, the question of next year's Davis Cup play remained unanswered.

There were no matches between the war years of 1914 and 1919 and Sir Norman Brookes, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association who played on the 1914 Anzac team, refused to venture a guess whether the Australians, now at war again, would be able to defend the cup in 1940.

Quist Turns Back Riggs.

It was all over but the shouting when Quist turned back Riggs in five bristling sets yesterday, 6-1, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 6-4. The Anzac was at his best and after Riggs spent his fire in rallying to take the third and fourth sets, Quist had enough reserve strength to outstroke the Chicagoan in the fifth and deciding set.

After that, Bromwich, a disappointment in his earlier cup appearances, routed Parker, 6-0, 6-3, 6-1.

"Bromwich and I talked it over Sunday night," Quist said afterwards, "and he promised me if I won he would too.'

All of the drama of the final day's play was wrapped up in the terrific duel between Riggs and Quist. The crowd of 8000 seemed to sense that America's hopes were wrapped up in the game little scrapper from Chicago, and they roared for two solid hours at his valiant effort. But in the end he had to submit to an inspired opponent.

Quist said later he had played probably the greatest tennis of his career. He was so exhausted at the finish he scarcely could stand. After taking the first two sets and then visibly drooping as Riggs tore him apart in the next two, the Australian raised his game to its peak again in the fifth and just lasted to beat the dogged American boy.

Riggs Earns 50 Points.

It was terribly close. Riggs, in fact, earned 59 points, one more than his opponent, but his 94 errors to Quist's 83 cost him the decision. Quist's slightly superior ground strokes spelled the slim difference between them.

The Bromwich-Parker match was only terrible. Mercifully, it was short. From the first point, when the Australian began bombarding Frankie's forehand, the result was not in doubt. That was all Bromwich needed to do—keep the pill in play on Parker's weak side through the interminable slow motion rallies, until Frankie hit one of his 43 outs. Bromwich won seven straight games to begin the match, dropped the next three, then ran 10 more in a row.

Riggs, an overwhelming favorite as a result of his straight-set victory over Bromwich Saturday, lacked the control at the outset of the match, while Quist was in marvelous form. The Australian was nicking the lines with his forcing shots and hitting harder than Riggs. As a result Bobby was on the defensive all the way and was passed repeatedly when he tried to reach the net to attack. It went on that way until Quist held a 4-0 lead in the second set. Then Riggs won three straight games before he finally gave the set away on errors in the tenth game.

Australian Tires.

Quist began to tire toward the end of the second set and showed it in the third. His strokes lost some of their pace and Riggs was able to assume command. He had to do a lot of running to keep the ball in play, but he finally hit upon some smart lobs that broke up the Aussie's net game and ran out the set. He kept improving through the fourth set, gaining an easy victory when Quist let down at the end after the first six games had followed service.

They came out for the last set with the knowledge that the match and possession of the cup depended upon it. After losing the first game on Riggs' service, the Australian brought his game up to the first-set pitch again and took five straight. Bobby then rallied to win three, the last of them going through 16 points, but he collapsed after fighting off match point and Quist easily took the deciding tenth game on his own service.

By contrast, the Bromwich-Parker match looked like a club player taking a lesson from a star. It was almost entirely a baseline affair with Bromwich pounding away at his rival's weak spot. The "new" forehand that Frankie produced this summer just wasn't there. He earned only 15 points against his 59 errors.

Parker staged a brief rally in the second set, taking three straight games to lead, 3-1. Then he began missing again and it wasn't until the sixth game of the final set that he could win again.

They'll Take the Cup Home

Coach Rhodes, Home With Gunners, Says Team Will Be Speedy at 198-Lb. Average

By James M. Gould

When the St. Louis Gunners, the city's professional football representatives, oppose the Collegiate All-Stars at Walsh Memorial Stadium Friday night, followers of the game here will see a heavy, fast, well-coached and well-conditioned team. And there will be plenty of reserve for the first-string strength.

Choppy Rhodes, coach of the Gunners, is not predicting a victory over the All-Stars. He's not, in fact, predicting any victory at all this season. Rather, he contents himself with this statement: "We may start a bit slowly and look a big rough in spots, but, before Friday night's game is over, you'll see a smooth-working outfit in the very best of physical condition."

Coach Rhodes wouldn't indicate his first eleven for the opening game of the American League season in Columbus, O., Sept. 21, but he was willing to say that, if that game were scheduled for tomorrow, the chances are that the Gunners would have Dreher and Wilson at the ends, Phillips and Sandberg at the tackles; Bertagnolli and Flowers at the guards; Reynolds at center and a backfield picked from Tommy Thompson, Peterson, Ellstrom, Dodd, Denny Cochran, Johnson and Kischer.

198-Pound Average Over All.

This team, it was pointed out, would give the Gunners a line averaging almost exactly 200 pounds, a backfield averaging 195 and an average of 198 for the whole ball club. This weight, with speed which, natural or developed in training camp, is assured the team, will make them formidable in the race for first-place American League honors this fall, Rhodes believes.

While his praise for his players was general, Coach Rhodes did have special words of commendation for several of his men. He was enthusiastic about Tommy Thompson, his ace passer. "Thompson," he said, "is the best 'faking' passer I have ever seen. Until the moment he cuts loose with the ball, it is impossible, almost, to pick his target."

Continuing, he stated that he wouldn't want a better end to work with than Wilson and his praise of Bertagnolli, the former Washington University guard, was of the highest.

As to his playing plan for the season, Coach Rhodes had this to say: "It's no especial football secret that a passing attack needs a running offense to go with it to make it effective and that a running attack is not really devastating unless the threat of a pass always is present. This team of Gunners has, I believe, proficiency in both—a sort of 50-50 team regarding the two methods of attack."

As to Denny Cochran, Coach Rhodes hasn't seen the former star Billiken in action but he opines that, "if he's as good as they tell me he is, he'll be in there backing up Tommy Thompson." Kicking Ray Johnson will do most of it, Rhodes says, with Cochran given a call when Johnson is out and accuracy rather than distance is demanded.

Three League Games on Road.

The Gunners play three games out of town in league competition before opening at home. After the aforementioned Columbus game, they play in Cincinnati and then in Kenosha, Wis.

The team is quarteerd at a Natural Bridge Boulevard hotel for the present. They will make their headquarters at a hostelry on Delmar after Friday night's game.

Practice will continue for the Gunners with Walsh Stadium as the place for the workouts at least for the present. There, they will spell the All-Stars for the next two days.

It would seem that Coach Rhodes is entirely satisfied with his backfield. He has eight backs upon whom he is depending for first-string duty. There may be a spot or two in the line to bother him right now, but a good guess would be that Choppy expects the Gunners of 1939 to go places under his direction.

And, if they do, that will be quite all right with the St. Louis football public.

Final Midget Card at Stadium

The final midget auto racing program of the summer season will be held by Promoter Earl Reflow tonight at Walsh Memorial Stadium. The card will be featured by a 100-lap race. The first race starts at 8:30.

Wes Seagresser, one-armed St. Louisan who recently clinched the Eastern A. A. A. title, will race here tonight for the first time this summer.

Other leaders entered are Ray Richards, pacemaker in the national championship one-fifth mile dirt track series; Wally Zale, Duke Nalon, Tony Willman, Lyle Dickey, Pete Nielsen, Bob Muhlke, Mike O'Halloran, Pete Romsevich, Vito Calia, George Binnie and Rex Easton.

Carpenter in Final.

Marc Carpenter reached the final round of the Clayton men's singles tennis championship by defeating Bud Denkman, 6-8, 6-2, 4-all default. Denkman was obliged to stop play owing to blistered feet. Carpenter will oppose Cornelius McDonald, defending champion, in the final round this afternoon.

SECOND STRAIGHT FOR JOPLIN IN PLAYOFFS

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 5 (AP).—The Joplin Miners made it two in a row over the Topeka Owls in their current Western Association playoff series last night by scoring 10 runs in the last three innings for an 11-to-4 victory. It was Charley Wensloff's twenty-seventh pitching victory.

The Miners can clinch the series by winning tonight's game. Topeka won the opener at Joplin behind the hurling of Maurice Newlin, who will be seeking his twenty-eighth victory tonight.

PACKERS SCORE 31-20 VICTORY OVER ALL-STARS

DALLAS, Sept. 5 (AP).—Professional football waited four years to put a blemish on Southwestern football prestige, but the Green Bay Packers pretty well salved the wounds last night.

The Packers stifled some of the most important talent to come out of these parts in years to turn in a 31-20 victory—the first for the pros in four Labor day charity games.

In the first two periods they turned loose Clark Hinkle, who left college boys prone every few paces on his plunges; Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell, two fine passers, kickers and runners, and Don Hutson, an end who could catch footballs in a teakettle.

Trailing 31-6, the collegians rallied in the third period and fell in behind Davey O'Brien, Billy Patterson and a Pacific Coast surprise by the name of Pete Fay, lately of Stanford.

Fay raced the kickoff back 50 yards, passed twice to the Texas Aggies' Dick Todd and then bounced 13 yards around end for a touchdown.

O'Brien started handing out his old-time passing religion. He completed 11 of 20 attempted passes for 127 yards.

The Packers shot the works early. Isbell intercepted an O'Brien pass and Hinkle ran 21 yards for the first score. Patterson's fumble was recovered on the All-Star 16 and Engebretsen kicked a field goal.

Just two passes, the second for 30 yards to Hutson, was all Herber needed for the second touchdown.

Packer linemen tore O'Brien losoe from the ball for a fumble to set up the third score, Jankowski circling end.

Herber's 30-yarder to Al Moore set up a one-yard plunge for Jankowski on the fourth touchdown.

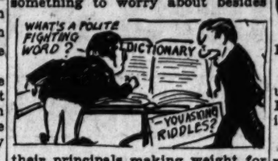

MONARCHS WIN OVER ST. LOUIS STARS FOR NEGRO LEAGUE TITLE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 5 (AP).—The Kansas City Monarchs defeated the St. Louis Stars, 7 to 0, last night here for the Negro American Baseball League pennant.

Weighed in the Balance.

Eddie Mead, and Al Weil, managers of Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers, respectively, have something to worry about besides their principals making weight for a fight. They will have to do something about weighing their words before going into a tirade after the fight.

They used to think that Muldoon, "the solid man," was hard boiled, but Gen. Phelan is no three-minute egg himself.

Literary Notes.

It looks as if the police have the bookmakers running to cover. If they don't turn over a new leaf they will have to carry on their business in the best cellars.

Of course they can always fall back on the old curbstone. With no rent to pay the take would be 100 per cent gravy.

However, being pushed around a bit is no novel experience to the seasoned bookmaker. It is all a part of a game that has no legal standing and consequently has to take it sitting down once in a while.

Take It Easy, Lawrence.

Larry McPhail says he hasn't discussed a 1940 contract with Leo Durocher and doesn't intend to until after the close of the season. Larry's philosophy is that a vote of confidence might make a guy overconfident.

ON plans for 1940 Larry
Is seemingly inclined to tarry.
But everything no doubt is Kosher
Between McPail and L. Durocher.

The policy of not crossing bridges until you come to them is sound. Especially in view of the fact that it can't be done.

The pro footballers have a definite idea about goal posts and their relation to goal lines. And they hew to the line and let the field goals fall where they may.

In this respect they have the college boys at a disadvantage in that they are playing their own game.

YACHT GOV'NOR II WINS AT MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Gov'nor II, sailed by Herman Landon of the Illinana Yacht Club, Chicago, yesterday won the national one-design three-day regatta sponsored by Milwaukee South Shore Yacht Club.

The Gov'nor II won yesterday's concluding race in one hour, six minutes and 12 seconds for the six-mile course. The defending champion, Gloria III, Fort Wayne, Ind., piloted by Joe Plasket, finished runner-up.

SIMMONS SETS NEW RECORD IN GOLD CUP RACE

DETROIT, Sept. 5 (AP).—A 20-foot mahogany and green hulled hydroplane whose owner, Z. G. Simmons Jr., of Greenwich, Conn., calls it "My Sin" today holds the North American speedboat championship and a new speed record for the event.

Simmons drove his 16-cylinder craft to a three heat victory in a race yesterday that saw the gold cup jinx eliminate each of the five other contenders from one or more heats. His speed of 66.227 miles an hour bettered Count Theo Rossi's record of 64.340 miles an hour made here last year for the 90 mile run. Count Rossi, of Italy, was prevented from defending his championship by the war in Europe.

Even Simmons, however, did not escape the hard luck that has dogged gold cup contestants in recent years. After he crossed the finish line in the third heat he reported to the judges that a port pontoon had cracked under the gruelling drive.

His boat nevertheless, was the day's start performer. He made the best lap speed with a six-mile dash at 70.153 miles an hour and his was the only boat that did not have to go to the repair shop between heats.

SEEDED PLAYERS ARE VICTORS IN DISTRICT PLAY

Play in the St. Louis district men's singles tennis championship has reached the quarterfinal round as the result of matches completed yesterday on the Shaw Park courts. Six of the eight seeded players gained the quarterfinal bracket.

Karl Hodge, seeded No. 5, will get into action today against Robert Friedman in a second round match. Both players participated in the Tri-state tournament at Burlington, Ia., over Labor day. The winner of the match will oppose Harold Wiese in the next round.

Howard Stephens, defending champion, reached the quarter-finals by defeating Ward Parker, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2, while Frank Keaney, former district champion, advanced by defeating Ed Serrano, 6-0, 7-5.

The Washington University player, Jerome Horwitz, played good tennis to defeat Robert Scharff, 6-8, 8-6, 6-3 in a third-round match. Scharff had previously upset Russell Hadden.

Teddy Eggmann, seeded No. 6, was forced to a 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 match by Archer Sargent, Triple A player. Poge Lewis carried Ray Wiese to 6-4, 7-5 before losing.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Second round—Ward Parker defeated George Fritzinger, 6-0, 6-0; Jerome Horwitz won by default from Norman Dean; Jack Hemker defeated Richard Hetherington, 6-2, 6-2; Robert Scharff defeated Sam Gordon, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2; M. C. Lewis won by default from Allen Carvel; Harold Wiese won by default from Ralph Hart.

NATIONAL GUARD TEAM CAPTURES SHOOTING TITLE

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 5 (AP).—More than 2000 crack marksmen eyed targets today in the individual rifle match, one of the top events of the national meet being held here. The 2046 entered comprised the largest list ever enrolled for a single sports event in America.

In yesterday's feature a Washington National Guard squad defeated Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard teams in the musketry problem match. The far west sharpshooters piled up 530 points to 527 for the Army cavalry team and 519 for the Coast Guard.

Members of the winning squad were Lieutenant-Colonel J. W. Kenney of South Tacoma, team captain; Sergt. J. W. Johnson of Everett, coach; Capt. V. L. McDonald of Spokane; Lieut. R. E. Dever of Aberdeen; Sergt. R. E. Gay of Spokane; Sergt. J. J. Dicarlo of Spokane; Sergt. C. E. Hollingzer of Tacoma; Sergt. A. R. Dunn of Aberdeen; Sergt. W. Lowe of Everett, and Sergt. R. R. Koehler of Tacoma.

The Marine Corps won five of the first 10 places in the Wright Memorial grand aggregate match, based on the total scored in three of the major 30-caliber competitions.

Master Gunnery Sergt. Thomas J. Jones, who last week won the President's match, headed the list, followed by Corporal Clifford W. Rowlings of Waukegan, Ill., and Serg. Waldo A. Phinny of Wakefield, Kan. All are Marines.

The Marine Corps won the national pistol team match. On the winning squad were Capt. William J. Whaling, Master Gunner James R. Tucker, Lieut. Phillip C. Metzger and Sergt. Thurman E. Barrier of Quantico, Va.; John E. Heath of Glassport, Pa.; Vito Perna of Wakefield, Mass., and Sergt. Robert E. Schoenaman of Jewett City, Conn.

Breimeyers and Curlee Girls Win

The Breimeyers outhit Falstaff, 11 to 3, but the Brewers advanced a step closer to the city softball title as they defeated St. Louis Park girls aggregation, 9 to 7, in the division finals of the city softball tournament at the North Side Park last night.

In the men's encounter Kutis Undertakers set down the seeded Varas Autos, 4 to 1.

Heavy hitting featured the contests of the South Side-Maplewood Park division at South Side. The Curlee Girls made 12 blows to defeat Missouri Pacific, 12 to 3.

Nine errors, along with 11 hits, gave Independent Packers a 14-to-3 victory over A. G. Edward in the men's engagement.

The second round of the division finals will be played tonight, the playing site changing to St. Louis and Maplewood parks.

PAROLE FOR THIRD MAN IN KILLING OF PATROLMAN

Joseph Daher, Serving Life in Case of Death of William McCormack in 1929 Holdup, Released.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 5. — Joseph Daher, St. Louis convict serving a life term for first-degree murder in the killing of Patrolman William McCormack in a St. Louis holdup in 1929, was paroled Saturday by Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Harris.

He was the third of the four men serving life terms for the murder to be paroled and the second to be paroled by Harris.

The Lieutenant-Governor told the Post-Dispatch he signed the parole on recommendation of the Parole Board and with the approval of the widow of McCormack. He added that a large number of St. Louisans had written in support of the parole application and that Daher's prison record was good.

Daher was paroled to Herman Wessels, 3732 Bates street, a saloonkeeper, who was named as the convict's sponsor in the parole application.

Harris pointed out that evidence adduced at Daher's trial showed he had not been present at the time when McCormack was killed, in a cigar store at 3908 South Broadway, but was across the street.

The State introduced a confession at the trial, in which Daher admitted helping to plan the robbery and driving his companions to a point near the store. In his testimony Daher denied knowing a robbery was planned and said he got out of the car when a chance remark of one of the robbers made him suspicious.

Those previously paroled from life sentences in the murder were William P. Maloney, released by Harris in January, 1936, in the absence of former Gov. Guy B. Park, and Eugene F. Ware, paroled by Gov. Park the following December. Patrolman McCormack's widow protested vigorously against these paroles. Maloney and Ware had pleaded guilty in October, 1929; Daher was convicted by a jury the following January.

The only man remaining in the penitentiary for the murder is Earl Reed, who pleaded guilty in 1931 after being returned here from an Idaho prison, and confessed firing the shots which killed McCormack.

DESCRIBES BOMBER'S ATTACK ON DANISH CITY

Witness Says Plane Which Killed Two Flew Off to Southwest.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 5 (AP).—An eye witness told the Associated Press today the unidentified plane which flew over the Danish seaport of Esbjerg yesterday "disappeared to the Southwest" after dropping four bombs, one of which struck an apartment house, killing two persons.

(Esbjerb, on the west coast of Jutland, is 40 miles north of the German border and 140 miles west of Copenhagen.)

"I was sitting at home eating supper when a strong explosion some distance away shook the house," said the witness.

"I ran out on the balcony in time to see a grayish, apparently two-motored plane disappearing to the Southwest. Ambulances were hurrying by in the street.

"I went in the direction of the explosion and saw a demolished apartment house. I could hear children shrieking and saw people hiding their faces in their hands. A few minutes later two bodies were carried from the ruins."

The witness added that the first bomb fell in the harbor, raising a column of water; the second near a factory, tearing a hole in the ground; the third hit the apartment house, and the fourth fell in the courtyard of another building, where no one was hurt.

The Danish Government sent a commission to investigate the bombing, and Foreign Minister Peter Munch said he would make a protest and demand indemnity if the nationality of the plane could be discovered. It was hoped it would be possible to find the bomb that fell in the harbor as a clew to the plane's nationality.

SEYMOUR WEISS GOES ON TRIAL IN U. S. COURT

He and Four Others Accused of Plot to Defraud Louisiana U. of $75,000.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Federal Government called Seymour Weiss, treasurer for the late Huey P. Long's political machine, and four others to trial today. Selection of a jury was completed this afternoon.

Weiss

This was the first move toward actual conviction of the several persons accused since the Government began an investigation of financial affairs in the State Government.

On trial with Weiss is Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State University. It was the resignation of Smith and his subsequent hurried trip to Canada which precipitated the inquiries that have been going on all summer.

The indictments on which Weiss and Smith went to trial with Monte Hart, Louis C. Lesage and J. Emory Adams, alleged the five conspired to sell the State university for $75,000 hotel furnishings which the university already owned. Misuse of the mails was charged.

Hart is a New Orleans contractor. Lesage was suspended as assistant to the president of the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana. Adams is a nephew of Dr. Smith.

Dr. Smith has been indicted more than 40 times on a variety of charges since his return, under guard, from Canada. Among the charges were those which alleged he misused huge sums of university funds for market speculation.

Developments which followed Dr. Smith's resignation included the resignation of Richard W. Leche as Governor and the elevation of Earl K. Long, brother of Huey, from the Lieutenant-Governorship.

Leche later was indicted in connection with oil operations, which the Government declared were illegal.

Practice Blackout in Sydney.

SYDNEY, Nova Scotia, Sept. 5 (AP). — Sydney's first practice "blackout" against possible air raids was staged last night. All lights in the city were blinked as a signal and for five minutes Sydney was only a dark blotch. Police said the practice was a success.

TURNER WINS AIR SPEED CLASSIC FOR THIRD TIME

Flies Planes to Victory Over Six Other Pilots in Thompson Trophy Race at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5 (AP). — Col. Roscoe Turner drove his big aluminum plane to victory over six other pilots today in the 300-mile Thompson trophy race.

The Chicagoan thus became the first three-time winner of the speed classic.

Turner averaged 282 miles an hour, not quite up to his own Thompson record of 283 miles an hour for the 30 laps around a 10-mile closed course. Turner established this record last year. The victory, before an estimated 60,000 spectators, brought Turner $16,000. Tony Levier of Montebello, Cal., was second, with an average of 272.538 miles an hour, and won $8000. Earl Ortman, Canadian Colonial Airways pilot from Montreal and Newark, U. J., runner-up in each of the last three years, took third place and won $4000.

Woodring Consults Pershing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Secretary of War Woodring called yesterday on Gen. John J. Pershing, war-time Commander of the American armies in France, who is in Walter Reed Hospital for a physical checkup. Woodring said they talked over the entire national defense situation. He said Pershing, who will be 79 years old next week, was keeping up to the minute on world affairs.

SOUTH AFRICAN UNION BREAKS WITH GERMANY

Hertzog Defeated on Issue — Gen. Smuts Likely to Form Government.

CAPETOWN, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Union of South Africa's Parliament voted today to follow Great Britain's lead by breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany.

Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, who led British Empire forces in capturing Germany's African possessions during the World War, was expected to form a new Government succeeding that of Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog, who was defeated on the issue of breaking off relations.

Hertzog's proposal that relations with belligerent countries "persist unchanged, as if no war was being waged," was turned down by the Union's Assembly by a vote of 80 to 66.

Smuts has been Minister of Justice in the Hertzog Government, is a former Prime Minister and was a member of Britain's Supreme War Council during the World War.

The assembly previously had adopted a proposal for severance of relations with Germany following a Cabinet split over war policy.

JOHN L. LEWIS SAYS LABOR WANTS NO PART IN WAR

CIO Leader Says Statesmen Should Worry About Getting Work for Jobless.

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 5 (AP).—American labor stands for peace, John L. Lewis declared yesterday after condemning war as "the device of the politically despairing and intellectually sterile statesmen."

"Labor in America wants no war or any part of war," said the CIO leader in a Labor day address. "Labor wants the right to work and live—not the privilege of dying by gunshot or poison gas to sustain the mental errors of current statesmen."

"The country is being told of the statesmen and national leaders who are spending sleepless nights in worry over the situation in Europe. In every way how much better it would be if the same statesmen would spend a few sleepless nights in devising a way for one-fourth of America's workers to get jobs at a wage that would keep them alive."

Three Drowned in Minnesota Lake.

DEER RIVER, Minn., Sept. 5 (AP).—Three St. Paul men drowned and a companion was rescued when their boat turned over on Sand Lake, 30 miles northwest of here yesterday. One of the men drowned, H. A. Cooper, 42 years old, had been recovering from an operation for appendicitis. The other two were Henry J. Boucher, 41, and T. P. Cincoski, 36.

RUMBLE OF GUNS HEARD PLAINLY IN AMSTERDAM

Foreign Planes Flying Over Netherlands Twice Shot at During Night.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5 (AP).—The rumble of guns in an undetermined direction could be heard plainly in Amsterdam today.

Two incidents of foreign planes flying over the Netherlands during the night were reported officially.

In the first, anti-aircraft batteries south of Amsterdam fired at the unidentified planes. In an apparently unrelated case, more than 50 shots were fired over a 30-minute period about 5 a. m. It was not reported whether any hits were made.

HUDSON RIVER BRIDGES AND TUNNELS GUARDED BY POLICE

Port Authority Takes Precaution Against Possibility of Sabotage.

FORT LEE, N. J., Sept. 5 (AP), —Port of New York authority police were on guard today against sabotaging of the Hudson River bridges and tunnels.

Billings Wilson, authority assistant general manager, signed an order yesterday calling for extra precaution by Port police.

The order was posted in police squad stations at the George Washington, Bayonne, outerbridge crossing and Goethals bridges and the Lincoln and Holland tunnels.

WALLACE NAME COUNCIL TO SH WAR FARM POL

Purpose of Group of to Offset Adverse fects of European flict on U. S. Agricu

SUPPLY OF FOOD PLENTIFUL, HE S

Among Appointees Men Who Have Opp Some Policies of Ag ture Department.

Wallac

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (Secretary of Agriculture W appointed yesterday an ad council of farmers and business men to help draft policies to offset any adverse effects of the European war on American agricultural economy.

The 14-member council included several men who have been critical of the Department's policies.

Those asked to be on the council included W. L. Clayton, Houston (Tex.) cotton merchant wh opposed some of the depart cotton policies; John Vesecky ident of the Farmers' Unio advocate of the domestic allo plan which Wallace opposes; raber, master of the Na Grange, and Thomas E. of the Chicago meat packing ily.

The first meeting of the cil was called for Sept. 19.

Wallace said the effects war probably would be felt f the marketing of products this country normally exports, that the war might also affec the movement of products pr duced primarily for domestic sumption.

Plenty of Food.

"There are now abundant and fiber supplies in our cou he said. "By working tog farmers, business men and Go ment can make these su available at prices fair to sumers and producers alike, are much better prepared t this than we were at the out of the World War. And it als be much easier to make th justments necessary to pre peace."

He said the problems cou solved "without resort to methods of the dictators."

Others appointed to the ad council included Barry Bin publisher, Louisville Courier nal; J. H. Burruss, president ginia Polytechnic Institute; man Fakler, Washington, vice ident of the Millers' National eration, Clifford Gregory, ass publisher, Wallace's Farmer, Moines; Oscar Johnston, Miss., president, National C Council; Hector Lazo, Washi vice-president of Co-operative Distributors; Clarence Poe, Progressive Farmer, Raleigh, M. Wallace on Cotton Marketi

Wallace said today the war the problem of disposing of A ca's cotton surplus more diff

In an address prepared fo opening of an international c conference, he declared:

"It seems likely that any creased use of cotton for mil purposes in the combatant cou will be much more than offs decreased use for ordinary poses.

"Also, the problem of transp tion from exporting to impo countries has become acute."

Ten nations were listed as ticipants in the cotton confer Besides the United States, the India, Egypt, Brazil, the U Kingdom (on behalf of the B cotton exporting colonies), Fr (on behalf of its cotton colo Soviet Russia, the Sudan, Peru Mexico.

Officials indicated the U States would seek support fo international marketing agreem They said such an agreement w call for restrictions on produ in other countries similar to invoked in the United States u the Crop Control Law.

The conference is without au ity to draft an agreement. It called to ascertain whether the jor cotton producing nations w favor a formal conference power to act.

Wallace has said that if an a ment is put into operation, e subsidies would be abandoned.

HUDSON RIVER BRIDGES AND TUNNELS GUARDED BY POLICE

Port Authority Takes Precaution Against Possibility of Sabotage.

FORT LEE, N. J., Sept. 5 (AP), Port of New York authority police were on guard today against sabotaging of the Hudson River bridges and tunnels.

Billings Wilson, authority assistant general manager, signed an order yesterday calling for extra precaution by Port police.

The order was posted in police quad stations at the George Washington, Bayonne, outerbridge crossing and Goethals bridges and the Lincoln and Holland tunnels.

WALLACE NAMES COUNCIL TO SHAPE WAR FARM POLICY

Purpose of Group of 14 Is to Offset Adverse Effects of European Conflict on U. S. Agriculture

SUPPLY OF FOOD PLENTIFUL, HE SAYS

Among Appointees Are Men Who Have Opposed Some Policies of Agriculture Department.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace appointed yesterday an advisory council of farmers and business men to help draft policies to offset any adverse effects of the European war on American agricultural economy.

Wallace

The 14-member council included several men who have been critical of the Department's policies.

Those asked to be on the council included W. L. Clayton, Houston (Tex.) cotton merchant who has opposed some of the department's cotton policies; John Vesecky, president of the Farmers' Union and advocate of the domestic allotment plan which Walalce opposes; M. J. Faber, master of the National Grange, and Thomas E. Wilson of the Chicago meat packing family.

The first meeting of the council was called for Sept. 19.

Wallace said the effects of the war probably would be felt first in the marketing of products which this country normally exports, but that the war might also affect the movement of products produced primarily for domestic consumption.

Plenty of Food.

"There are now abundant food and fiber supplies in our country," he said. "By working together, farmers, business men and Government can make these supplies available at prices fair to consumers and producers alike. We are much better prepared to do this than we were at the outbreak of the World War. And it also will be much easier to make the adjustments necessary to preserve peace."

He said the problems could be solved "without resort to the methods of the dictators."

Others appointed to the advisory council included Barry Bingham, publisher, Louisville Courier-Journal; J. H. Burruss, president Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Herman Fakler, Washington, vice-president of the Millers' National Federation, Clifford Gregory, associate publisher, Wallace's Farmer, Des Moines; Oscar Johnston, Scott, Miss., president, National Cotton Council; Hector Lazo, Washington, vice-president of Co-operative Food Distributors; Clarence Poe, editor, Progressive Farmer, Raleigh, N. C.; M. W. Thatcher, general manager, Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association, St. Paul; T. Blair Willison, president, National Voluntary Groups Institute, Cleveland; and Garrett Vander Hooning, president, National Association of Retail Grocers, Chicago.

Wallace on Cotton Marketing.

Wallace said today the war made the problem of disposing of America's cotton surplus more difficult.

In an address prepared for the opening of an international cotton conference, he declared:

"It seems likely that any increased use of cotton for military purposes in the combatant countries will be much more than offset by decreased use for ordinary purposes.

"Also, the problem of transportation from exporting to importing countries has become acute."

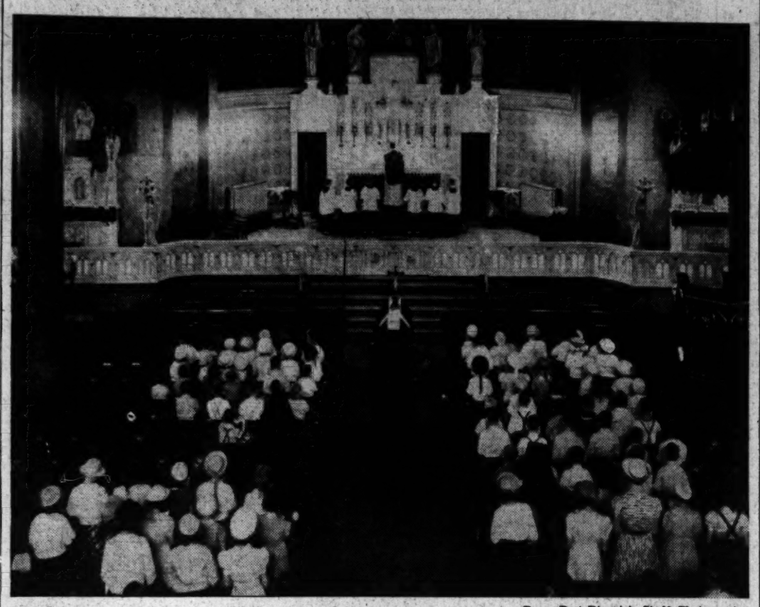

Ten nations were listed as participants in the cotton conference. Besides the United States, they are India, Egypt, Brazil, the United Kingdom (on behalf of the British cotton exporting colonies), France (on behalf of its cotton colonies), Soviet Russia, the Sudan, Peru and Mexico.

Officials indicated the United States would seek support for an international marketing agreement. They said such an agreement would call for restrictions on production in other countries similar to those invoked in the United States under the Crop Control Law.

The conference is without authority to draft an agreement. It was called to ascertain whether the major cotton producing nations would favor a formal conference with power to act.

Wallace has said that if an agreement is put into operation, export subsidies would be abandoned.

GERMAN-AMERICAN LEAGUE WANTS WIEDEMANN RECALLED

It Cites Hitler Aid's Alleged Connection With Recent Spy Trial Defendants.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5 (AP).—The German-American Culture League in national convention here, requested last night recall of Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, German Consul-General in San Francisco, Adolf Hitler's former private adjutant.

Wiedemann

The League also expressed to President Roosevelt its support of his foreign policies and "the democratic ideal" in the name of 100,000 members.

The League had previously called on the German people to overthrow Hitler as a destroyer of reputations of good Germans. Vice-President Martin Hall of Chicago cited Wiedemann's exposure as confidant of defendants in the recent New York Nazi spy trials.

The League advised Roosevelt "We have been uncompromising in our opposition to the Hitler regime. We are confident that the full weight of Government agencies will be used to insure that we and all loyal German-Americans will be protected against discrimination."

CHANCE FOR U. S. TO TAKE NAZI SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE

E. J. Noble of Commerce Department Discusses Prospects With President.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Edward J. Noble, Acting Secretary of the Commerce Department, stayed after the Cabinet meeting yesterday to discuss with President Roosevelt the possibilities of increasing American exports to South America as the result of Germany's being tied up in war. The United States, he said, has been the biggest exporter to South America, with Germany second.

He told reporters his department was co-operating with the State Board in gathering information on the subject and in particular it was planned that an inventory of available supplies would be taken.

Recalling that during the last war there were complaints that America had jumped prices and sold inferior goods to Latin America, he said it was important that there be no undue advance in prices. He hoped this might be accomplished through co-operation among business men, saying it was the sensible way to proceed.

BRITISH KEEP FAR EAST MERCHANTMEN IN PORT

German Vessels Reported to Have Been Armed as Raiders on Orient Routes.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5 (AP).—Britain ordered all merchant ships in the Far East to remain in port today pending further instructions from the Admiralty.

In some quarters it was thought this action was taken to permit a check of unconfirmed reports that several German vessels had disappeared from their Oriental routes and had been equipped with guns to act as raiders.

A Japanese press dispatch from Amoy said it was reported there that the 3472-ton British steamer Anking had been torpedoed between Manila and Hongkong.

In Manila, agents of Butterfield & Swire, which operate the Anking, discounted the report and declared the vessel was immediately north of Manila Bay, close to the United States Olongapo naval base.

Germany has had no naval base in the Far East since losing all its possessions in the World War.

The Anking plys between Amoy in South China and Manila.

The Canadian liners Empress of Japan, which was scheduled to sail yesterday morning for Vancouver, and Empress of Asia were among the vessels held in port.

The United States cruiser Marblehead is due in Shanghai Wednesday with a company of United States Marines removed from Chinwangtao.

The European war was brought to Shanghai by scattered clashes between British and German citizens.

Members of the Shanghai British defense force were reported to have stormed the German Tennis Club in the International Settlement and smashed the furnishings. It was reported the German colony in Tientsin was preparing to return to Germany by way of the Trans-Siberian Railway.

'KID CONGRESSMAN' DIES AT 64

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP).—Charles S. Wharton, who was elected to Congress at the age of 29 and later went to prison, died yesterday at the age of 64.

Wharton, known as the "Kid Congressman" in 1904, served at various times as Assistant City Attorney and Assistant State's Attorney. He was sent to prison in 1929, accused of using his home as a hideout for mail robbers.

MORGAN PARRIES QUESTIONS ABOUT THE EUROPEAN WAR

Asked If Firm Will Be Fiscal Agent, He Says, "How Can I Tell."

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—J. P. Morgan, returning from Europe on the liner Queen Mary yesterday, merely replied "how can I tell?" when asked if his banking firm would act as fiscal agents for the Allies during the war.

Morgan

"You fellows always jump ahead so fast," he added good naturedly.

(Acting as purchasing agents for England and France in 1914-17, the Morgan firm bought three billion dollars worth of war supplies, receiving a commission of 1 per cent—$30,000,000. The firm also floated loans of $1,500,000,000 for the two Governments in those years. In the second year of the war, the firm floated a single loan of $500,000,000, largest ever floated up to that time, for which a syndicate of 2200 banks was organized.)

The elderly banker parried all questions on the war, with good natured responses, saying, "Don't ask me questions about the future."

He said, however, "The English people are taking it marvelously; they feel it's a job to be done."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS MEMBERS POLLED ON DEFERRING SESSION

Britain Suggested Postponement, Saying Its Delegation Could Not Attend at Present.

GENEVA, Sept. 5 (AP).—The secretary-general of the League of Nations telegraphed inquiries today to league members to determine whether sessions of the council and assembly set for next Monday should be postponed on account of the war.

The British Government had suggested postponement, saying, "In the present circumstances it would not be possible for a British delegation to go to Geneva . . ."

REPORTS OFFER TO REDS TO NOMINATE ROOSEVELT IN '36

Earl Browder Testifies Man Told Him He Was Willing to Pay $250,000 for Selection by Communists.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP). — Earl Browder, general secretary of the American Communist party, told the Dies committee today that the party was offered $250,000 by a group of anonymous individuals in 1936 to nominate President Roosevelt as its candidate.

The offer was made to him as party head, Browder testified, by a man whom he knew only as "Davidson." Davidson, he said, told him he was representing a group of six or seven wealthy Republicans.

"The original proposition," Browder told the committee, "was to nominate Mr. Roosevelt as the candidate, but when I just laughed at that he made the modified proposition that I withdraw in favoro of the President." Browder was nominated later as the Communist candidate.

Browder said the purpose of the offer was clearly to reduce the vote of the Democratic party by attaching to it the "relative unpopularity" of the Communist party.

First Offer Only $100,000.

The offer was first $100,000, Browder asserted, and "then when I reacted rather coldly he tried to warm me up by raising the ante to $250,000."

Browder said he did not flatly refuse the offer but carried on negotiations to the point of discussing a depository bank in which funds could be placed to show good faith of the offer. He did this, he explained, in the hope of obtaining information about those behind the offer but was never able to learn their names.

Browder added that he had never seen Davidson prior to that time and had not seen him since he suddenly disappeared in the midst of the negotiations. He expressed the opinion that Davidson broke off the negotiations because of receiving "some kind of tip." The Communist party chief had asked an intermediary to transmit a report of the offer to the Democratic National Committee, he said.

Gives Description of Man.

His first meeting with Davidson, the witness related, was in his own office in New York while subsequent meetings were held in the dining room of the Grand Central Station, New York City. Browder said he could recognize the intermediary if he saw him again. He described him as of medium height, with dark complexion closely shaven.

"He was neatly dressed and looked like a typical executive, industrialist, banker or broker," Browder recalled.

A committee member asked why Browder had indorsed the President in 1936.

"I didn't," Browder answered promptly. "I spoke in favor of Roosevelt policies, but I carefully refrained from indorsing the President precisely because I knew the Republicans wanted me to do it."

Browder said that he attempted to ascertain whether Davidson was sincere in his offer and first consulted with Heywood Broun, columnist, who is president of the American Newspaper Guild. Nothing happened, he said, and he went to a "Mr. Stone" of the editorial staff of the New York Post. (I. F. Stone, former editorial writer on the New York Post, now is an associate editor of the Nation, weekly magazine.)

Browder said he talked to Broun and Stone after he decided that the information about Davidson's proposal ought to be given to the Democratic party, especially the party's national committee. Broun, he said, produced no results and then he talked to Stone.

Then, he said, he was "called into a conference with another man who said he would give the information to Senator Guffey (Dem.), Pennsylvania."

Browder asserted that he also called in a Canadian banker whom he did not identify, but whose name he said he would give to the committe privately.

In opening his testimony, Browder said his party now had about 100,000 members—four times the 1934 total—in 42 states.

Browder said his salary was $40 weekly, but his writings and lectures bring in additional income which he said resulted in a total of $4000 last year.

In answer to other questions, he said the Communist party did not maintain any "secret or underground organization."

Browder said that the income of the party which came to the general office was about $200,000 a year and that the party's budget was the same. The party, he said, has not received any financial aid from outside the United States since he became general secretary nine years ago.

Answering questions, Browder asserted that the "closest harmony" exists between his organization and the Communist Internationale in Russia.

"Does that closest harmony exists now that Mr. Stalin has signed up with Mr. Hitler?" asked Representative Thomas (Rep.), New Jersey, a committee man, explaining he referred to the non-aggression agreement.

"Yes, the closest harmony and agreement," Browder replied.

Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina Formally Proclaim Neutrality

Chile Also Has Decided to Keep Out of War Which Naval Operations Has Brought Close to South American Shores.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5 (AP).—As naval operations brought Europe's war within sight of South American shores, the republics of Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina formally announced their neutrality yesterday by repeating decrees similar to those which all three adopted 25 years ago. Chile, on the Pacific Coast, also decided on neutrality.

The Brazilian Government's neutrality regulations inclue:

Brazil will not tolerate any offensive act by belligerents against its territory.

Belligerent warships may not enter Brazilian territorial waters.

Organizations of combatants to serve any belligerent and the establishment of recruiting stations in Brazil is prohibited.

The collection of funds for belligerents is prohibited. The Red Cross may raise funds.

The Federal and State Government representatives are prohibited from exporting for delivery to belligerents any kind of "war material" and cannot assist directly or indirectly in such delivery.

The export of actual fighting equipment from a Brazilian port for any belligerent port is prohibited.

The Government forbids the arming in Brazil of non-warships.

Belligerents are prohibited from using the Brazilian shore or waters as bases for naval operations.

The Argentine Government barred exports of fuel and decided to permit any foreign vessel to load only sufficient fuel to reach its first port outside the Rio de la Plata. The Government also adopted regulations for communication with foreign ships.

The Ministry of Marine announced four destroyers had sailed from Puerto Belgrano bound for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to accompany the Argentine battleships Moreno and Rivadavia, due at Rio de Janeiro today with a naval and military mission. The destroyers will escort the battleships when they return to Puerto Belgrano and make "tactical maneuvers" during the trip.

President of Guatemala Issues Neutrality Proclamation.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Sept. 5 (AP). — President Jorge Ubico issued a manifesto yesterday declaring strict neutrality in the European conflict. Foreigners were forbidden to hold political demonstrations or participate in other activities tending to disturb order.

STARK TO CALL BOARD IN BUILDING INQUIRY

Meeting to Be Held to Discuss Aiding in Federal Investigation.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 5. — Gov. Lloyd C. Stark said today he would call a meeting of the State Building Commission soon, to discuss the current Federal investigation of the $17,000,000 program of rehabilitating the State eleemosynary and penal institutions, and possible action by the commission in furtherance of the inquiry.

The Governor said he had not seen a letter written to him by Attorney-General Roy McKittrick asking Stark to call a meeting of the Building Commission to consider the situation. McKittrick, a member of the commission, did not ask for a separate investigation by the commission but requested a conference to consider what might be done.

The Governor has said the inquiry was started by the Federal Public Works Administration after he heard reports, about a year ago, of possible irregularities and suspected "sabotage" in delaying of the construction of State-owned and operated electric light and power plants in the various institutions. Federal grants provided about $7,000,000 of the funds for the building program.

The inquiry, as disclosed in the Post-Dispatch, involves the question of whether privately owned public utilities had anything to do with the difficulties encountered in the commission in carrying out its original policy of establishing State owned and operated plants at each of the penal and eleemosynary institutions.

The Governor is chairman of the State Building Commission. Other members are McKittrick, Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, State Auditor Forrest Smith, State Treasurer Robert W. Winn and State School Superintendent Lloyd W. King.

What This Job Means To You!

Curtis E. Chapman works smoothly and rapidly, without waste motion. J. H. Moon, foreman in charge of car loading, is pleased with his efficiency. They both know fresh meat is highly perishable. Their skill and energy are devoted to getting those Swift Premium lambs, together with other meats, fresh from the cooling room, into that refrigerator car where they'll stay fresh while they're moving on schedule to other markets awaiting them.

The refrigerator car is one of the greatest developments in the meat packing industry. It originated a little more than fifty years ago when G. F. Swift and a few other forward-looking men took the first experimental steps toward a practical means of shipping fresh dressed meat in perfect condition to points distant from those at which it was produced.

Refrigerator car-loading and shipping is an important part of the activities of Swift & Company's National Stock Yards plant. By increasing the capacity of the plant beyond its first consideration of local needs, it increases the importance and activity of the St. Louis area as a primary market of the Central West. That, in turn, provides work for many of our local people—and helps to insure a daily supply of the finest fresh meat and other products for people who might otherwise enjoy them less frequently.

Those who comprise our plant have this enduring satisfaction while performing their task; they know it is related to the vital human need for daily food—and they know that both you and I can depend upon the way it is done.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Keep the Dollars Rolling.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ACCORDING to the historians, we have had 15 depressions since our country was founded in 1776. Now, most economists are agreed that our economic system can function only when there is purchasing power.

Anyone disputing this would likely dispute the law of gravity. Yet we do seem to have a powerful group in the United States who would cut down the purchasing power and lengthen the hours of workers. With incurable obstinacy, this group seem to think a few petty economies will solve the problem. We should like to ask that group, "Would you have the masses forego decent food and clothing while you quibble over how to balance the budget?"

Until some genius comes along with a new idea of how to level off income, let's be human, at least, and use the resources of the nation generously, not grudgingly.

N. HUSSEY JR.

Praises Campaign for Seward Parole.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WANT you to know your great work on the Seward case has done much to attract the attention of others who, like yourself, are determined to hold out for justice. The Post-Dispatch has exposed a grave error which should be rectified. I want to encourage you in your great work.

MRS. W. L. RIFFLE.
Troy, Mo.

Two Views on KWK's Censorship.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I want to protest the action which KWK took in cutting Dorothy Thompson off the air. However moral the operators of the station may feel about being neutral, they still do not have the power to become national censors of what may be said or heard.

MRS. WALTER BODE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SINCERELY disapprove of your editorial last Saturday on the censorship of Dorothy Thompson's war-inciting propaganda by KWK.

This type of propaganda drew us into the World War and will draw us into the present war, if allowed.

THOMAS DOLAN.

Against Fire Escapes for Schools.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT'S this new political racket about putting fire escapes on three-story schools? The school officials have done the best possible for the children by requiring regular, orderly, daily dismissals. In the entire history of the St. Louis public schools, there was never a fire disaster. Why create more problems for the school administration? E. W.

Praises Negro Girls' Camp.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT was my privilege this summer to stay with the Negro girls at Camp Derricotte, near Troy. In these times, I can only give thanks that our Government is still interested in giving benefits to its minority groups. It is to the glory of the present administration that Camp Derricotte was set up to serve the Negro girls of St. Louis. These girls, at all times, bear the brunt of social and economic mistakes.

When I saw the effort with which the girls cared for their properties, I could think only of the angels in "Green Pastures" who were cleaning the office of the Lord. The Government can well be proud of this newest camp development for Missouri.

Wants Peace Propaganda.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PUT your editorial staff on a 24-hour shift dishing out propaganda, peace propaganda. We don't want war!

BILL CROWDER.

For a Department of Public Safety.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

JOHN M. BAGGOT of St. Louis, national safety chairman of the Travelers' Protective Association, urges the creation of a vigorous Federal department of public safety, estimating that 25,000 lives would be saved annually with uniformity in traffic regulations and national safety education.

Mr. Baggot has proposed an idea worthy of adoption. Safety neglect also produces thousands of cripples, with a likely increase of deaths and maimed citizens, unless the Government moves to reduce hazards.

GEORGE BERCHEK.

Experience Should Be Our Teacher.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DURING these days of war in Europe, America should calmly stop, look back and recall the simple axiom that experience is the best teacher.

Twenty-two years ago, America sent her youth across the sea to make the world safe for democracy. Today, the blood they shed is proved to have been in vain. America made the supreme sacrifice once. This time she should remain aloof.

America must refuse to aid again in Europe's bloody quarrels.

C. M. BORCHERS.

THE YEAR OF WAITING.

Are the democratic Powers in better or worse position to fight now than they would have been had they joined the issue with Nazi Germany a year ago in the Sudeten crisis? Too many imponderables are involved to permit of a categorical answer, but it can at least be stated that the loss is not so great as it at first appeared.

Hitler's refusal to be satisfied with the Sudetenland and his ruthless seizure of all Czecho-Slovakia, in violation of solemn guaranties, removed the last doubts as to his being a menace to civilization and united the population of all the democracies in willing his defeat. A year ago, there was division of opinion on this point, even in Britain. The moral case against Hitler is far stronger now than it would have been had the democracies gone to war to prevent Hitler from achieving his ostensible aim of "repatriating" the Sudeten Germans.

This verdict in the moral case against Nazi-ism is not to be minimized, but there also have been great tangible gains by waiting. Hitler's snuggling up to the Communists has put an entirely new face on the international line-up.

Italy, it appears, may have deserted the axis. She is neutral at the moment, and it may well be that Mussolini has permanently lost his taste for the role of tail to the Nazi kite. Spain has declared her neutrality, which means that Great Britain will continue to control the Strait of Gibraltar. The Russo-German pact has definitely removed Japan as a potential ally of the Nazis in a great war. The democracies have lost Czecho-Slovakia with her 20 divisions of prime troops, but they have gained in Poland 35 divisions of good fighting men. Among the smaller countries of Central and Southeastern Europe, all but Bulgaria and Hungary are potential allies of the Western Powers.

Offsetting the crackup of the Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis is the apparent neutralization of Russia, which was strongly counted on to have been an ally of the democracies had the issue been joined a year ago.

Germany expects to use Russia as a source of food supplies to cancel the effectiveness of a blockade such as starved the Germans into submission in 1918, but this plan is subject to serious economic, military and political uncertainties.

France and England will be at a greater strategic disadvantage now than would have been the case a year ago, but, on the other hand, they have made gains in the armament race and have strengthened their internal position.

This war, more than any previous war, will be a conflict of ideas. This fight will not be waged with bullets and bombs alone, but also with propaganda spread by radio and by leaflets dropped from planes. This is a form of attack to which the people of the democracies may well be immune, but it may be more effective against Germany than air raids and artillery barrages.

No particular cleverness would seem to be needed in the writing of leaflets or speeches potent to convince the German people that they have been lied to, duped and spoon-fed with poisonous falsehoods by the Ministry of Propaganda. The intelligent and influential Junker class, which is particularly strong in the army, is known to be restive under the Hitler regime. The internal evidence of Hitler's mendacity is too obvious to be overlooked by thinking German citizens of any class, even if fear of the Gestapo should keep them from tuning in on foreign stations or reading foreign propaganda.

"The German has not the slightest notion," Hitler has written, "how a people must be misled if the adherence of the masses is sought." But even the slowest German by now must begin to have a substantial notion that he has been systematically misled.

It would be fatuous optimism to hope for an early revolt against the Nazi regime, but when the misery of long war begins to strike home, the Nazi oligarchs can look for trouble. When it comes to moral weapons, their armory is bare.

WHY NOT A SECRETARY OF THE NAVY?

Although Secretary of the Navy Swanson died two months ago, and international conditions have rapidly gone from bad to worse, this important Cabinet post has not been filled. There has been but little of the gossip and conjecture on possible nominees which is usually common when there are Cabinet vacancies to fill. With war in Europe, the navy should be kept on its toes by an administrator capable of handling a big job in centralized direction. Furthermore, the navy now is undergoing its largest peacetime expansion. Mr. Roosevelt at least needs a man of Cabinet rank to see that his naval policies are carried out. To wait until an emergency compelled action and then rush somebody into the job would be very foolish. Our preparedness program demands experience and capacity in this important post, now.

WHILE THE FINANCE DEPARTMENT SLEPT.

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., of which Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann is president, has had another remarkable stroke of good luck in its dealings with the State Finance Department, and again the depositors of a closed bank are paying the bill.

In January, 1933, the Shaw Bank & Trust Co. was placed in the hands of the State Finance Commissioner. Among the bank's assets at that time was stock with a par value of $5000 in the Dickmann Investment Co. The stock, held by the bank as collateral for a loan made to Joseph F. Dickmann Jr., was backed by a letter, signed by Mayor Dickmann as president of the Dickmann Real Estate Co., guaranteeing to buy it back "at any time" at the par value.

The State Finance Department, however, made no effort to require the Dickmann company to carry out the guarantee. The period in which a claim could be pressed against the company, before the guarantee would be outlawed by the statute of limitations, was allowed to expire and the Mayor's letter became worthless. At an auction sale the other day, the Dickmann stock and letter, lumped with other collateral, brought only $600—and the bank's depositors were out $4400.

It is the duty of the State Finance Department to protect the interests of depositors in closed banks. The department had two months, after it took over the Shaw bank, to carry out this duty by acting on the Dickmann company's guarantee before the statute of limitations prevented a successful claim. What was the department doing in those two months?

The situation recalls the exclusive contract the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. once had with the State Finance Department, making the company sole agent for sale of the real estate assets of 10 closed banks—among them this same Shaw Bank & Trust Co. The contract was canceled after the Post-Dispatch disclosed a series of straw-party deals engineered by the Dickmann company in which quick profits were realized on resales.

In that case, the question whether any of the profits from the straw-party deals can be recovered for the depositors to whom they rightfully belong is still pending in the courts. In the present instance, however, the laxity of the State Finance Department, in permitting a legal technicality to void the Mayor's pledge to buy back the stock "at any time," has irreparably injured the depositors. Their $4400 is gone for good.

IS THIS WAR?

Nazi Germany has perpetrated a gross blunder as well as a crime against humanity in the torpedoing of the liner Athenia, which was carrying 1100 passengers, many of them war refugees from Britain, to Canada. Certainly the Athenia would not have been carrying munitions in that direction. Capt. James Cook, master of the ship, told his story today of how the German submarine torpedoed the helpless liner without warning and then proceeded to shell it. Apparently, the U-boat commander wanted to wreck the wireless cabin and prevent the sending of calls for aid for the passengers.

Thus is refuted the story of the German propaganda office, put out in an English language broadcast from Berlin last night, to the effect that a drifting British mine sank the ship or the absurd variation that a British submarine torpedoed it to create sentiment against Germany. Evidently, this propaganda shows that some high official in Germany realizes that the ruthless torpedoing was a blunder. But more likely is the story that Germany is launching on a war of schrechlichkeit (pure frightfulness), something that imperial Germany did not begin for almost two years in the World War.

If Hitler hopes to intimidate the entire world by setting loose submarine pirates to prey on helpless noncombatants, he is making the same mistake that the Kaiser did. Instead of resulting in intimidation, this policy, as demonstrated in the World War, will have the opposite effect. This first wanton achievement, which surpasses the Lusitania atrocity in all except loss of life, probably will be repeated as Germany grows more and more desperate.

It was not until January, 1916, that Germany began systematically torpedoing armed merchantmen without warning. The artful Count Bernstorff then laid before the United States the plea that the submarine was "a new weapon, the use of which had never been regulated by international war," and thus "could not and did not violate any existing rule of law." So successful was this campaign to starve Britain that on Jan. 31, 1917, Germany extended it to all sea traffic. Promises were made that warning would be given and the safety of passengers looked to—but they were not kept.

The sinking of the Athenia is not war. It served no military or naval purpose. Its only effect can be to injure the German cause in the great and decisive court of world opinion.

THE GRAPES OF THE OZARKS.

We have been reading some interesting things in our letter column about the grapes of the Ozarks, and about the wines into which those grapes are conducted under the skillful guidance of our Missouri vintners. Some of the remarks might perhaps be dismissed as special pleading, uttered as they were by a vineyardist confessedly interested in promoting an esthetic and commercial appreciation of these vintages. But other witnesses have appeared to testify as connoisseurs that the Ozark suns truly purple grapes of joy, and that the wines of those holy hills —the tokays, moselles, burgundies and clarets—would enjoy an international esteem if intrinsic merit opened the door to recognition.

Now, no honest wine-bibber would rejoice in the adversity that removed a competitor from the field, but in all probability the wines from foreign cellars that have dominated the American market will presently disappear from the home front. One wonders at times if Gen. Sherman really knew how many kinds of hell war is. In his famous dictum the General employed the theological idiom. But the truth is apparent, after a few minutes of profound consideration, that war is a Protean Pluto, a mean hombre, that cracks the knuckles of virtually every fancy, predilection, inclination and aspiration.

To palates accustomed to the bottled bouquets of far fields, a word of cheer may be spoken at this disconsolate moment. "The grapes of Ardennes," ennobled in lyric and melody, may have honestly won the acclaim of tradition, but there is a wizardry in the essence of our native vines as supreme as that of any exotic and gold-foiled product, however prodigiously priced.

The correct procedure is simple. Enlist under the banner of Missouri wines for the duration of the war.

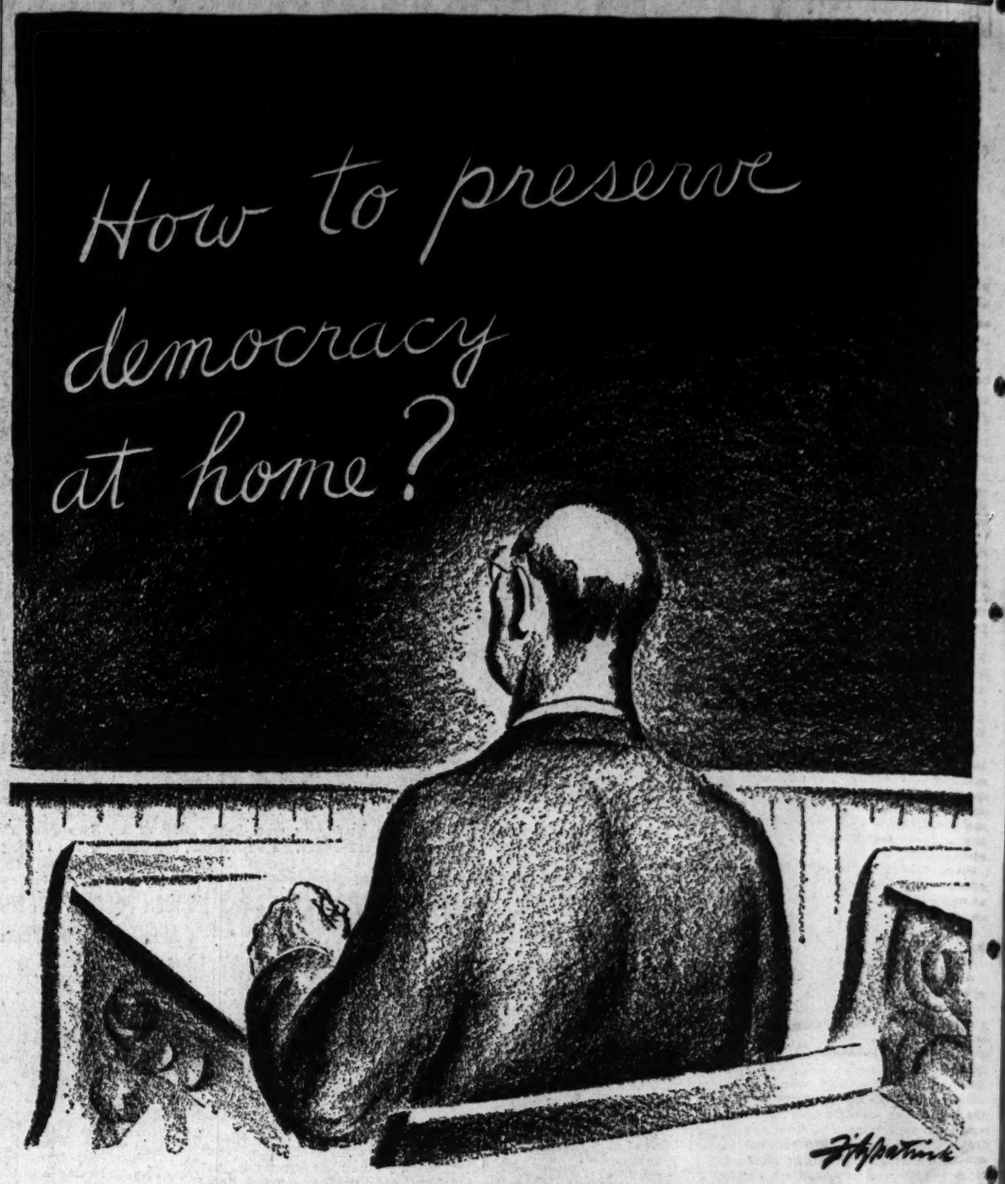

THE NAZI LINE OF SUCCESSION.

All doubt as to the line of succession for Fuehrer of the Nazis, which had become somewhat confused by the contradictory speculation of various writers, has been dispelled. Hitler himself has spoken. First in line is Hermann Goering, the vain and corpulent, but still able and dynamic, Feldmarschall of the army.

Goering belongs to the conservative wing of the Nazis. He has a profound contempt for those who stress the socialist rather than the nationalistic aspects of the Nazi doctrine. Yet, according to John Gunther, he is the only top Nazi who is not an outspoken anti-Semite. He is a militarist to the core. An ace pilot of the German air force during the World War, he was the natural selection for Reichsminister of Aviation. He places great dependence in the aviation arm, and is expected to use it, if need be, with ruthlessness in the present war.

A very different sort of man is Rudolph Hess, whom Hitler nominated as Fuehrer "in case anything happens to Goering." Like Goering, Hess was a war pilot. But far from a bounding extrovert, he is introspective and even vaguely religious. He is a believer in faith-healing and has set up at Dresden a hospital where this art is practiced. A gentleman in appearance and bearing and obviously possessing finer sensibilities than most of Hitler's lieutenants, he is nevertheless zealously anti-Semitic. Hess is Hitler's personal deputy and private secretary and holds the post of Reichsminister without portfolio.

Establishment of the line of succession in Nazidand is not an academic matter. Hitler, now at or near the Polish front, becomes a shining mark for every opposing aviator and soldier. At that, the succession will prove an empty honor, for when this war comes to an end, the doom of the Nazi leaders will be history.

MAYBE WE ALL OUGHT TO RETURN TO SCHOOL.

America's Role in the War

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Realizing threat of Nazi victory to this country, there will be strong urge to help democracies in new war if they need it, liberal journal says; however, entry need not be accepted as inevitable, it adds; recommends cash-and-carry law as best device for staying out.

From the New Republic.

EVENTS in Europe make necessary an immediate reconsideration of the international position of the United States. In a war between Hitler's Reich, with or without Italy or other allies, and Britain and France, with whatever aid they may be able to muster in Central and Southern Europe, the outcome is sure to be extremely uncertain.

Large German armies may for awhile be engaged by the Poles, but it is not likely that the Nazis would have to be fighting for long on two fronts at once. Their main energy could soon be hurled against the West. What is even more important, no Anglo-French blockade, however effective in the Atlantic and Mediterranean, could be as powerful in bringing Germany to terms as that in the last war, if the vast resources of the Soviet Union remain at Hitler's disposal.

From the beginning, this country has to visualize the distinct possibility of a crushing defeat of the Western democracies by Nazi military power. Even if this is not the outcome, victory by the Allies can probably be achieved only by a long and extremely costly war.

Our natural sympathies would be sharpened by the possibly desperate plight of England and France, and the knowledge that, whatever their past mistakes, their only present alternative to war had been disastrous surrender. If the Soviet Union were aiding them, we could await the outcome with some complacency, but as it is, we should be shaken with lively apprehension.

In the second place, it will be urged that these two nations have become our frontier against the Nazi menace. We are perfectly safe behind the Atlantic against any navy in the world except the British, and that, we believed, would never be used against us. But suppose, by a British defeat, Hitler suddenly became master of it?

The threat of a Nazi dictator of Europe going on to conquest in the New World may be only a nightmare, but it will affect many people, and there is just enough substance in it to supply food for a greatly strengthened interventionism. The prospect of a long war, too, endangers our neutrality. Nearly everybody believes we could stay out for a limited period, but the longer the strain continues, the more likely we are to succumb to it.

This is a time when it is more necessary than usual to keep our heads and act coolly. We need to face frankly the probability that Britain and France will require our help more than ever. We may even have to ask ourselves whether there are sound reasons for joining their cause, at the expense of plunging this nation into war.

But such a decision must not be based on sudden emotion. Nor ought we to be in a position where we shall be gradually edged toward war, or be drawn or plunged into it, by any act other than our own deliberate choice, after realistic consideration of the issues at stake. Too many people seem to believe that, while they do not want America to go to war, circumstances will eventually force it to do so. There is no reason in the world why we should accept any such mechanistic inevitability.

How well are we prepared to neutralize the effect of involuntary influences toward participation while we keep our wills free for a decision? At the moment, very badly. The principal item in the Neutrality Act now on the statute books is a complete embargo on arms, munitions and implements of war. But there is almost no provision to keep us from getting into trouble about the vast quantities of other goods that warring nations are likely to buy from us. They can buy on credit; goods belonging to American shippers, but consigned to belligerents, can be carried on the high seas; they can even be carried on ships of American registry. Let either side capture or destroy such goods or ships, and the spark of controversy is lighted.

It was just such controversy that led us into trouble with Great Britain in the early days of the last war; we could not have enforced our rights without destroying the effectiveness of her blockade. And it was controversy of this kind that eventually supplied the casus belli against Germany.

From another point of view, the existing Neutrality Act may increase the chances of our fighting if it injures the British and French cause, since the nearer they come to defeat, the more seriously we shall have to consider coming to their aid. A German air fleet that can concentrate on one front may cause great injury to British and French plants for the manufacture of planes and munitions. In that case, the Allies would be seriously hampered by inability to buy them here.

There is a simple way to avoid both these dangers while preserving legal neutrality. It is to amend the Neutrality Act by restoring the cash-and-carry provision and placing munitions under that provision. The New Republic never saw any great virtue in the munitions embargo alone; the cash-and-carry provision in the law of 1937 was always far more important as a means of preventing involvement. That is so now—more than ever.

If it were applied to shipments of arms, grain, cotton, chemicals, machinery or anything else necessary in war, we should be legally indifferent about what happened to them once they had left our shores, for neither they nor the ships in which they were being carried would be owned by Americans.

Yet such a plan would not hamper the Allies in financing purchases here. A recent issue of the London Economist estimated British financial resources which could be turned into cash for purchases in this country as "at least equivalent in value to those raised during the last war." At the same time, the little that the Germans might be able to buy in this country would be subject to continued and unchecked interruption by the British navy.

To enact a comprehensive cash-and-carry law, and to do so promptly, would be the soundest foundation we could possibly lay for policy in war. It would in effect offer Britain and France full access to our economic resources while denying it to their opponents. It would be legally neutral and would tend to prevent embarrassing incidents. More than this we are not prepared to do, but less than this is too little.

SO-WHAT DEPARTMENT.

Stalin, we presume, isn't unaware of the fact that Hitler once had a non-aggression pact with Poland.

"Socialized" Law?

From the Buffalo Evening News.

A NEW book tells of an old-time country lawyer whose fellow citizens were accustomed to pray if they got into a little trouble but were wont to come straight to him if they got into a lot of trouble. Perhaps there is a good deal of that same attitude still prevailing amongst the lay public. At any rate, a committee of the Chicago chapter of the National Lawyers' Guild has been pondering the subject of shyness on the part of potential clients.

"One of the outstanding facts in the practice of law," the committee reports, "is that the layman is unwilling, in fact fearful, of consulting an attorney for advice, and does so only in emergency matters. The belief that he will be charged an excessive fee for mere consultation operates here. In fact, either because of large overhead expenses or other causes, attorneys do not give consultation on a low-cost basis. Fees for consultation are not standardized. As a result, the present need for advice by attorneys is inadequately served."

As a remedy, the committee suggests a low-fee bureau that "should encourage consultation on any legal problem, not only from the point of view of serving the clients that come to the bureau, but also as a means of educating the public to the value of legal service." It suggests that low-income persons needing legal services would be required to pay the bureau an initial charge of only $2 for the first half-hour of conference. Wills, conveyances, leases and notices, which can be drafted on printed forms, would cost $1.50; legal papers not using printed forms, $2 to $5.

Probably a good deal of this is going to strike the more conservative legal ears as just another suggestion for meddlesome uplift. The National Lawyers' Guild was organized a few years ago by attorneys who disagreed with the American Bar Association on various points of the New Deal. The Guild's suggestions sound like the arguments that have been put forth for the forms of "socialized" medicine. Presently, the lawyers may be getting into a highly agitated state on the subject of "socialized" law.

THE CLASS IN BOTANY.

Charles Collins in the Chicago Daily Tribune.

THE nature lovers of this column, poets and prose writers alike, mention a plant called Queen Anne's lace more frequently than any other living thing within their ken. This has aroused our curiosity, and so we decided to get Europe off our mind by investigating the people's choice among wild flowers.

Queen Anne's lace is the wild carrot (Daucus carota), nothing less, and the ancestor of the tame carrot. Its other popular name is "bird's nest," because its flower clusters, when half open, look like that. In spite of the affection with which it is regarded by amateurs, "it is the most heartily detested weed with which the farmer has to contend," according to Chester A. Reed's Flower Guide. The Encyclopaedia Britannica calls it "a pest in many sections."

It's a tall weed, running to skinny stalks and bearing large heads or "umbels" of small white flowers, of which the central ones are often purple. Its romantic name, suggesting the England of Joseph Addison, from which it was imported to these shores, fascinates poets.

CHILDISH PATRIOTISM AS CAUSE OF WAR

Among Factors Agreed On in Psychologists' Poll of Social Experts.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Sept. 5 (AP).—A committee of psychologists reported today that 150 American historians, economists, politicians and sociologists had agreed that the best factors for keeping this country at peace included international education, freedom from economic nationalism and "the breakdown of childish patriotism."

Reporting on a consensus of the social scientists, the committee advocated "the establishment of internationalism after the end of this war." It urged psychologists to contribute to that end.

The committee represented the Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues, which is a self-styled "liberal" group within the American Psychological Association, now in convention at Stanford University.

Making up the committee were Ross Stagner of Dartmouth College J. F. Brown of the University of Kansas; Ralph K. White of Cornell University, and Ralph W. Gundlach of the University of Washington.

American universities were asked to suggest the names of the 375 social scientists to whom were sent questionnaires containing 59 statements, each of which was commonly alleged to be a war preventive. The committee reported about 150 replies.

Statements on which the highest number of social scientists agreed as war preventers in order of their choice, were:

1. Stress the economic fallacies involved in aggressive nationalism.
2. Tariff reduction.
3. Detect and interpret propaganda.
4. Clarity in the use of words, such as patriotism, Communism and Fascism; and explain the viewpoints of foreign nations, especially those now most disliked by American people.
5. Oppose Fascist tendencies in the United States.
6. Extend the principle of the "open door," opposing monopolistic control of markets and raw materials.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS VIRGINIA MARY ELMER, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Warren P. Elmer, 26 Crestwood drive, who is to be married to Charlton Albert Gunter a week from today, will be given several parties. Tomorrow night members of the wedding party will be entertained at a party to be given by Warren Wagner, I. Dickinson Tait and James St. George Tucker at the apartment of Mr. Tait and Mr. Tucker, 4939 West Pine boulevard.

Friday a tea and kitchen shower is planned by Mrs. Louis Walker, the former Miss Grace Ballard White, at her apartment, 7627 Wydown boulevard. Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Bland Jr., 7472 University drive, will have a cocktail party preceding the dinner at the St. Louis Country Club to be given by several of the ushers.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Bemis will have a cocktail party at their apartment, 736 South Hanley road. Mrs. Clifford Greve Jr., 4622 Maryland avenue, has planned a luncheon for the bridesmaids Monday. After rehearsal that afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Felix E. Gunter, parents of the bridegroom-elect, will have a dinner at their home at Chesterfield for members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Tuesday, the day of the wedding, Mrs. Hugh Adair Logan, a bridesmaid, will have the other young woman attendants at her apartment, 626 Forest court, for luncheon.

The ceremony is to take place at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Church of St. Michael and St. George, with the Rev. J. Francis Sant officiating. There will be a reception at the Elmer home afterward.

Plans are complete for the wedding of Miss Harriet Virginia Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Blair Edwards, 5870 Clemens avenue, and Horatio Nelson Spencer Jr., Saturday, Oct. 7. The ceremony is to take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Edwards' home. The families will witness the service and for the reception afterward a few friends will be invited.

The Rev. Dr. George H. Tolley will officiate at the service. Mrs. Ernest S. Houx will attend her sister as matron of honor and Miss Phoebe Weed will be bridesmaid. Miss Weed will be married two weeks later to Joseph M. O'Reilly Jr.

Selden Marshall Spencer will be his brother's best man. Four little cousins of the bride-elect are to hold ribbons to make the aisle for the wedding party. They are Mary Dell and Barbara Olin, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer T. Olin of Alton, and Harrison and Michael Farley, sons of Mr. and Mrs. N. Rogers Farley of Alton.

Mr. Spencer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Spencer, 4324 McPherson avenue.

Miss Betty Griesedieck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Griesedieck, Huntleigh Village, will make an informal debut while attending Maryville College. She will be presented to society at a supper dance by her parents Tuesday night, Dec. 26. Mrs. Griesedieck, Miss Betty and Mr. and Mrs. Griesedieck's two younger daughters, Miss Barbara and Miss Mary Griesedieck, recently have returned from a trip to California and the Canadian Rockies.

Miss Ann Elizabeth Dean, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John McHale Dean, 6401 Ellenwood avenue, will make her bow at a late afternoon reception Mrs. Dean will give at their home Friday, Dec. 15. The debutante and an older sister, Miss Mary Jean Dean, who made her debut last season, will leave Sept. 19 to resume their studies at Manhattanville College, New York. Miss Ann Elizabeth will return to St. Louis for the Veiled Prophet ball next month.

Dr. and Mrs. Dean, their daughters and sons, Miss Mary Jane, Miss Ann Elizabeth, Miss Dorothy Dean, John and Ashby, returned a few days ago from Gull Lake, Brainerd, Minn. They were joined there by Mrs. Dean's mother, Mrs. Charles W. Massee of the Forest Park Hotel, who had been visiting at East Grand Forks, S. D. Mrs. Massee has also returned to St. Louis. John Dean will leave tomorrow for Prairie du Chene, Wis., to resume his studies at the Campion School.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel West Mitchell, 412 North Union boulevard, and Mrs. William B. Jones, 248 Rosemont avenue, Webster Groves, have returned from visiting Mr. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mitchell, 6 Windermere place, at their summer home at Spring Lake, Mich.

Mrs. Paul Robyn, 4361 Westminster place, and her daughters, Miss Virginia and Mrs. Lucille Tobin, who have been at the Highland Park Hotel, Grand Haven, Mich., for a month, have returned home. Mrs. Robyn's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tobin, 5 Kingsbury place, and their family, who have had a cottage at Grand Haven since the first of last month, will return to St. Louis Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Lund, 5968 Cabanne avenue, are expected home in about a week from New York where they are staying at the Waldorf-Astoria. They arrived there after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Phipps at Eaglesmere, Pa. They had been away since the first of July. Most of the season they spent at Charlevoix, Mich.

Mrs. Tom Cowan Atwood, 118 South Clay avenue, Ferguson, returned home last week end from Lexington, Ky., where she had spent several weeks with her parents.

Saturday evening Mrs. Glen Moller, 2149 Yale avenue, will entertain for Miss Elsie Eleanor Sante, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leroy Sante, 308 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, and her fiance, Carl Edward Weaver. Sunday, a bridesmaid, Miss Jean Dicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Dicks, 7043 Waterman avenue, will entertain at a breakfast at her home. Later Miss Natalie Forshaw, another bridesmaid and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Forshaw, 1234 Bellevue avenue, will entertain. That evening is the spinster dinner at which Miss Sante will be hostess.

On Monday, Miss Barbara Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Moore, 5 South Rock Hill road, Webster Groves, will give the rehearsal dinner. Miss Moore is to be maid of honor at the wedding which will take place next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at Memorial Presbyterian Church. There will be a reception afterward at the Sante home.

Mr. Weaver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Weaver of Cleveland.

Mrs. C. F. Richardson of the Gatesworth Hotel had as her guests recently her son and daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Richardson of Paducah, Ky., and her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Alvin Clapp of Baltimore. Mrs. Clapp left Saturday to join Dr. Clapp on his return to New York from a Caribbean cruise. They will motor in New England before returning to Baltimore the end of the month.

Miss Elizabeth Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Powell, 315 Plant avenue, Webster Groves, sailed Saturday from Rotterdam for home. She had spent the summer studying music at Fontainebleau.

Reservations for boxes have been made for the annual St. Louis National Horse Show Association, Inc., at the Arena, Oct. 1 to 7. Walter S. Haeussler is chairman of the box and reserved seat committee.

Box-holders include the following: D. Berry Anderson, Harry C. Arthur Jr., Paul Bakewell III, Fred J. Berkley, Robert A. Black Jr., Ingram F. Boyd, Harry J. Burkart, Adolphus Busch III, August A. J. J. NANGLE DESCRIBES PRECAUTIONS AT SEA

Liner Queen Mary Used Blackouts, St. Louisan, Safely Home, Says.

Precautions taken by the British Liner Queen Mary against German raiders on her recent trip from Southhampton to New York were described today by John J. Nangle, one of a group of St. Louis passengers, who returned here today.

There were blackouts at night, ship's lights were painted blue and passengers were cautioned to stay off decks at night, he said. Nangle noted a "discreet surveillance" by airplanes and ships as the Queen Mary left its English port and as it approached New York. Lifeboat drills, he said, were unusually rigid.

With 2329 passengers aboard, about 400 more than ordinary capacity, cots jammed all available space, Nangle went on. There were cots in pantries and cots in the gymnasium. News of the state of war between England and France and the Nazis cast a pall of gloom over passengers and there was little gayety, although dances and other activities went on.

Nangle, special Circuit Court Master hearing claims to the $2,000,000 trust estate of the late Hazlett Kyle Campbell, was in the British Isles last month taking testimony. After hearing 115 witnesses in four weeks, he went to the continent for a rest, but found conditions in such a turmoil that he returned to Southampton early for the sailing home. In Berlin and Paris, especially, he said, he observed a "fearful grimness" among the people.

Charles O. Kirberg, 4120 Bates street, who acted Aug. 23 on a sudden urge to fly to Europe, has not been heard from since last Tuesday when his wife received a card from New Brunswick that his Pan-American clipper plane was proceeding to France. She was informed later, she said, that the plane had landed.

Other St. Louisans reported today to be still in Europe or on the way home are Mrs. V. K. Dittrich, 4701 Pennsylvania avenue, who wrote to relatives Aug. 19 from Vienna where she was visiting relatives; Mrs. John P. Clark, 5020 Vernon avenue, and her son, Robert, in Ireland, seeking return passage; the Misses Elizabeth and Gertrude Schiller, who sent a message last night to their father, Gottfried Schiller, 4011 Magnolia avenue, that they had left Holland last Saturday on the Noordam, due at New York Monday.

The Rev. Martin Hellriegel, chaplain of the Precious Blood Convent, O'Fallon, Mo., and two nuns, Mother Wilhelmine and Sister Mercedes, sent word Aug. 22 that they were leaving Rome for Germany and Finland.

Among St. Louisans who landed yesterday at New York on the Queen Mary were Mrs. Helen Johnson Niedringhaus and her son, William; Bishop Ivan Lee Holt and Ivan Lee Holt Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Farrington, Mrs. Samuel Gordon and her grandson, Samuel Fitzhugh Gordon Jr.; Mrs. G. Stuart Jenkins, the Rev. Wilbert Dowson, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, and Miss Katherine Martini and Mr. and Mrs. Whipple Van Ness Jones.

SCIENTIST FINDS EASY WAY TO MAKE TYPHUS VACCINE

Virus Grown on Gelatine Made From Seaweed Then Killed With Carbolic Acid.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—An easy way to make a typhus vaccine was reported yesterday to the International Congress for Microbiology by Dr. Hans Zinnser of Harvard University and Miss Florence Fitzpatrick of Boston. They have learned how to grow the virus that causes typhus on agar, a gelatine made from seaweed.

The vaccine is made by killing this virus with carbolic acid. Heretofore only limited amounts of the virus have been available, so that vaccine enough for an army or even an entire city was not available.

Dr. Zinnser reported further that the agar vaccine protects against the European form of typhus.

A preventive for rheumatic fever, the disease which causes nearly all the cases of child heart disease, was reported by Dr. Alvin Coburn of Presbyterian Hospital, New York. The rheumatic heart attacks of children are usually preceded by about a week by a sore throat. He discovered sulfanilamide clears up these bad throats, and that the children do not get rheumatic fever. In a high percentage of cases rheumatic fever attacks in childhood result in heart deaths in early manhood and womanhood.

FUNERAL THURSDAY FOR GIRL AND FATHER KILLED IN CRASH

Clarence Redden and Daughter Mary, 15, to Be Buried at New SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

Funeral services for Clarence Redden and his daughter, Mary, who were killed in an automobile accident Saturday night, near Marion, Ill., will be held at 8:30 a'clock Thursday morning at St. Anthony of Padua Church, 3134 Meramec street. Burial will be in new SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

The automobile driven by Redden, a mail carrier, collided headon with a large truck. He was killed outright; the daughter, 15 years old, died on the way to a Herrin (Ill.) hospital. His wife and four other children were slightly injured. Redden, 45 years old, lived at 2005 California avenue.

MISSOURI PASTOR'S WIFE DIES

Mrs. John D. Tussey of Excelsior Springs Succumbs at 54.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Sept. 5.—Funeral services were held yesterday at the Methodist Church here for Mrs. Margaret Griffith Tussey, wife of the pastor of the church, the Rev. John D. Tussey. She died Saturday night following an illness of several months, at the age of 54.

Mrs. Tussey, who was born and raised in Moberly, married the Rev. Mr. Tussey in 1906, when he was pastor of the Methodist Church there, and was active in church work when he served congregations in St. Louis and vicinity for 25 years. She is survived by her husband and a son, Julian, of New York.

DAWSON-WATSON, 75, ARTIST, DIES IN TEXAS

Painter and Craftsman Once Taught in St. Louis Fine Arts School.

Dawson Dawson-Watson, artist and craftsman, who taught at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts from 1904 to 1915, died at his home in San Antonio, Tex., Sunday. He was 75 years old.

A son of the English artist, John Dawson Watson, his work was often exhibited at the City Art Museum here and in collections in Springfield, Ill., New Haven, Conn., New York, Chicago, Austin, Tex., and Little Rock, Ark. His oil painting, "A Light Breeze," is part of the permanent collection of the City Art Museum in Forest Park.

A pupil of Mark Fisher in England and of several French painters, he came to the United States in 1893 as art director of the Hartford (Conn.) Art Society. After three years, he became a teacher at Byrdcliffe Colony, Woodstock, N. Y., and then came to St. Louis.

He was a painter in oils and water colors, a wood carver, mezzotint engraver, textile designer, scenic artist and costume designer. In 1927 he received a $5000 prize in a competition for pictures of Texas wildflowers. Two years later he won $1000 in a similar competition. He was a frequent winner of landscape and water color prizes. At the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia in 1913, he received gold and silver medals for water colors, handicraft and a group of oil paintings.

He was a member of the St. Louis Artists' Guild, St. Louis Two-by-Four Society, Society of Western Artists and Southern States Art League.

Since 1914, he had divided his time between St. Louis and San Antonio.

PUPILS IN 55 SCHOOLS HANDLED IN SHIFTS

Half-Day Classes Necessary—Third Floors Cannot Be Used Without Fire Escapes.

Courses will be limited to the essential studies in about 55 public schools which opened today on a double-session basis. Closing of third-floor rooms in schools which have no fire escapes as required by State law made it necessary to divide pupils into morning and afternoon groups.

In all, more than 190,000 children returned to school today in the city and county. About 10 of the 65 schools which are required to have fire escapes will be able to accommodate their third-floor pupils in vacant rooms on lower floors, or will be able to send them to nearby schools, Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling said.

In all high schools, vocational schools, Harris Teachers' College and about 40 elementary schools, it will be necessary to start the double-platoon system for most pupils eliminating study periods and reducing the time for music and art, Dr. Gerling said.

Pupils on the double-platoon basis will spend most of their time in school in recitation periods. Morning students will go to school from 8:30 to 12:20 o'clock and afternoon pupils from 12:30 to 4:20.

New assignments of elementary school principals were announced today as follows:

I. A. Gaines from Eliot to Madison, Marshall C. Crouch from Madison to Irving, Arthur O. Leutheusser from Irving to Buder, Miss Mata V. Bear, former assistant in the Division of Tests and Measurements, to Roe; William H. Todd from Grant to Eliot, Miss Susan S. Ryan from Pestalozzi to Grant, H. L. Moreland from Penrose to Pestalozzi, Miss Jennie G. Kenefick, principal of Riddick, also to be in charge of Penrose; Grover Cozean from Carr to Benton, and Herbert F. W. Moeller from Wilkinson to Carr.

42 in "Miss America" Contest.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5 (AP).—Forty-two girls, representing all sections of the United States, arrived today to compete for the title "Miss America, 1939." After a five-day process of elimination, the winner of the national beauty pageant and the "Miss America" title will be decided by the judges Saturday night.

Delisting Allowed.

GOES TO MURDER TRIAL ON COT

Defendant, Ill., Accused of Fatal Shooting Near Alton, Mo.

ALTON, Mo., Sept. 5 (AP).—Newman Childer, 38 years old, was carried on a cot to the Oregon County Court House today to face charges of murder in connection with the fatal shooting last May 27 of John I. Sloan, his brother-in-law. Childers is suffering from cancer.

Childers is accused of going to a party at the home of Clifford Grooms, near here, and firing several shots through a door, killing Sloan and wounding Jacob Trobaugh, 58, Mrs. Clarence Grooms, and her brother-in-law, Clifford Grooms.

U. S. GOLD HOLDINGS SAID TO EXCEED $16,000,000,000

Economist Estimates Foreign Investments at $7,883,000,000, Mostly Held by "Democracies."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Howard J. Trueblood, economist of the Foreign Policy Association, said today the United States Treasury's holdings of gold, now exceeding $16,000,000,000, "carry the seeds of credit inflation."

In a gold study made public today, Trueblood estimated total foreign investments in the United States at approximately $7,883,000,000, most of which are owned by the "democracies."

The article, written before the European war began, said these foreign assets in the United States "would constitute a valuable war chest" and that liquidation of a large portion of them would doubtless result if war came. "The funds would be withdrawn in the form of goods, however, rather than gold, and, in fact, more of the metal probably would be shipped to supplement existing assets," the article said.

BIDS WANTED

NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE BIDDERS. SEALED BIDS for the furnishing of all labor, material, transportation, tools and equipment for the completion of the Chemical Laboratory Unit, Administration Unit and Service Building, for the Northern Regional Laboratory located on the southwest corner of University and Nebraska avenues, Peoria, Illinois, for the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be received by the Chief, Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic, U. S. Department of Agriculture, until 2:00 p. m., E. S. T. Friday, October 6, 1939, and then publicly opened.

This work will consist of the construction of a four (4) bay extension to the Chemical Laboratory Unit now under construction, and will be three stories in height, approximately 65'x85' with attic and full basement of reinforced concrete and masonry construction, with steel sash, built up roofing, cement, tile and linoleum flooring, steel stairs, sidewalk type elevator, air conditioning and the necessary electrical, plumbing and heating connections and required equipment; a complete elevator and dumb waiter installation in the Administration Unit; and the furnishing and installing of water conditioning equipment in the Service Building.

Since bids will be requested for either the entire project, or for one item or any combination of items, sub-contractors may bid through either a general contractor or as an individual bidder on items of his own choice direct to the Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic, as the Government reserves the right to promulgate a contract on the project as a whole or by alternates as it deems advantageous.

Award of the contract will be made only to a contractor who can show sufficient experience, financial resources, and who executes performance bond of 100 per cent of cost and payment bond of 50 per cent of cost, to insure the satisfactory installation of the work contemplated.

A copy of the plans and specifications may be examined free of charge at the office of the Chief, Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic, Room No. 1870, South Building, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The drawings and specifications may be had upon application to the Chief, Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., on deposit of $50.00 per set. Reference must be made to U. S. D. A. No. 8825. Checks must be certified and made payable to the Treasurer of the United States. If plans in possession of unsuccessful bidders are not returned within 60 days after the bids are opened, the deposits will be forfeited to the Government.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN
WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE? ARE YOU GETTING AHEAD? ARE YOU ON THE ROAD TO INDEPENDENCE IN YOUR TRADE OR PROFESSION? CAN YOU EXPECT TO MAKE FROM $40 TO $100 A WEEK IN 1940? IF NOT, INVESTIGATE THIS OFFER OF FREE INSTRUCTION AND IMMEDIATE OPPORTUNITY. WE HAVE NOTHING TO SELL YOU.

We will take on additional men who wish to learn to do this work and who can get along on moderate earnings while studying and practicing. We will train such men free, if desirous of receiving this benefit. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense. No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of understanding and applying successful methods, if you are one who likes to practice to learn skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are willing to work for success, then we will give you a chance. We cannot guarantee you that you will be a star, but we do guarantee you a trial with substantial earnings, practical instruction and guidance.

We have a wonderful invention that renders a very unusual service. Our men may call for, and receive, practical guidance as to how to conduct the business. Those we believe, in a personal interview, can qualify, will be given the opportunity of seeing our invention, meeting our men, investigating their earnings, our company and our entire business methods.

It is not unusual that men in this organization make $25 to $50 for one day's work.

This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of a good substantial connection. Please do not apply for these openings unless you can meet the requirements, and the requirements are that you be of neat appearance, between the ages of 25 and 40, and of good character and reputation and willing to work.

All men will be personally interviewed Wednesday morning, 9:15 to 1:15 only, at 512 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts., St. Louis.

SMALL LOAN COMPANIES

NOW! A NEW LOAN PLAN
Pick your own monthly repayment

You can borrow from $20 to $300 without asking others to sign with you. Decide on the amount of cash you need, then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in 2 to 20 months, as your income permits. Below is a table showing sample repayment schedules. Other amounts and other plans are available. Note how you may repay your loan in a very few months to keep the cost to a minimum. Note, also, what small payments can be made if you wish.

Cash Loan You Get	2 mos. LOAN	4 mos. LOAN	6 mos. LOAN	8 mos. LOAN	10 mos. LOAN	12 mos. LOAN	16 mos. LOAN	20 mos. LOAN
$50	$25.94	$13.29	$ 9.08	$ 6.97	$5.71	$ 4.87
100	51.88	26.58	18.15	13.95	11.43	9.75	$ 7.66	$ 6.41
150	77.82	39.87	27.23	20.92	17.14	14.62	11.49	9.62
200	103.77	53.16	36.31	27.89	22.85	19.50	15.32	12.83
300	155.65	79.75	54.46	41.84	34.28	29.25	22.98	19.24

Amount you pay back each month including all charges.

This table is based on prompt repayment. Larger payments can be made at any time or in advance of the due date to reduce the cost. Tardiness will increase the cost of the final payment. Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 2½% per month on unpaid balances.

WAR STOCKS JUMP $19, COTTON $4.00, WHEAT 5C

Share and Commodity Markets Are Moved by the Fastest War-Boom Buying Rushes in History of the Exchanges—Sales Estimated at 7,000,000 Shares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—Prices of stocks and commodities shot skyward today in the fastest war-boom buying upsurge in the history of the exchanges.

A rush for heavy industrial shares that might benefit from extensive purchases of materials by England and France, as well as neutral nations, put quotations up 3 to 19 points for leaders. There were one or two wide movers of around 25.

The stampede started at the opening and in the first hour blocks of 1000 to 40,000 shares changed hands. The ticker tape during the greater part of the session ran several minutes behind. There was a profit taking interval in the afternoon, accompanied by a slowdown. The pace again quickened near the close and the recording machinery once more lagged. Closing quotations were under the best.

The turnover of 5,932,150 shares was one of the biggest since July 21, 1933.

The first day's trading since the outbreak of general European hostilities—the market was closed yesterday for the Labor day holiday—found the speculative temperature boiling. Exchange governors were at the principal posts on the floor to keep dealings as orderly as possible, but they were unable to stem the scramble.

Copper Price Put Up.

Among favored groups were steels, oils, coppers, sugars, farm implements, aircrafts, electric equipments, chemicals and zincs. Rails, hesitant for a while, joined the sprint, and utilities, down at one time, eventually improved.

Domestic copper was hoisted 1½ cents a pound, the most sizable day's advance in some years. Three Stock Exchange seats sold for $61,000, $63,000 and $65,000, the last $5000 above a transfer two weeks ago.

Wheat at Chicago was up 5 cents a bushel and corn 4 cents. Cotton, in late transactions, was up around $4 a bale.

News of the Day.

While American securities at Amsterdam again were strong today, the Paris bourse lagged. London was closed. The British Government, through the Bank of England, took over the control of gold and sterling exchange and the British price of the yellow metal was boosted to a record high.

The pound dipped sharply. In New York sterling quotations were nominal, with transactions small.

U. S. Governments and high-grade bonds slipped with foreign dollar bonds, but secondary rail obligation moved upward with stocks. Most commodities spurted the limit permitted in a day's dealings.

Cotton rose $2.50 a bale in morning.

Wheat jumped 5s, corn 4c and oats 3c, all limits for a day.

On the "Big Board," as on the Curb, numerous low-priced issues, usually inactive, turned out in large volume.

Appearing about 65 minutes after the start of trading, U. S. Steel opened up 8⅝c at 62 on a block of 25,000 shares; Bethlehem, up 9⅝ at 78 on 15,000 shares, and Republic Steel, up 6⅝ at 26 on 40,000 shares.

WAR-SHARE BOOM IN A BIG LOCAL STOCK TRADE

Laclede Steel Jumps 6 1-2 Points, Scullin Steel 3 1-4 —Beverage Issue Drops Sharply.

War shares on the St. Louis Stock Exchange jumped 3¼ to 6½ points in a big general market, as other shares did little or dropped sharply, as in cases of soft drinks and brewery issues.

Trading volume expanded to more than 4600 shares.

The governors of the exchange extended the trading period by one hour by continuing the morning session into afternoon without interruption.

Scullin Steel was up 3¼ points and Laclede Steel 6½ before noon. Wagner Electric gained 4. A small lot of St. Louis Car preferred sold 15 points higher at 70.

Griesedieck-Western dropped 7, Dr. Pepper 3½ and Coca-Cola Bottling 2¾ points.

Stock sales amounted to 4674 shares and 1143 warrants, compared with 345 shares Saturday. Bond sales were $1500.

FOREIGN BONDS SLUMP AS MUCH AS 7 POINTS

Sharp Declines in U. S. Governments and Top Grades—Speculatives Up.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—The impact of war on the bond market today brought these results:

A violent downslide in foreign dollar loans, with some Europeans off as much as 7 points near the final hour;

Another sharp downthrust in U. S. Governments and top-grade corporate private loans. Federals gave up fractions to around ⅞ of a point;

A brisk advance in various speculating issues, particularly secondary rails. Buying was based on belief the carriers were in line for a large increase in business. Volume was unusually heavy.

Weakness in the so-called prime investment ratings was typified by breaks running from 2 to around 7 points in Vanadium 5s, Texas Corporation 3s and Phillips Petroleum 3s.

Bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific and some other Western carriers surged up 2 to 5 points.

Obligations of Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark and Germany were almost without support until they had cracked down 4 to 7 points. Italian issues were strong.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

Sugar Futures Up Limit.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—Domestic and world sugar futures advanced the 25-point permissible limit today. Trade was at a standstill as sellers withdrew and buyers continued to bid the high levels. December in the world contract was quoted at 1.79. Domestic futures met considerable switching, with September at 2.53. Raw sugar was nominal. Puerto Ricos were believed available at 3.50@3.75 cents. Nothing was done in the refined trade.

Futures No. 3 closed 25 higher. Sales 23,700 tons.

WHEAT JUMPS 5C LIMIT; TRADING IS DEADLOCKED

Holders Unwilling to Sell at New Level — Corn Goes Up 4 c and Oats 3 Cents Also Daily Limits.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP).—Grain trading was virtually at a standstill here today as all prices shot up the prescribed limits and found few owners willing to sell even at those levels.

Prices in other American markets—opening for the first time since England and France entered the European conflict—also soared to the limits.

Wheat on the Board of Trade was lifted 5 cents to 81⅞@82⅝c, highest level in year and a half, and corn 4 cents to 53⅝@57¼c, highest since January. Wheat at Winnipeg, Minneapolis and Kansas City also advanced the 5-cent limit.

Just before the Board of Trade opened directors of the exchange restricted price fluctuations of September grains to the same daily limit as that of deferred deliveries. Heretofore September wheat, corn and rye could have advanced as much as 8 cents a bushel, and oats 6 cents.

Oats advanced to 36⅜ cents for the September delivery, up the maximum of 3 cents, and rye September contracts reached 50⅜c, up the 5-cent limit.

Lard prices advanced the full 50-cent limit allowed daily, reflecting both the advance in grains and sharply higher hog prices.

Prices in all pits remained at the day's tions in the spot market, however. Early limits. There were no limits on price fluctuaindications were that actual corn was quoted about 6 cents a bushel higher than Saturday, with No. 4 yellow selling at 56 cents. However, traders had difficulty in getting together in the spot market, due partly to the limitation placed on futures trading, and business in actual grain was light.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 5.—A car of No. 1 yellow corn sold on the floor of the exchange today at 60 cents a bushel, 7½ cents higher. Bids were 7@7½ cents higher, but other grain was held still higher. No. 1 white oats sold 5 cents higher at 39 cents a bushel.

No wheat changed hands during the session, but bids were 5@6 cents a bushel higher.

A two-day supply of wheat (51 cars) was checked in on the exchange. The supply of corn and oats were both light.

ADVANCE OF $4.00 A BALE IN COTTON

New York Market Fluctuates Violently After Initial Spurt and Peak Not Held.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP).—Heavy buying all around carried cotton futures up almost $4 a bale at one time today. A dire need of American cotton abroad where abnormally small supplies exist was an important factor.

Some realizing pared prices in late trading when the market held 46@62 points above the previous close, October at 8.83 and May at 8.49.

Initial prices were: Oct. 8.78; Dec., 8.70; Jan., 8.57; March, 8.45; May, 8.40; July, 8.28.

Futures closed 38-52 higher.

COPPER PRICE ADVANCES TO 12 1-2 CENT BASIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP). — Copper rose 1½ cents a pound in the domestice market today to 12½ cents.

This was the highest price since Oct. 5, 1937.

The rise had been predicted earlier based on a number of small sales, when leading producing and smelting interests postponed posting a price while consumers clamored.

The last quotation (on Saturday) was 11 cents a pound, reflecting two ¼-cent markups at the end of last week. At these levels buyers bought 96,265 tons over the week end. Friday's sales of 90,562 were the largest since a record high was established at 106,101 tons July 21, 1936.

SOUR TEMPERS MADE SWEET

When you are cross, irritable and grouchy; when you find fault with the coffee, the eggs, the bacon, and the cook, you may well suspect that you have a touch of biliousness or so-called "Torpid Liver," so prevalent in hot weather. All you may need is a little calomel, or better still, "Calotabs," the nauseless calomel compound tablets that make calomel-taking a pleasure.

Calotabs give you the combined effects of calomel and salts, helping Nature to expel the bile and washing it out of the system. One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of water—that's all. Next morning your system feels clean and refreshed, your head is clear, your spirit bright, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work or pleasure.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in checker-board (black and white) packages bearing the trade mark "Calotabs." Refuse imitations. Trial package ten cents; family package only twenty-five cents.

GUNS BOOM ON WESTERN FRONT

Map shows places where activity was reported on the Western front as France swung into action against Germany. Heavy gunfire heard in the vicinity of Luxembourg (No. 1) indicated an offensive in the Moselle Valley. The brunt of the French attack, however, was believed to be in the Belfort region (No. 2) near the Swiss frontier. France's Maginot line and Germany's Siegfried line are indicated.

ON BROADWAY

with Walter Winchell

The New York Scene

THE FIRST NIGHTS: Idle for four years, George White has come back to the B'way wars, unpeeling (actually) a new "Scandals" at the Alvin. The gals, meal tickets of the White Shows, are glossy, the tunes are sweet and hot and the skits sometimes hit lower than Henry Armstrong. The reviewers, some of them Summertime subs, were disposed to be friendly. . . . The knock-down-drag-out in the Old Country is playing censor to the local shows. "Pins and Needles" which had been giving Chamberlain the bad boy business ever since Munich, quashed the indictment in reward of his recent stiff upper lip.

WALTER WINCHELL.

—o—o—

THE MAGIC LANTERNS: The kindergarten raids of Gus Edwards are sentimentally incorporated in "The Star Marker," a generally pleasurable fable, with Bing Crosby capably gussing it. As an alumnus of the Edwards carousel, your deponent reports it nostalgic, but good for those, too, who never got a Gus paycheck. Good enough, almost, to excuse Mr. Edwards for finding Jessel . . . "These Glamour Girls," in spite of that senile word in the middle of the title, is hearty cinema. It mocks one of Hollywood's sacred stencils, the college yarn. So you get revolution and Marsha Hunt for one price . . . "Charlie Chan at Treasure Island" gives you what you're looking for—assuming you know what to expect when they say "Here comes Charlie" . . . Advance reports on Zanuck's "The Rains Came" indicate that the best seller is a best-sellerloid . . . The exhibs have thrown another spear at the flicker stars who double on radio. It not only ruins business, they lament, but the film folk are so indifferent on the air they represent a depreciated investment . . . What are their films like—if bad radio can hurt them?

—o—o—

THE WIRELESS: Every working reporter in Europe (it seems) had his little say-so on the air last week. Their stuff, for the most part, was aces, but unless you know how to discount the various contradictory "interpretations" you'll soon go mad . . . There was too much side-lighting ("On the way to the studio I saw a woman weeding her geraniums") but that was more the fault of the schedules than the men. When you're summoned to the mike periodically, you've got to say something . . . After the first few days of "Up the dark stairway" discourses, John Gunther came along and gave them all a lesson in straight-from-the shouldering.

—o—o—

THE STORY-TELLERS: Look describes Alice Marble, the attractive tennistar, as a beautiful, honey-haired, streamlined sweetheart. But Life says that calling her streamlined is the bunk. That her arms and legs are too short and muscular . . . If you ask us—Life ain't no gentleman . . . We dunno why Reader's Digest says it first saw that line about dictatorships in the Manchester Guardian when it was quoted here long before . . . Not many weeks ago the column observed that a fellow wore a tinted monocle . . . Now look at page 35 of The New Yorker . . . If you want picturesque reportage read that mag's leading paragraph in Talk of the Town—a word-parade . . . The North American Review reprints an editorial written 125 years ago (as the War of 1812 ended) which all editors might inspect. The prediction it made! . . . Look, which once made Joan Crawford cry by printing "old-time" photos of her—is making up for it by giving Joan the biggest personal spread ever handed a Hollywoodearie . . . The Saturday Evening Post, which "goes after" E. Johnson, (the Atlantic City political boss) calls him "Nucky" when everybody in New Jersey and Broadway knows it is "Nocky" . . . From "Enoch!"

—o—o—

THE HEADLINERS: Said Don Ameche: "Those torrid love scenes don't affect me!" . . . Oh, don't make the boloney so rare—we like it well Don! . . . W. C. Fields hiccoughed: "I don't need moral re-armament. I'll take anything in a bottle" . . . Except milk . . . Frances Dee's remarkable remark: "I think the finest people in the world are in Hollywood" . . . And if you don't believe it—you can ask them . . . Richard Greene's quote: "The movie actress has something to think about beside men and love-making" . . . Frinstance?

COOK-COOS

—By Ted Cook

STOP the presses! We've got more news, from Lamar, Mo., concerning Bedford Myers, the hermit, who lived in the old stone house on 71 (highway) and who was found last week sitting on a feather mattress, fanning himself, and exhausted from starvation although he had $107 in his pocket and $1000 in the bank.

Our latest copy of the Lamar Democrat, ripped open with feverish excitement, says:

Mrs. Maud Harrison, who is taking care of Bedford Myers, says she went to feed him Saturday but the cot on which he had been lying was empty. He was nowhere to oe seen. My Lord, she said, he's out wandering around in his nightshirt. Won't that be a mess! But she was then attracted by a slight noise and found Bedford hiding under the cot. She ran and told Mr. Miller who came in and took a look at Bedford and told her to let him alone. Don't have any row with him. Bedford had managed to cover himself up with a large strip of linoleum. He'll get so hot under there, Mr. Miller said, that he'll soon come out. Bedford stuck it out under the linoleum for an hour and then came out. Bedford is suspicious of all modern conveniences and was greatly alarmed when an electric fan was turned on. It'll blow me away, he said. Take it away. It will blow up a storm. He was charmed when the radio was turned on. (Unfortunately the Lamar Democrat failed to note just what program charmed Bedford.) Sure can sing, can't they, he said.

While Bedford remains under the care of Mrs. Harrison, his house is being cleaned and the feather beds have been brought to the Lamar Laundry for renovation.

Postmaster Warner has a letter from a woman who claims to be Bedford's niece. She says she would be willing to care for him if he is not too set in his ways. The postmaster says this woman usually sends Bedford a present at Christmas, but he always has quite a time getting him to come into the post office and get it. Bedford refuses to have a rural delivery box because he says he doesn't want any mail. Consequently he has to wait until the postmaster sees him on the street before he gets it.

There is a story to the effect that Bedford buried some money near the hedge at the side of the road before 71 came. When the right of way was taken he was very angry and belligerent. But he beyond doubt dug the money by the hedge up.

LATE FLASH

(Paso Robles, Cal., Journal)

Police Officer John Rude is on a week's vacation and plans to spend most of his time "loafing" around home.

If sirens could sound simultaneously throughout the world, and every man would shake hands with his neighbor and say, "Let's be friends!" there would be no insane crisis of hatred. This is the sermon preached by "Peacemakers," a new organization undertaking to restore sanity to the world.

It might work. But a lot of fellows, shaking hands, would say—

"Those sirens are driving me nuts."

Q. & A. DEPARTMENT

Dear A. Bella—I am writing this with trembling hand, and I see but dimly through my tears. I am crushed, dear, sympathetic Aunt Bella, by the realization that my husband no longer cares for me. I can tell it by the look in his eye, the tone of his voice, and the eagerness with which he grabs his hat and flees from home. Have you, Aunt Bella, ever suffered—is it the fate of all women? Is it possible for a woman, no longer young, to keep a husband in line? How?

—DESPERATE.

Ans.—Don't carry on that way, Sister. I know how you feel. You can keep him in line—just take him to a picture show on bank night.

Doctor Lists Some Unusual Allergy Cases

Patients Affected by Physical Elements, Such as Heat or Cold.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

ALLERGY is the term that learned doctors have applied to a condition that suddenly afflicts certain human beings.

Allergy used to be applied to the reaction of the body to chemical objects. There is the well-known allergy to plant pollens resulting in hay fever, and allergy to foods, such as skin hypersensitiveness to strawberries. What is not so well known is the condition that a doctor in my home town of Kansas City, Dr. William W. Duke, first observed and described, and is now known as physical allergy. Physical, of course, means the action of physical elements such as light, heat and cold.

Some examples of this condition are as follows:

A child put his hand in very cold water. The hand became pallid and painful, as from chilblains. This occurred often enough that experiments were tried by putting one hand and then the other in cold water. The curious thing was that one hand always became pallid while the other did not change. Treatment by histamine injections was successful.

A woman aged 43 had asthma for many years. Her case puzzled doctors until it was discovered that she had asthma only in the summertime. By putting her in a cold bath, her asthma was immediately relieved. Plainly this case, reported by Swineford and Weinberg, is an example of physical allergy due to heat.

A woman was advised to take light treatments for arthritis. She was cured of her arthritis but was troubled with a violent skin eruption. Nobody understood the nature of this skin eruption until she consulted a doctor who thought that the history of the light treatments suggested the answer. He proved by many tests that ultraviolet light—even at a distance of 25 feet—caused localized eruptions on her skin.

Treatment is at times even more difficult than diagnosis in these conditions. The mild case may be relieved by the avoidance of the conditions found to be productive of the symptoms. But the highly-allergic person may find it impossible to avoid them. Those who are sensitive to heat and cold extremes of temperature can often be relieved by deliberate exposure to rapid alteration of temperature. The treatment of cold allergy is easier than that of heat allergy.

Curious cases are those in which the heat is brought on by the effort of the body itself. Exercise may cause a rise of temperature and create such internal heat as to produce physical allergy.

Chop finely three hard-boiled eggs and add to them one tablespoon chili sauce, one tablespoon mango chutney and a lump of butter. Blend with a silver fork until smooth, adding a little olive oil if too stiff. Spread on hot freshly-fried bread and serve immediately.

AN ARTIST AND PHILOSOPHER

Dr. Ernest L. M. Lert, Stage Director of Grand Opera Association, Believes He Has Great Chance to Put Cherished Theories Into Practice Here.

By Marguerite Martyn

DR. ERNEST L. M. LERT—"ACTING SHOULD NOT BE SACRIFICED TO SINGING."

IN Dr. Ernest J. M. Lert, stage director, the St. Louis Grand Opera Association has an artist of varied talents and a philosopher. He designs all the stage sets and the costumes, as well as directs the acting. On the other hand, Dr. Lert seems to believe he has drawn the chance of a lifetime to put cherished theories into practice here.

"This may be the first experiment in grand opera to become a really great democratic civic institution," he exclaimed, embracing the vast darkness of the Municipal Auditorium opera house expansively. "We have everything. It may be here grand opera will grow up to be as big and popular as the Municipal Light Opera. I like the idea of its guarantors being limited to $200 subscriptions, necessitating that in its financing participation be widespread. That is not true of grand opera anywhere else in the country. The Metropolitan, which all other opera companies strive to emulate, is, of course, dominated by the monied social lights who support it.

"In Laszlo Halasz, general director of your opera, you have not a private impresario, but an artist. In Ed Butler," he said, throwing an arm around the portly Ed, who has been associated with local theatrical productions for many years, "I have the finest assistant I have had in my career."

That career, the theatrical part of it, began after the World War. After serving as an officer in the Austrian army, being wounded, engaging in politics during the German Republican regime, graduating from the University of Vienna and wishing to continue the study of the psychology of crowds and collectivism, he turned to the theater as a laboratory.

"I found there, training actors, I could make three times as much as at a teaching job," he said, full lips smiling under a reddish mustache. "But you are not interested in biographical notes."

I assured him I was, that personalities behind public performances are always interesting.

"No," he insisted. "It is not important that I as an individual have found in the theater scope and outlet for creative instincts. It is the way the performance seems to the people out front that is important. You remember your Aristotle?"

I hadn't read him lately.

"The theater is the sewer of human passions," he continued. "The theater has a mission to purge the human mind and human nature of fears and passions. It is a necessary digestive tract of the human soul and mind."

Granting the sagacity of that philosophy, I still wanted to know why as stage director, the one who directs the acting, I should have found him in a huddle around a table with Tom Shields, the stage contractor; Julius Karty, assistant auditorium manager, an architectural draftsman; several stage carpenters and technicians, and laying down the law to all of them. They were studying working plans of sets for Aida which will open the opera season Oct. 14.

"My budget provides for lower estimates, you gentlemen will just have to make your jobs conform," the director was telling them among other things. I was not eavesdropping but had been invited to draw up a chair to the table.

"I thought you were mainly interested in making actors out of pampered prima donnas and high-priced tenors," I said, when at last he had been extracted from the conference and we went to the back of the stage to lean against a piano.

"And so I am," he agreed heartily. "I am determined the acting shall not be sacrificed to the singing." He had resigned a similar job with the Metropolitan Opera of New York because stars weren't required to rehearse with the chorus, it is said.

"But scenery," Dr. Lert continued, "costumes and lighting are all dramatically bound up in the expression of the actors. I liked a line one of your critics wrote during our season last spring. He said of our production: 'The whole was bigger than any single part.' I dow, plays a part to the music. must be mixed up in all these details back stage and I must be able to see the thing as a whole.

"I have a wise crack I have made" —the expression was funny in his oddly accented English along with his rather formal, elegant manner, as inconsistent as his short sleeved sweat shirt with a tight collar bound round with a neat bow tie. "It is, 'There shall be nothing on the stage which is not in the score, but everything on the stage which is in the score.' You see what I mean."

HE took up from a pile of sketches a water color he had done himself of a set for La Boheme.

"The strip of sky above the roof," he pointed out, "shows that it is an attic. The chimney going out above the roof extends that idea. The colors are cold except for the red brick chimney, for the room is cold except for that place of warmth. In most settings for this scene a fireplace is used. That is not true of attics in Paris. They have stoves. So I have a stove.

"Mimi is discovered ill in a bed in the corner. The bed has to be moved to the center of the stage presumably only because a prima donna must die in the center of the stage. That's a bad dramatic reason. Puccini had a dramatic reason for having the boys move Mimi's bed. It was so she could warm her cold hands at the fire. So I have the stove in the center of the stage.

"You remember the music makes a very definite twist there. The boys begin dancing and beating their chest to warm themselves in the cold room. Even the sun now observed shining through the win-

Everything in the score is on the stage. The director must see to that. Every gesture, every movement by principals and chorus, every detail of setting must have purpose and meaning correlated with the music."

He took up then a more mechanical looking drawing made from his sketch, but drawn to scale by a draftsman.

"Mr. Shields must be allowed to express himself, too," remarked the director. "And so must every individual connected with the production. A director may direct, but not to the extent of stifling individuality of expression. He must bring out, not suppress, naturalness in an actor.

"Ah, but it is easy here," he mused, puffing contentedly on his pipe. "Here in this country people are not regimented as they are even in democratic countries in Europe. You can't get much acting out of European trained singers at first, not until they have been here long enough to sniff the free atmosphere. European singers are trained to overact. After they have been here awhile they get the feeling that they may tone down and act as human beings, not as hams."

Dr. Lert, obviously a cosmopolite, was asked which was his favorite country. "I have been in America since 1929. I have become a citizen. I think that should answer that question. I wasn't doing so badly, either," he added, "at La Scala in Milan with Toscanini, greatest of them all, for seven years."

Before that he had been stage director of the Leipsic Opera.

A Criticism of South's Play in Bridge Contest

Method of Attack Needlessly Exposed Him to Greater Penalty.

By Ely Culbertson

"DEAR Mr. Culbertson: The bidding and the play of this hand involved some deep (for me) thought, involving the ruff of my good king of spades with my ace of trumps in order to get a count on the hands, all to no avail, as the final play still was mostly guesswork.

"North, dealer.

"North-South vulnerable.

	♠ 8 ♥ A 8 6 3 ♦ A 9 6 2 ♣ J 7 6 5
♠ J 10 9 7 5 2 ♥ 7 ♦ Q 10 ♣ A 10 8 4	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ Q 6 3 ♥ K 5 ♦ 7 4 3 ♣ K Q 9 3 2
	♠ A K 4 ♥ Q J 10 9 4 2 ♦ K J 8 5 ♣ None

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
2 diamonds	2 spades	3 spades	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West led the club ace, which I ruffed. East's final bid had been a slow pass, indicating a guarded heart king, but I had to finesse anyway. Taking his heart king, he led a low spade to my ace. I led a low heart to the eight for a second club ruff. Then my low spade was ruffed on the board for a third club ruff. I next led the good spade king and ruffed with the heart ace, in order to lead the fourth club and ruff it with my last trump. Unfortunately, this did little good in so far as getting any indication about the diamond queen was concerned. East had played the spade queen on the third trick. West must have had six spades and one heart and at least four clubs. If West had shown two hearts, it would have been simple. He would have been marked with the singleton diamond which the ace would take, leaving a proved finesse. As it was, the club king remained out, doubtless with East, since West had led the ace. So West had two diamonds. I led to the diamond ace and West played the 10 spot. That could be a false card, but East, who had raised West only once, had already shown most of the face cards, so I led back and played the diamond king. P. E. P., Florida."

While I heartily approve playing a hand in such a fashion as to get a count of the defenders' distribution, even this valuable process can be overdone and I am afraid that, in this case, my correspondent did overdo it. Since he used all of his trumps on cross ruffs in clubs and spades, even if he had located West with a singleton diamond, and that singleton were a low card, not the 10 or queen, his "count" would have availed him nothing. Suppose that at the stage at which declarer and dummy had four diamonds each, East had been located with the Q 10 x x, declarer still would have had to lose a diamond trick. He could lead to the ace and return the nine, but East would cover, and declarer would have to lose to East's other diamond honor.

Actually, there was no safe way of playing this hand, but the one chosen needlessly exposed declarer to a two trick rather than a one trick penalty. If the diamond king had not dropped the queen, declarer would have taken no more tricks, not a great matter since a slam was at stake, but still worth mentioning, since the chosen plan offered no greater security. It seems to me that declarer could do no better in this hand than to indulge in a sheer guess for the diamond queen after the heart finesse lost, and I am inclined to think that a diamond finesse to the jack would have been logical despite the fact that it would have cost declarer his contract. By his own account, he located East with three diamonds and West with two, hence, on a sheer percentage basis the odds favored a finesse.

UNRELIABLE emotions trying to reach the surface today; relax those self-pity muscles, if you can. If not, hold 'em back. Not the day for saying or doing the first thing that pops up; control and direction much better than speed.

Are You Lonely?

All about us are people who are not showing us all their hopes and labors. We don't show them all of ours. This is why it takes sincerity, the giving of ourselves to study or the active help of some cause, to make human contacts with the deeper characters of those we meet. Remember my friend who found the artists by taking up art seriously himself. This is the answer to loneliness.

Criticism of South's Play in ridge Contest

ethod of Attack Needlessly Exposed Him to Greater Penalty.

By Ely Culbertson

DEAR Mr. Culbertson: The bidding and the play of this hand involved some deep (or me) thought, involving the rt of my good king of spades th my ace of trumps in order to a count on the hands, all to no ail, as the final play still was stly guesswork.

North, dealer.

The bidding:

rth	East	South	West
ss	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
iamonds	2 spades	3 spades	Pass
earts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
ss	Pass

West led the club ace, which I ffed. East's final bid had been w pass, indicating a guarded art king, but I had to finesse yway. Taking his heart king, he l a low spade to my ace. I led a w heart to the eight for a second ib ruff. Then my low spade was ffed on the board for a third club ff. I next led the good spade ng and ruffed with the heart ace, order to lead the fourth club and ff it with my last trump. Unfornately, this did little good in so r as getting any indication about e diamond queen was concerned. ast had played the spade queen the third trick. West must have d six spades and one heart and least four clubs. If West had own two hearts, it would have en simple. He would have been arked with the singleton diamond hich the ace would take, leaving proved finesse. As it was, the ub king remained out, doubtless ith East, since West had led the ace. So West had two diamonds. by I led to the diamond ace and West played the 10 spot. That could be false card, but East, who had ised West only once, had already own most of the face cards, so led back and played the diamond ng.

P. E. P., Florida."

While I heartily approve playing hand in such a fashion as to get count of the defenders' distribuon, even this valuable process can overdone and I am afraid that, this case, my correspondent did erdo it. Since he used all of his umps on cross ruffs in clubs and ades, even if he had located West ith a singleton diamond, and that ngleton were a low card, not the or queen, his "count" would have alled him nothing. Suppose that the stage at which declarer and ummy had four diamonds each, ast had been located with the Q 10 x. declarer still would have had lose a diamond trick. He could ad to the ace and return the nine, ut East would cover, and declarer ould have to lose to East's other iamond honor.

Actually, there was no safe way f playing this hand, but the one osen needlessly exposed declarer a two trick rather than a one ick penalty. If the diamond king ad not dropped the queen, declarer would have taken no more tricks, ot a great matter since a slam was stake, but still worth mentioning, nce the chosen plan offered no reater security. It seems to me hat declarer could do no better in his hand than to indulge in a sheer uess for the diamond queen after e heart finesse lost, and I am inined to think that a diamond nesse to the jack would have been gical despite the fact that it would ave cost declarer his contract. By s own account, he located East ith three diamonds and West with wo, hence, on a sheer percentage asis the odds favored a finesse.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a mother of five children from 11 to 23. My children never give me any trouble but now after 26 years of married life my husband won't go out with me or the children. Every night he dresses up and goes out and when I ask him where he says "Just bumming." He is good to me except for that. I don't go to taverns and he drinks a lot but I never say anything to him. Now I don't know what to do, but I don't aim to sit here any longer by myself.

A WORRIED MOTHER.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Why not try giving your husband a taste of his own medicine? Go out with your children or visit friends and neglect to say where you have been. Of course, you must do nothing that will jeopardize your reputation but let him know that you do not intend sitting home alone while he dresses up and goes out.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM 16 YEARS old and went to high school one year. Last year I quit high school after two months and took a course with a radio correspondence school. I think I am a little bit too young to secure a good radio job as yet and I am asking whether you think I should go back to high school this year or try to secure some kind of a position. Can you give me some information about the National Youth Administration?

JUST WONDERING.

If you possibly can, you should go back to high school this year. In this day and age the more edubation you have the better you will fare. For information about the National Youth Administration inquire at room, 312 in the Old Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets.

Dear Martha Carr:

DO YOU THINK it is cheap to bleach your hair if it makes you more attractive and is the style? Is a white net evening gown out of place at a winter dance?

C. H.

Why bleach your hair at all? Naturalness is always the most beautiful thing about any girl. I am afraid white net is a bit too summery for winter dances.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM VERY much interested in becoming a librarian. Can you advise me as to which studies to take in high school, also how much schooling is required?

BOOKWORM.

The nearest library school since the St. Louis Public Library school was suspended is at the University of Illinois. Write there to learn what the entrance reqirements are.

Dear Martha Carr:

COULD YOU TELL me of a way to remove a scorch mark from a printed silk dress without damaging the color?

If the material is washable you might try laundering. However, if it is not, I know of no remedy.

Seeds of Greatness

By Elsie Robinson

SO you swear you'll never do a decent thing again! Look what happened when you took in those worthless Joneses, gave them new clothes and furniture and staked them to a new start! And the time you signed a note for your own cousin—and he left you holding the bag! And the way everyone treated you when you tried to befriend that unfortunate acquaintance. Yes, you're certainly fed up with Goodness! Humiliation, ridicule, deliberate misunderstanding and downright doublecrossing . . . that's what you've received every time you've tried to do a fine and brave thing!

ELSIE ROBINSON.

Well, what did you expect? And what right had you to think that you'd receive any other treatment? If you've sense enough to appreciate courage, kindness, honesty and fair play, you're also hep to the fact that they are mighty rare virtues in this world of ours. By and large, we're still mostly savages . . . frightened, stupid, malicious savages who fear and hate anything which challenges our cowardice and comfort. Some day we'll be greater. Even now, we have the seeds of greatness in us. But few of us are civilized enough to defy the darkness in ourselves, much less the incorporated cussedness of society at large.

BUT YOU defied it, yes? And you felt pretty fine when you did it, didn't you? For a few minutes you had a golden glimpse of what life might be if we all were kind and courageous. Then the glimpse faded . . . for the darkness shut down . . . and the vengeance began. All the other savages whose meanness you had exposed and whose ignorance you had challenged were rushing in to get even with you! They were saying that you weren't really good . . . you were just showing off! You weren't really brave . . . you were simply ruthless! You weren't even kind . . . you were trying to wrangle a profit for yourself!

Well, suppose they did—what of it? You knew, beforehand, what you might expect. Suppose you went bamming through a jungle, upsetting all the habits and haunts of the jungle inhabitants? Would you expect the leopards to write you a vote of thanks because you've jeopardized their safety . . . or the boa to kiss your hand . . . or the weasels and vultures and scorpions to decorate you with lei? Not by a long shot. . . . You'd watch your step! And you'd have only yourself to thank if you didn't!

—o—o—

THEN CUT out the blubbering and apply the same logic to your present condition. You may not be adventuring in South America or Africa—but you, as surely, crash into a jungle—and jeopardize jungle safety . . . when you challenge human meanness and stupidity. And, by the same token, it's up to you to watch your step . . . or take the consequences! The source which gives you the impulse toward nobility also gave you the sense to realize its costs. And it's just your bad luck if you don't!

Goodness is a beautiful and exhilarating experience . . . the finest and most civilized form of human expression. Good—really good—people perform a greater service to the race than the most talented geniuses, the bravest explorers or fighters. Virture is its own reward . . . the richest and loveliest reward on earth. No material profit can equal the joy and pride of rising to your full stature. But don't kid yourself that the other fellow won't nip your heel while you're so doing. For he will . . . and plenty!

GANG LAWYER

First Chapter of Dixie Davis' Inside Story of the Mobs That Ruled New York's Underworld—How 'Kid Mouthpiece' Saw Dutch Schultz Kill a Man.

By J. RICHARD (DIXIE) DAVIS

DIXIE DAVIS AND HOPE DARE, THE FORMER SHOW GIRL, WHOM HE MARRIED AFTER SERVING HIS SENTENCE.

When Dixie Davis was worming his way up from police-court shyster to top man of the toughest mob in America, it was smart to play the game and keep your mouth shut. When rival shooters blew his mob to bits and the law at last stepped in, it was smart to squeal. Dixie Davis talked. His testimony helped send one of New York's most powerful politicians to jail and won a light sentence for Dixie Davis.

But, at the trial, Davis was permitted to tell only those things that were strictly relevant. Dixie Davis had much more to tell. He tells it in dramatic detail. Here in the first installment of the intimate history of the mobs that ruled and still rule the underworld of New York.

DUTCH SCHULTZ—HE WAS LEADER OF THE MOB.

DUTCH SCHULTZ was ugly; he had been drinking and suddenly he had his gun out. The Dutchman wore his pistol under his vest, tucked inside his pants, right against his belly. One jerk at his vest and he had it in his hand. All in the same quick motion he swung it up, stuck it in Jules Martin's mouth and pulled the trigger.

It was as simple and undramatic as that—just one quick motion of the hand. The Dutchman did that murder just as casually as if he were picking his teeth.

No one had time to move. Julie Martin didn't even have time to look surprised. He had his face stuck out in front of him, arguing with his boss in that loud, blustering voice of his, and Schultz was up close to him, blustering too. Martin was right in the middle of a sentence as the gun blasted like a howitzer in the filmsy little hotel room.

What I remember mostly now is Martin's moaning. At one moment he was shouting, protesting, arguing with the Dutchman in that loud-mouthed way of his; and the next he was moaning, almost screaming, even louder than before. He folded slowly over a chair, and from his mouth the blood dripped to the floor. Except for Schultz's heavy breathing, the only noise in town seemed to be Julie's bellowing.

We were in the quiet little city of Cohoes, N. Y., near Albany. Schultz was so notorious just then that the big towns and the big hotels would not have him and he was staying in the old Harmony Hotel, a decrepit frame structure festooned with cobwebs. The place was practically vacant, like a barn, the sort of place where a whisper seems to echo. I thought they must have heard that shot all over town, they must hear Julie's moaning. Schultz's suite was on the first floor, right on the main street corner of the town. It was practically public. It was an insane place to shoot anyone.

I got out of the bedroom quickly and grabbed my hat and coat from a chair in the sitting room. Marty Krompler came right after me.

"The man is crazy," Marty said to Lulu Rosenkrantz, the Dutchman's bodyguard who was there in the sitting room. "He shot a man for nothing."

THEN Schultz came out tucking his pistol back in his pants. The rage had gone out of his face, and he looked worried. "Give me a drink, Lulu," he said. Then he turned to me.

"Dick, you must hate me for this," he said. For he realized what a horrible thing he had done, shooting down Julie right in front of me. I was not a mobster. I was a lawyer, a member of the bar in good standing; and he knew there was not supposed to be any rough stuff when I was around. I didn't say a word, I was so angry.

"Lulu," said the Dutchman, "you'd better go in the lobby and get that clerk out of the way so he won't see Dick walk out."

I gave Lulu a moment to clear the way, then stepped into the corridor. I stopped right there. Walking past the door, almost close enough for me to touch, was a hotel porter, carrying a bucket over his arm. I held my breath, and through the wall came Julie's moaning. It was a miracle that the porter failed to hear the shot and the moaning. He was whistling Home, Sweet Home. Maybe he did hear, and maybe de was whistling to indicate that he didn't.

I hurried down through the deserted lobby, out the back door. It was raw, half raining, half snowing, and I was already shivering in a cold sweat. I went around the corner, right past the window of the room where Martin was, and hurried along the street with my collar turned up, trying to keep from being noticed. I couldn't call a taxicab, for I mustn't be seen leaving there. I walked toward the Albany rd. and when I got past the brightly lighted part of the street I found myself running. I ran and ran.

I was scared. It is very unhealthy to be an eye-witness to a murder when a man like Schultz is the killer. To a man like him the only good witness is a dead witness. As I ran, I kept thinking of the mess I was in, and I couldn't help longing for the days when I was just a kid mouthpiece, making lots of money as a shyster in the magistrate's court. Those had been the happy days.

Now for four years I had been mixed up with Schultz's mob, as tough a mob as there was in America. Schultz had been the Bronx beer baron. He had made himself the policy king of New York and the shakedown terror of the restaurants along Broadway. I had profited plenty, too.

Up until Martin's murder I had been riding high. From then on I fought against odds that finally landed me behind bars, a convict in prison.

You have read about me, Dick Davis, whom the newspapers call Dixie Davis. I pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence in District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's prosecution that convicted Jimmy Hines. Hines, the most powerful district leader of Tammany Hall, the New York Democratic organization, was found guilty of protecting the Schultz policy lottery.

I have now finished my one-year sentence for participating in the conspiracy, and I am telling my whole story because I am deadbroke, and I've got to have a grubstake so I can drop out of sight and get a new start in life. I am going to tell about Martin's murder in detail, because it was the turning point in my life.

That sound of Martin's moaning still echoed in my ears as I ran through the rain. Just when they finished him off, or how they got rid of him, I never found out. His body was found the next afternoon by a road outside of Troy, wrapped in a blanket, with twelve knife wounds in his chest. I suppose they were to stop the moaning.

"I cut his heart out," Schultz told me later. He had a way of dropping remarks like that. It helped him to hold us under his power. I also found that after I ran away they had cleaned up Martin's blood but there was still some that had seeped into the cracks of the old hotel floor. Schultz made Lulu Rosenkrantz stand over that spot and let Danny Dale hit him a bang on the nose, so his nose bled and dripped where the blood of Martin was in the cracks. Danny Dale hit Lulu's nose such a bang that he broke it. Then they called a doctor to treat Lulu, so there was a witness that it was Lulu's blood on the floor.

It was by mere chance that I was there to see that shooting. I had come up from New York that afternoon with James M. Noonan, the big Albany lawyer who was in charge of the Dutchman's income tax defense. After talking with the Dutchman at Cohoes, I was going home with Noonan for dinner in Albany.

"Ah, Dick, let Jim have a chance to be alone with his family," said Schultz, for he could be considerate in little things. "You stay here for dinner with me. Jim hasn't seen his kids for a long time."

So Jim went home to his kids and I stayed. I was sitting with Lulu when the voices in the bedroom got so loud I went in to see what it was all about.

SCHULTZ was raising hell with Julie Martin, and all of a sudden he hauled off and hit Julie one in the eye. Schultz was a little fellow, even shorter than I am, but he had broad shoulders and carried a wallop in his fist.

Julie staggered under the blow. He had a big heavy cane in his hand, I remember, for he had a sore foot that day and was limping around in a carpet slipper. Julie was a big-mouthed ape who ran the restaurant racket for Schultz. He had two big labor unions terrorized and in two years he had shaken down $2,000,000 from the eating places in the Broadway section, including Jack Dempsey's.

Once I had seen Julie with his bare hands beat up a big man horribly. But when Schultz hit him he staggered back and didn't even raise his arms to the Dutchman. Nobody in the mob would dare do that.

Marty Krompler and I moved in on them, and I got the Dutchman by the arm and pulled him into the bathroom. I talked to him there for 20 minutes.

"Arthur, be reasonable," I said. Among ourselves we called him the Dutchman, but to his face we called him Arthur, because his real name was Arthur Flegenheimer, and he liked it.

"Arthur," I said, "you can't afford to stir up any troubles here. Don't forget you are going to trial in the Federal Court of this district for income tax evasion. You're notorious enough now, and you can't afford to get a bad name up here."

Gradually he calmed down. He saw my point. Besides, I reminded him that he had promised me to forgive Martin. Julie had been stealing money from the restaurant racket to sink it in a factory he had in Elkhart, Ind., where he was building very bum taxicabs out of used and obsolete parts. I thought I had squared that all up for him with the Dutchman, but Julie was saying he had stolen only $20,000 and the Dutchman was insisting he had stolen $70,000 and they were fighting over the difference.

If I had known Schultz had a gun with him, I would have got the other guy out of there while I had things quieted down. But then the Dutchman flared up again, pulled out his gun and it was too late.

Long before this I had known, of course, that these men of the Schultz mob were killers. When I had first met them, they were still fighting their bloody war with Vincent Coll, "the baby-killer." As I got to know them better, the Dutchman and Bo Weinberg would sit with me for hours yarning about their murders. But this shooting, right before my eyes, was real and horrible. Never until that night had I believed that Dutch Schultz was really vicious.

I hated Dutch Schultz from then on. He didn't have to lose his temper to the point of doing that in front of me, putting me in jeopardy like that. And all the mental anguish he caused me! I had never thought he would do anything as rotten and mean as that.

It is wrong in the underworld to kill a fellow for no reason at all. You have got to have a reason. Just because a fellow has clipped you for some money is no reason to kill him, because people in the underworld are clipping one another all the time. The whole Schultz mob was uneasy and sore about the way the Dutchman murdered Julie. From that night on we knew our boss was practically a madman.

How long I ran that night I do not know. Outside of Cohoes I

GOOD-BY TO VIENNA

CHAPTER 27.

FRANZ had his American visa on his own passport. He had not seen it yet, but Marian had been to the consulate and got it, and a wonderful free feeling it gave him just to know it. All he had to do now was to get official permission to leave Austria. No fuss about his money. He would have none. Neither would he have any fuss about his personal possessions.

A somewhat bitter situation existed about the payment of the rent, which was actually why he had accumulated some money. The landlord had disappeared—was either in prison or had managed to flee the country. It was imposible to pay him for no one knew where he was. Not even whether he was dead or alive. No commissioners had yet wakened to the fact that the apartment house was an abandoned piece of valuable property, so no one had come to confiscate the old man's rents.

If things could only be speeded up about Johann another job would not be necessary. He decided to commence all the formalities for his own departure as soon as he was freed from the dispensary.

He called Marian up before he left for the hospital and told her he would not be home for lunch. He had a lot of business to do in town, and if he did not call her in the meantime he would meet her at the usual place for supper.

He added—"that idea of yours was a good one. It might be advisable to make reservations on one of the boats."

"So Johann's got a passport?"

"Not yet, darling—but I'm going to put some more force into it. Call on all the people I know who might have a little pull—I've been too easily put off by all these putter-offs as you call them. Auf Wiedersehn—beloved one."

Strangely ironic words. He raced down the stone stairs, leaping the last three of every flight, paused to open the letter box and take out a letter from Gisela, unlock the chain and wheel out his motorcycle. The two secret police were entering the big street door as he moved toward it to wheel the cycle out.

"Franz Gruenwald," said one.

"That's right," said Franz.

"Then leave this thing behind and come with us."

Marian waited at the cafe table amusing herself with the pile of illustrated magazines the waiter set beside her. It was not unusual for Franz to be late these days. The variable weather of alternate chill and heat was persecuting sufferers from weak lungs and sorely taxing the resources of the hospitals.

She did not begin to grow anxious till two hours had passed and healthy hunger had compelled her to order and eat her supper. She called the Herr Ober to pay her bill.

• • •

SHE went down into the Rathauskeller on the way home—the long series of cellars under the towering gothic Rathaus, now inhabited by a gay popular restaurant burrowing underground. Here she would surely find at least a dozen of Franz's friends from the hospital. She found some in the end room and waited in the doorway till a portly tenor finished his love song to the romantic strains of Vienna music and then approached a quartet of American students.

"That's funny, Miss Taylor. They've been calling your room asking for news. He hasn't been seen at the hospital today."

Her heart stood still—not because the thing itself was so alarming, but because the atmosphere of the city played so badly on the nerves that one automatically suspected the worst.

"Thanks. There's some simple explanation, of course. I'll go right home. There's sure to be a message for me."

But there was not. Now her heart was beating thunderously. "I'm a silly little fool," she told herself aloud. "Naturally he would expect me to go to the Reichsratstrasse. He must have called Trudi."

There was news waiting for her there, but not from Franz. She saws his motorcycle standing in its accustomed place in the recess behind the elevator. The janitor emerged from his little eyrie on the mezzanine immediately above.

"Had any news from him, fraulein?" he asked her anxiously.

"No, Gustav. Is anything the matter? I was coming round to find out."

The compassion in his old eyes frightened her. "It looks bad, fraulein, but it may be all right. He was just going out when two men from the gestapo called and took him away in a car this morning. They left his cycle leaning just inside the door. I put it away myself and locked it up."

"O, no, Gustav, I don't believe it. Herr Gruenwald hasn't done anything."

The old man smiled at that and spat on the floor. "First I've heard that's necessary."

Marian felt so sick she clung to the wrought iron gate of the elevator for support. "I'm going upstairs to see if Trudi knows anything."

But the moment she saw Trudi's scared face peeping through the chained aperture of the door, she knew Trudi was in the same condition of apprehension as she was.

Trudi let her in. "What has Herr Franz done?" she worried. "That good boy who would never hurt anybody?"

"Nothing that cannot be cleared up in a day or two, I'm sure, Trudi. Look—I'm going to get my things and stay here with you."

Trudi shook her big, round, flaxen head. "Better not, I think, Fraulein Marian—"

"But I want to be here in case there's a message—in case I can do anything. Besides, Trudi, I'm scared. Being with you would be a comfort to me."

Continued Tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS:

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a cafe in Vienna, hear a radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian Taylor, has been staying in Franz's home, studying voice. Franz fears for his foster-father, Prof. Josef von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, warns him to send the American girl home. Her brother, Karl, is a Storm Trooper. Von Plasy is taken off to jail to die from shock. In order to take Gisela's money out of the country to deliver to her friend, Emil Wiedermann, in Riga, Marian invests it in rare stamps. Herr Speyer, the stamp merchant, guesses her purpose, but is sympathetic and asks her to deliver a picture to a friend of his in Riga, a Mme. Lonska. Franz loses his job. When Leopoldine secures one for him he accepts it for the sake of his dependents. In Riga Marian learns Herr Wiedermann is in love with Gisela and wants to arrange for her and Johann to come there. Mme. Lonska insists that Marian stay with her. Marian realizes that Mme. Lonska is a spy and that she thinks Marian also is one and that the picture from Herr Speyer was a message in code. Marian returns to Vienna. Franz persuades Gisela to go to Riga and leave Johann until a passport can be got for him. Franz spurns Leopoldine's offer to be his mistress.

REPORT CARDS TEACH THE RIGHT REASONING ABOUT MILK

One of the best lessons to learn at the beginning of the school term is the importance of milk as a source of Vitamin D. If you want to give your youngsters the milk that is practically packed with the precious benefits of this sunshine vitamin, you'll give them Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk. To vary its use in foods, try these recipes:

CUP CUSTARD

2 cups Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla
Nutmeg

Beat eggs slightly, add the rest of the ingredients. Pour into individual molds and sprinkle with nutmeg. Set in a pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees F. for 40 minutes. Serves 6.

DOLL HOUSE

¼ cup sugar
4 tablespoons cornstarch
8 Graham crackers
2 cups Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk
1 teaspoon Pevely Butter
5 drops red fruit coloring
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 bananas

Combine sugar and cornstarch, add milk, mixing well. Place in a double boiler and cook until a thick custard. Add butter, vanilla and coloring and blend until custard is a uniform color. Allow to cool. Place one graham cracker on a dessert dish. Remove peel from banana and cut in four thick slices. Place a slice on each corner of the cracker; then put another cracker over the slices. Cover with pink custard to give the appearance of a doll house. Serves 4.

If these recipes create a desire for more, I'd love to give you additional suggestions. And, perhaps, I can save you time and trouble in the kitchen with some of my short-cuts in food preparation. Just call on me, whatever your problem. Address Prudence Pevely, care Pevely Dairy Co., Grand and Chouteau or phone GRand 4400.

Dixie Davis' Inside Story of Gang Life

thumbed a ride to Albany, got out there in the western hill section and walked down the hill past the capitol to the Hotel Ten Eyck. Jim Noonan was waiting for me in the lobby. Somewhere along the way I had telephoned that I had to see him. He gave me a newspaper, told me to sit down and hold it in front of my face, for I was nearly crying. As soon as I got my face straight we went into the bar. I talked there with a narcotic agent I knew, because I wanted to be seen in Albany, not in Cohoes.

Noonan and I took the 9 o'clock train back to New York.

We got to New York at midnight and I called up Bo Weinberg, the Dutchman's chief lieutenant, and he met us at Hope Dare's apartment on Central Park South. Hope was the Ziegfeld Follies girl who was my sweetheart. She still is, and we were married as soon as I got out of jail, my first wife having divorced me.

We were hardly at Hope's place when the telephone rang. It was the Dutchman on the wire, drunker than ever.

"Dick, are you still angry with me?" he asked. "You must hate me for what I did."

My stomach just about turned over with terror. The telephone wire was being tapped by the cops. I handed the phone to Bo Weinberg.

"Don't talk," he told the Dutchman. "I'll call you back."

We went down to the St. Moritz drug store, and Bo telephoned Schultz from a booth. He came out and said he had to drive to Cohoes right away. I suppose the Dutchman wanted him to help in getting rid of Julie.

This had all happened on Saturday evening. Monday I got word he wanted me, and I had to go, for now I was deadly in fear of him.

Schultz was practically tearing his hair out with worry when I got there. The newspapers were raising a fuss and he was desperately afraid he was going to be indicted for the murder.

"We got to get Jimmy up here," he said. "Get the old man."

That was the sound instinct of the underworld boss; when in a jam, send for a politician.

So I went to a telephone and put in a call for Jimmy Hines. This was on March 5, 1935, just when Jimmy was cultivating the friendships in Washington that made him dispenser of New Deal patronage in New York. I finally got him at his home late that afternoon.

"He wants you to come up here," I said. When you are accustomed to having your wires tapped you are very careful what you say. So I didn't explain who "he" was. With Jimmy I didn't need to say. "Something bad has happened," I said, "and he wants to see you right away."

"I'm just sitting down to dinner," said Hines.

"You've just got time to catch the 6:20 train," I said. So Hines caught the 6:20 and was in Albany a little after 9 o'clock that night.

TOMORROW — How James J. Hines, Tammany leader, got Dutch Schultz's $18,600 back from the police, although there was a Government lien filed against it.

Water Gardens

DELIGHTFUL what you can do with a "water garden!" Graceful plants, flowering bulbs grow beautifully in water, need little care.

The luxuriant vine in our picture sprang from a lowly sweet potato—and this season of the year potatoes are just right for vine-growing.

Other root plants such as carrots and turnips make a pretty growth, too. Just keep the lower third of each vegetable in water as our diagram shows.

You may have continuous bloom in your home by starting bulbs in water every few weeks. The gorgeous autumn crocus in our picture flowers within a month. Set the bulb in fiber or pebbles, let the water touch only its bottom. Follow with the paper white narcissus, the creamy Chinese sacred lily, the colorful hyacinth, other bulbs.

And before frost, cut buds of flowers, chrysanthemums in your outdoor garden. Put in water indoors, they'll bloom for weeks.

Easy, too, to grow beautiful potted plants successfully by knowing simple pointers. Our 32-page booklet tells how to raise foliage plants, vines, how to make a "water garden.' Gives directions for repotting, fertilizing, watering.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Home Service, 635 Sixth av., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Cheese Pudding

Another nice meat substitute for the warmer days. One pint milk, one and a half cups grated sharp cheese, two eggs, one pint breadcrumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, a pinch of soda. Put milk into a buttered baking dish, add beaten eggs, then crumbs, grated cheese, salt and soda which have been mixed together. Bake in a moderate oven until nicely browned on top. Serve immediately.

Fruit Compote Supreme

Mix together in a large bowl two cups scooped out balls of watermelon, two cups scooped out balls of honeydew, two cups flaked fresh pineapple. Sweeten to taste. Have in reserve one cup of pitted black oxheart cherries but keep separate as the juice will discolor the other fruits. Chill until ready to use. In the bottom of each compote place a portion of lime or orange ice and arrange fruit over the top, placing the black cherries around afterward to make a colorful picture. May start the formal summer dinner, serve as a dessert for the informal summer dinner, or serve as a delightful refreshment in the late evening.

Kitchen Kinks

Serve crackers and cheese instead of dessert occasionally.

A cheese sauce will always add zest to any vegetable croquette.

A little lemon juice is well added to the batter for waffles, giving more flavor and a certain lightness to the waffles.

The best way to prepare fish for broiling is to spread it well with melted butter and dredge on salt, pepper, and a little flour.

Parboil the potatoes first, then place them in the oven to bake, during the warmer weather. It means having the oven going much less time.

Corn Stuffing

One-third cup chopped salt pork.
One-fourth cup chopped onions.
One-third cup chopped green peppers.
One-fourth cup minced celery.
Two tablespoons minced parsley.
One cup soft bread.
One and one-half cups cooked corn (canned or cut from cob).
One egg yolk.

Heat the pork in a frying pan. Add and brown the onions, peppers and celery. Pour in the rest of the ingredients and mix with a fork. Cool slightly. Spread on meat.

Raspberry Ade

Two cups red raspberries, one and a half cups sugar, one-half cup orange juice, one-quarter cup lemon juice, four cups water. Mash raspberries and put into saucepan with one cup water. Boil slowly for 5 minutes, then put through fine strainer. Make a syrup by boiling remaining sugar with the rest of the water for 5 minutes. Cool, add orange, lemon and raspberry juices. Fill tall glasses with cracked ice and pour the raspberry mixture over the top for one of the most refreshing of summer beverages.

Savory String Beans

Shred two small onions and saute in bacon fat until tender and lightly browned. Add one pint tomato pulp, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon sugar. Bring to a boil and then add one quart of cooked string beans cut into sections. Simmer for about 15 minutes, add one tablespoon butter and serve. A nice way to bring back the string beans for their return engagement.

Voodooism in Harlem

By George Tucker

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.

A DETECTIVE tells me that as sure as shooting Voodooism is practiced in Harlem. Voodooism is that weird "conjur" religion said to have been imported from Africa, but more likely from Haiti, by slaves. It is predicated on the potency of various charms, such as nail-parings, dried lizards, and human hair. It is accompanied by frenzied symbolical dances and leans heavily on witchcraft.

Not long ago a man was arrested in Harlem for theft, and around his neck was found a conjur bag. In it were the front paws of a dead rat, a capsule of "Goofus" dust (powdered fish scales), nail-parings, and a bone which he claimed was the knuckle of a monkey's hand.

All of these charms, if purchased from the right source, are said to be powerful enough to destroy your enemies or at least to give you an advantage over them. There is a story in Harlem to the effect that the Voodooists concentrate on Joe Louis every time he fights, and they ascribe all his victories to the infallibility of their "medicine." Joe's defeat at the hands of Schmeling on their first encounter was discounted on the theory that some of the more powerful Voodoo worshippers, taking a temporary dislike to Louis, conjured up an even more powerful form of medicine and turned it against him.

Where the Voodooists meet is a closely guarded secret, but this detective tells me their worship is a perversion of the old Voodoo and is allied with the "loco" weed belt, or marajuana dives, of which there are supposed to be more than 500 in Harlem. The effects of the weed make its users more conducive to mass hypnotism, an essential part of Voodoo ritual.

They tell me there are even "drug stores" in Harlem to which worshipers go for their charms, the most potent of which is "grisgris," said to be so powerful that all you have to do is leave a little "grisgris" on your enemy's doorstep during the dark of the moon and he will disappear. Dried toads, powdered bone, powdered fishscales, snake skin, dried human skin, dried lizards, and various "ointments" are available for true believers.

Each of these charms has a special purpose. If you work for a man who isn't paying you a decent wage you simply confer with the chief medicine man and he suggests a "remedy." These medicines are powerful enough to insure your success in business and to confound your rivals in courtship.

Although Voodooism has been practiced since the Revolutionary War in this country, no one really knows much about it. Authorities have no date for its arrival in America. Said to be a relic of the Guinea coast, it is more probable that it developed in the French colonies in the Indies. It flourished strongly in the slave districts up to and after the Civil War, particularly along the Mississippi and in New Orleans.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

By Ripley

The phenomenon of the disappearing farm is due to a great fissure beneath Southern Idaho. Robertson's farm did not break away or crumble, but sank about 200 feet below its former level. Geologists are greatly interested in the phenomenon.

BAKING TIPS

Use level measurements.

Use standard half-pint measuring cups.

Always sift flour once before measuring.

Oven temperatures should be learned. A slow oven is 300 degrees; a moderate oven is 350 degrees, and a hot oven 425 degrees.

When filling a cup with flour do so with a tablespoon, being careful not to pack down tightly. When heaping full level it off by scraping off excess with a sharp knife.

MY HUSBAND WAS MAKING EYES AT ANOTHER WOMAN'S COFFEE!
HOLD YOUR CUP STILL, TOM, AND I'LL POUR YOUR COFFEE.
I'M GOING TO TRY SOME OF JEANNE'S DEAR. I CAN'T RESIST THAT AROMA.
I OUGHT TO BE ANGRY AT YOU, BUT JEANNE, YOUR COFFEE DOES SMELL HEAVENLY. MIND IF I SAMPLE IT?
GO AHEAD, JANET, IT'S FOLGER'S—AND IT TASTES AS GOOD AS IT SMELLS.
FOLGER'S? ISN'T THAT THE MOUNTAIN GROWN COFFEE I'VE HEARD SO MUCH ABOUT?
YES, AND DO YOU KNOW, IT'S FLAVOR IS SO RICH I CAN USE ONE-FOURTH LESS!
NEXT EVENING
FILL 'ER UP AGAIN DARLING. IT TAKES MY WIFE TO KNOW GOOD COFFEE WHEN SHE FINDS IT.
AND WITH A COFFEE LOVER LIKE YOU IN THE HOUSEHOLD, WE'LL STICK TO FOLGERS FROM NOW ON.
Only coffee from the Magic Mountains gives you this VIGOROUS FLAVOR!
A Mountain of Flavor in Every Spoonful!
FOLGER'S COFFEE
THERE is a secret to the wonderful flavor of Folger's coffee. That secret lies in the "Magic Mountains" whence it comes, tropic mountains so fertile that experts call it the world's coffee paradise. Coffee grown here has an amazingly vigorous flavor... indeed so rich that many housewives say you can use ¼ less. Remember the name Folger's—you'll not forget the taste!
